Cease-Fire Doesn't Stop Algeria Fights

Strikes Bring on Standstill

Underground Is Holding to Stand

ALGIERS (AP)— A cease-fire ending the savage 7½-year Algerian nationalist rebellion went into effect at noon today. But the third force in the ordeal of Algeria, the European Secret Army, struck back with crippling general strikes and terrorist attacks.

Vowing to keep Algeria French, the secret army's call for a 24-hour strike halted all but essential services in Algiers and brought business to a standstill in Oran, Algeria's second largest city. The underground army warned the real fighting was just beginning.

Keeps on Attacking

Terrorist attacks erupted in Algiers despite reinforcements of French soldiers sent into the city. Gunfire and explosions rang through Oran, where AP correspondent Rodney Angove said no French troops were seen in the center of the city. Authorities gave no casualty figures.

Oran, a right-wing stronghold, had all communications cut with France by secret army saboteurs, Angove reported. He said all stores were closed as Europeans rallied to the secret army's strike call.

Air France and Air Algerie canceled all flights from France to Algeria because airport personnel in Algiers and Oran joined the general strike.

Orders War Footing

Fugitive ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, head of the secret army, ordered his European followers on a war footing Sunday even as President Charles de Gaulle was announcing the cease-fire agreement and urging Frenchmen and Moslem alike to forget their differences.

The secret army has called the cease-fire agreement betrayal, and its announced campaign to challenge De Gaulle's authority brought uneasiness among Algerian nationalists who signed the agreement with France at Evian.

"The cease-fire has not brought peace to Algeria," declared Algerian nationalist Premier Ben Youssef ben Khedda, whose group will share with France the main burden of ruling turbulent Algeria until a self-determination vote this summer charts the territory's future.

Would Sabotage Peace

"There still are enemies of peace there," he said in Rome en route from Tunisia to Morocco. He referred to "groups whose interest it is to sabotage the peace."

Throughout Algeria, the Moslem majority was under orders from its leaders to refrain from demonstrations or contacts with Europeans that might lead to disorders.

In an order of the day, Gen. Charles Ailleret, French supreme commander in Algeria, told the French army "to continue to make sure that disorder does not prevail, whoever are those who

Police to Probe Youth Taunting Of Colonel Glenn

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Teenage boys who scuffled with astronaut John H. Glenr Jr. at his church have told police they did not realize who he was.

One boy was quoted as saying if he realized it was Glenn he would have tried to shake the Marine lieutenant colonel's hand.

The boy tried to prevent Glenn from recording the license number of the youths' car at the Little Falls United Presbyterian church.

In an interview with the Washington Star, juvenile officer W. K. Davis also reported that a separate group of youths whom the astronaut encountered earlier in the evening of March 10 did recognize him and one deliberately taunted him.

This boy, referring to Glenn's space capsule which landed in the ocean after his triple circuit of the earth Feb. 20, sang: "Beer can in the ocean. Beer can in the ocean."

Police are continuing their investigation.

Would Sit With U.S. and Britain

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today it was ready to negotiate with the United States and Britain on a nuclear test ban treaty. But it stood firm against allowing international inspection teams on its soil.

The action opened new prospects of East-West talks on the deadlocked issue, although it did not resolve any of the differences blocking a treaty. If agreement can be reached on a test ban pact, President Kennedy has announced he will cancel next month's scheduled start on a new series of U.S. atmospheric tests.

Made by Zorin

The Russian announcement was made by Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at a news conference. His statement coincided with information from Western delegations that the United States and Britain have finally agreed on concessions to offer Russia in an effort to meet Soviet objections to international inspection.

The offer probably will be made Tuesday. It is understood that the Western powers would reduce the number of inspection trips which teams of international inspectors could make around the Soviet Union. Much Soviet territory also would be eliminated from any inspection at all.

Home Returns

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home returned to Geneva from weekend consultations in London with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Allied diplomats said they believed Macmillan had been in touch with Kennedy on nailing down the concessions. Macmillan is said to be even more anxious than Kennedy to show that if the U.S. tests are held every possible effort was made to avoid them.

Zorin said the Soviet Union would like to negotiate here with the United States, Britain and France on a nuclear test ban. The great powers would form a subcommittee of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Since France is boycotting the conference, Zorin said Russia was "also ready to continue negotiations" among the three powers.

Other Actions

At the news conference, Zorin also:

1. Said the Soviet draft treaty for total disarmament by three stages in four years should be the basis for negotiations here, especially since, he said, the United

Police Warn Boys Against Fires, Appeal to Parents

Local police today issued a warning against the practice among young boys of setting fires, and requesting parents to cooperate in keeping their children from this and other forms of vandalism.

Police vigilance was ordered increased in the downtown area after a report Saturday that "Quite a bit of damage had been done by fire during the past couple of days" at the Dwyer Boat Basin, off Abeel Stret.

Several Fires Set

One boat was reported badly damaged by fire, others were tampered with, and seven were broken into. Small fires had been set in several places in the area.

Storage of gasoline and oil at the boat basin increases threat of serious fire damage there through such wanton play among boys, police emphasized, and they warned parents to keep their children out of the area and out of all such mischief.

One boy was injured at the boat basin recently, they noted, when he stepped on a nail.

Making Probe

Detectives Gurnsey Burger and Harold DeGraff began an investigation after the report Saturday of damage at the boat basin.

Police were also notified of a

IBM Computer System Airlifted to London

The world's most powerful computer arrived at London Airport today. The IBM 7030 STRETCH system left New York's Idlewild Airport this past weekend aboard two Seaboard World Airlines CL44 air cargo planes.

The large-scale electronic data processing system will be delivered by IBM-United Kingdom to the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority.

The STRETCH system was developed by IBM at Poughkepesie and assembled and tested at the IBM plant in Kingston.

Third for AEO

This is the third such system to be delivered by IBM to an Atomic Energy Organization. The first two were delivered to the Los Alamos (New Mexico) Laboratory of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission and to the U. S. AEC Laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

The solid-state STRETCH can perform more than 30 billion multiplications in a 24-hour period. The computer attains its high speeds through use of ultra-fast circuits, transistors and circuit components. Working with 14-digit numbers (trillionths), STRETCH can make an addition in 1.5 microseconds (millionths of a second). The system can make a multiplication in 2.7 microseconds and a division in 10 microseconds. This speed makes possible solutions to scientific problems for which equations are known but which were previously too large or complex for solution for a reasonable cost, or in a reasonable length of time.

Frondizi Orders Federal Control As Peronists Win

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi today ordered federal control in all provinces where Peronists won in Sunday's nationwide congressional and provincial elections.

The move enables Frondizi to name governors for the provinces and in effect nullifies the effects of the balloting, which resulted in a Peronist landslide and a sharp setback to Frondizi's government.

Win Over 30 Seats

Latest unofficial returns showed that followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron won more than 30 seats in the national Congress and 10 governors' posts including that of Buenos Aires Province, which is second to the presidency in political power and prestige.

Frondizi acted at about 5 a.m. after Argentina's armed forces chiefs met with Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo to consider whether to form a military junta to deal with the crisis.

Asked to Intervene

The military chiefs called on Frondizi to intervene and demanded the resignation of Vitolo, who had mapped the strategy of Sunday's election. Vitolo reportedly already had submitted his resignation, but government house sources said Frondizi had not decided whether to accept it.

Jubilant Peronists hailed the outcome as a recall for their exiled leader, but there was doubt the military, which threw Peron out in 1955, would permit his followers to regain control.

After the voting trend became clear, Frondizi's ruling Intransigent Radical party issued a warning that the Peronist victory could cause chaos in Argentina.

Peron was not present to taste the fruits of his victory. He was reported following the returns by telephone from exile in Madrid.

Stresses Construction Speed

Rocky Anxious to Cut Red Tape on Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will ask the Legislature to free the State University construction program from normal channels of state government so it can be accelerated.

The university has embarked on a $700-million program to double enrollments, to 106,000, by 1970.

But this goal will not be met under the present schedule of expansion of the university, a complex of 51 schools throughout the state.

Desires Agency

The governor has announced he would submit this week legislation to establish a State University Construction Fund, a three-member agency that would have power to cut through red tape and put university buildings under construction.

The agency will begin functioning May 1. No members have been named.

The fund would be supported in part by direct appropriations from state government. It also could borrow money from such state agencies as the employers' retirement fund. The money would be repaid with income from students, who pay fees, and, in some cases, tuition.

Ways Not Announced

The specific ways in which officials of the fund would cut through red tape have not been made public.

But, it appears, the new agency would have more power to launch construction projects independently of the Public Works Department and the Budget Bureau, which now have a major voice in construction.

The announcement of the new legislative program came Sunday as lawmakers entered the final two weeks of the 1962 session.

If the Legislature is to adjourn March 31 as expected, the members have 10 days in which to resolve such major problems as state aid to education, reapportionment, the supplementary budget and creation of additional judicial posts.

Five Villages Are To Elect Tuesday, Contests in Two

A controversy regarding the eligibility of a candidate developed in the Saugerties Village election, one of five scheduled in the incorporated villages of Ulster County on Tuesday.

Contests are reported in only two — Saugerties and Ellenville.

Reaches Fever Pitch

The contest in Saugerties reached fever pitch today with the announcement by a spokesman for the incumbent Independent Party that Frank M. Hughes, Village Party candidate for police justice is ineligible due to a property ownership requirement.

Hughes opposes incumbent Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr., who is running for reelection on the Independent ticket.

Louis P. Francello, village attorney said it appears that Hughes is ineligible because he was not a property owner in the village at the time the nominating petition was signed.

John Amrod, attorney for the Village Party said today although Hughes does not own property in the village, Section 42 of Village Law states a candidate for police justice need not

Stresses Construction Speed

Rocky Anxious to Cut Red Tape on Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will ask the Legislature to free the State University construction program from normal channels of state government so it can be accelerated.

The university has embarked on a $700-million program to double enrollments, to 106,000, by 1970.

The agency will begin functioning May 1. No members have been named.

The fund would be supported in part by direct appropriations from state government. It also could borrow money from such state agencies as the employers' retirement fund. The money would be repaid with income from students, who pay fees, and, in some cases, tuition.

Hope Diminishes For 107 Aboard Transport Plane

MANILA (AP)—A report of a mysterious flash of light in the sky increased suspicion today that the American chartered military transport plane which vanished five nights ago blew up and was possibly sabotaged.

U.S. officials said a "bright light strong enough to light" a ship's decks was sighted by a Liberian tanker in the western Pacific along the scheduled route of the missing Flying Tiger Super Constellation bound for South Viet Nam with 107 persons aboard.

A spokesman at rescue headquarters in Guam said, "With the search in its fourth day, more credence is given to the possibility that the tanker may have seen the missing aircraft explode in flight."

An official of the Flying Tiger line, which operated the plane, said if investigation reveals the plane blew up, it would strengthen previous suspicions of sabotage.

Frank B. Lynoff, executive vice president in charge of operations, said experts consider it impossible for a violent explosion to occur about its Super Constellations under normal conditions.

The tanker T. L. Linzen said it sighted the bright light in the sky early Friday morning—about 90 minutes after the plane made its last report.

The Super Constellation was last heard from about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, 270 miles west of Guam, and gave no hint of anything amiss.

necessarily own real estate in the village. Trustee candidates, however, must own property to run for election, he said.

Not Authorized

Francello said he had not been authorized to start court action to declare Hughes ineligible. However, he said, if Hughes were elected, court action would be necessary.

Amrod, speaking for the Village Party said there had been some reports circulated in the area that the Village Party nominating petitions were not legal and he challenged the Independent Party to prove this.

Running on the Independent ticket in addition to Hughes are George Terpening Jr., and Jesse Van Gaasbeek, for reelection as village trustees, and Albert L. Giannotti for the trustee post held by Cornelius M. Cox, who is now a member of the Village Party.

List Voting Hours

Saugerties voters will cast ballots at the Village Clerk's Office, Partition Street from noon to 9 p. m.

Ellenville Village Board is Republican with the exception of Mayor Eugene Glusker.

Ellenville voters will ballot at Scoresby Hose Company clubhouse from noon to 8 p. m.

Cease-Fire

Praises Nationalists

He also paid tribute to the Algerian nationalists who fought the war that cost the lives of 17,250 French soldiers and 141,000 Moslems. He called the rebels "an adversary frequently exalted but always courageous."

A French army spokesman said there had been no firing between the nationalist rebels and the army anywhere in the field for several hours before the cease-fire order went into effect.

More bloodshed threatened before Algeria gains independence as the underground army of European settlers defiantly proclaimed: "Now the real fighting has begun."

Aim at Big Cities

As the first show of strength, the secret army called a general strike in Algeria's major cities for 24 hours and urged Europeans to remain indoors.

The walkout that went into effect at midnight crippled the capital city of Algiers but the French army was in tight control.

Jean Morin, French delegate general, appealed to both Europeans and Moslems to remain calm. He told the Europeans, "I know the solution (the cease-fire) is not the one you wanted but it is a solution of reality." He warned them against "a catastrophe of senseless resistance" and counseled the Moslem majority to show "patience and prudence in the weeks to come."

The strike call was to demonstrate that the million European settlers—only one-tenth of Algeria's population—control the country's economic life and can cripple it at will.

Obstacles Noted

French President Charles de Gaulle, acknowledging there still were last obstacles to be cleared up, brushed off the terrorist threat. He appealed to the French people for support of the cease-fire even though it marks the end of the French empire.

The 71-year-old French leader, who returned to power four years ago with the backing of former French army officers now leading the fight against him in Algeria, declared in a nationwide broadcast Sunday night that he had achieved a "solution of good sense."

U.S. President Kennedy hailed the agreement as providing "a sound basis for a friendly and fruitful relationship between Algeria and France."

Other West European countries and neutralist nations showed a surge of relief after years of fear that the North African revolt would explode into an international conflict.

Premier Khrushchev announced the Soviet government had granted De Jure recognition—recognition in law—to the provisional Algerian government that negotiated the peace agreement with France and said Moscow was ready to establish diplomatic relations with it.

What They Say

Details of the peace accord were not published immediately but they call for:

Creation of a 12-man provisional committee to run the country under a French high commissioner during the interim period until an independent Algerian government takes over. The committee will have four Moslem nationalist representatives, four nonaligned Moslems and four Algerian Europeans.

A self-determination referendum—sure to approve independence—and general elections to name an Algerian parliament within 3 to 6 months.

Gradual withdrawal of French troops, with France to retain the Mers-el-Kebir naval base near Oran under a lease.

Guarantees for rights of the million European settlers who will fall under Moslem rule.

Establishment of two martial courts—one in Algiers, the other in Oran—to deal with terrorism by both Europeans and Moslems.

Joint development of the Sahara Desert's oil and minerals by France and the new Algerian regime.

Release of Mohammed ben Bella, deputy premier of the provisional Algerian government, and four other nationalist cabinet ministers who spent nearly six years in French jails. They were immediately flown t Geneva.

Amnesty for thousands of other Algerian political prisoners being held by the French.

Hope Diminishes For 107 Aboard Transport Plane

MANILA (AP)—A report of a mysterious flash of light in the sky increased suspicion today that the American chartered military transport plane which vanished five nights ago blew up and was possibly sabotaged.

U.S. officials said a "bright light strong enough to light" a ship's decks was sighted by a Liberian tanker in the western Pacific along the scheduled route of the missing Flying Tiger Super Constellation bound for South Viet Nam with 107 persons aboard.

A spokesman at rescue headquarters in Guam said, "With the search in its fourth day, more credence is given to the possibility that the tanker may have seen the missing aircraft explode in flight."

An official of the Flying Tiger line, which operated the plane, said if investigation reveals the plane blew up, it would strengthen previous suspicions of sabotage.

Frank B. Lynoff, executive vice president in charge of operations, said experts consider it impossible for a violent explosion to occur about its Super Constellations under normal conditions.

The tanker T. L. Linzen said it sighted the bright light in the sky early Friday morning—about 90 minutes after the plane made its last report.

The Super Constellation was last heard from about 10:30 p.m. Thursday, 270 miles west of Guam, and gave no hint of anything amiss.

necessarily own real estate in the village. Trustee candidates, however, must own property to run for election, he said.

Not Authorized

Francello said he had not been authorized to start court action to declare Hughes ineligible. However, he said, if Hughes were elected, court action would be necessary.

Amrod, speaking for the Village Party said there had been some reports circulated in the area that the Village Party nominating petitions were not legal and he challenged the Independent Party to prove this.

Running on the Independent ticket in addition to Hughes are George Terpening Jr., and Jesse Van Gaasbeek, for reelection as village trustees, and Albert L. Giannotti for the trustee post held by Cornelius M. Cox, who is now a member of the Village Party.

List Voting Hours

Saugerties voters will cast ballots at the Village Clerk's Office, Partition Street from noon to 9 p. m.

At Ellenville, regular political party candidates are seeking election to three village trustee posts.

Republican candidates are incumbent trustees Jerome Z. Elkin and DeWitt Clinton, and Anthony Percoco. who is seeking the trustee post vacated by Frank Greco, who is now a member of the Town Board.

Democratic candidates are Joseph Grable, Robert Weinstein and Henry Solomon, all newcomers to the village political field. Grable and Weinstein are seeking the two-year trustee posts and Solomon is seeking election to the one-year vacancy position.

Ellenville Village Board is Republican with the exception of Mayor Eugene Glusker.

Ellenville voters will ballot at Scoresby Hose Company clubhouse from noon to 8 p. m.

Running Unopposed

In Rosendale, incumbent Trustee Arthur Mulligan is running for reelection unopposed.

Balloting will be from 5 to 9 p. m. at the Village Hall.

New Paltz voters wil cast ballots from 3 to 7 p. m. in the municipal building.

Cease-Fire

Praises Nationalists

He also paid tribute to the Algerian nationalists who fought the war that cost the lives of 17,250 French soldiers and 141,000 Moslems. He called the rebels "an adversary frequently exalted but always courageous."

A French army spokesman said there had been no firing between the nationalist rebels and the army anywhere in the field for several hours before the cease-fire order went into effect.

More bloodshed threatened before Algeria gains independence as the underground army of European settlers defiantly proclaimed: "Now the real fighting has begun."

Aim at Big Cities

As the first show of strength, the secret army called a general strike in Algeria's major cities for 24 hours and urged Europeans to remain indoors.

The walkout that went into effect at midnight crippled the capital city of Algiers but the French army was in tight control.

Jean Morin, French delegate general, appealed to both Europeans and Moslems to remain calm. He told the Europeans, "I know the solution (the cease-fire) is not the one you wanted but it is a solution of reality." He warned them against "a catastrophe of senseless resistance" and counseled the Moslem majority to show "patience and prudence in the weeks to come."

The strike call was to demonstrate that the million European settlers—only one-tenth of Algeria's population—control the country's economic life and can cripple it at will.

Obstacles Noted

French President Charles de Gaulle, acknowledging there still were last obstacles to be cleared up, brushed off the terrorist threat. He appealed to the French people for support of the cease-fire even though it marks the end of the French empire.

The 71-year-old French leader, who returned to power four years ago with the backing of former French army officers now leading the fight against him in Algeria, declared in a nationwide broadcast Sunday night that he had achieved a "solution of good sense."

U.S. President Kennedy hailed the agreement as providing "a sound basis for a friendly and fruitful relationship between Algeria and France."

Other West European countries and neutralist nations showed a surge of relief after years of fear that the North African revolt would explode into an international conflict.

Premier Khrushchev announced the Soviet government had granted De Jure recognition—recognition in law—to the provisional Algerian government that negotiated the peace agreement with France and said Moscow was ready to establish diplomatic relations with it.

What They Say

Details of the peace accord were not published immediately but they call for:

Creation of a 12-man provisional committee to run the country under a French high commissioner during the interim period until an independent Algerian government takes over. The committee will have four Moslem nationalist representatives, four nonaligned Moslems and four Algerian Europeans.

A self-determination referendum—sure to approve independence—and general elections to name an Algerian parliament within 3 to 6 months.

Gradual withdrawal of French troops, with France to retain the Mers-el-Kebir naval base near Oran under a lease.

Guarantees for rights of the million European settlers who will fall under Moslem rule.

Establishment of two martial courts—one in Algiers, the other in Oran—to deal with terrorism by both Europeans and Moslems.

Joint development of the Sahara Desert's oil and minerals by France and the new Algerian regime.

Release of Mohammed ben Bella, deputy premier of the provisional Algerian government, and four other nationalist cabinet ministers who spent nearly six years in French jails. They were immediately flown t Geneva.

Amnesty for thousands of other Algerian political prisoners being held by the French.

Arbitration of all disputes in carrying out the agreement.

This is believed to be one of the largest single shipments of its type ever carried by air. The two CL44 planes are new all-cargo Trans-Atlantic aircraft with swing tails for loading. If the shipment had been carried by conventional cargo planes, up to seven aircraft would have been required.

Apathy Is Blamed For Holding Back CD

NEW YORK (AP)—Public apathy has held back New York State's Civil Defense program, including construction of fallout shelters, says Lt. Gen. F.W. Farrell, state Civil Defense director.

Farrell said he and Gov. Rockefeller believe Civil Defense programs to be worthwhile, and the "lack of public response should not stop us."

"Progress is being made, but not nearly as much as we'd like to see," he said Sunday night on a television program.

Most Farmers Have New Market For Milk Supply

At the recent meeting of the New Paltz Town Board, Supervisor, Peter Savago reported that to date all but six of the local farmers who have lost their milk market through the closing of the local creamery, Consumer-Farmer Milk Cooperative — have found other markets for the sale of their milk. Those who have not found markets have either price or health requirement problems.

Savago and Peter Harp, town attorney, reported that they had appeared before the Equalization Board at Albany recently to protest the lowering of the equalization rate for New Paltz from 14 to 13. They were advised that they would be allowed 10 days to file a written complaint.

Town Clerk Theodore Lasher announced that 47 dogs in the town are still without licenses. The board agreed that the Justices send these dog owners summonses by March 26.

The board also authorized the Justices to attend an advanced course for justices of the peace to be given in Kingston by the Ulster County Magistrates Association. The course will consist of 15 sessions. The Board will pay the required tuition fee and will reimburse each justice for mileage.

Issac Pole, highway superintendent, reported that he has planned to improve the road called Schrieber's Lane. He reported that he already has the material for a new bridge over a small brook, but that aquisition of a small piece of property is needed to straighten the road. Pole will talk to Peter Harp about surveying the portion of private property. The board authorized Pole to purchase at his discretion, road oil, crushed stone and pipe for culverts through a county bid.

Savago reported that due to the recent heavy rainfall that he and other members of the fire department had been kept very busy pumping water from many flooded cellars in the village.

The financial report of the supervisor showed that $5,183.88 per capita state aid had been received last month.

140-Member Unit Seeks Course in African Studies

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—John Weiss, a Princeton University junior from Rome, N.Y., is head of a 140-member organization pressing for a course in African studies at Princeton.

Weiss, 20, said, "the Princeton curriculum has not recognized that Africa exists."

He said his group, the Princeton African Affairs Committee, is "a pressure group to agitate for an expanding program in African affairs. We want several African politics courses, two or three in African history, courses in African sociology, literature and art forms."

He said the lack of African courses at Princeton results from the newness of the field. "Africa has just burst on the American scene," he said.

The committee, of which Weiss is chairman, also has collected nearly 1,000 books for the University of Lagos, Nigeria. The university opens this fall.

HUMANE SLAUGHTERING

The Freeman has received letters from local area residents asking that we remind our readers that there are bills pending in the Senate and Assembly which would provide for humane slaughter in New York State.

In urging local residents to express their views to Senator E. Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, they ask if it doesn't seem absurd beyond belief that we not only cause dumb animals that serve us untold suffering, but that we make it necessary for someone to earn his daily bread by whacking animals on the head and then stringing them up alive to be eviscerated.

There is a federal humane slaughter law enacted in 1958, but this measure only applies to animals used for meat sold to the federal government.

The Council of State Government has drafted a model bill which is needed to extend protection from cruel, painful slaughtering methods to meat animals not protected by the federal law.

The bill requires that meat animals be rendered insensible to pain before being shackled, hoisted, thrown, knifed, cast bled, scalded or skinned. Packers may use any of the following methods: carbon dioxide anesthetization, captive-bolt pistols or electric stunning. All of the methods are said to be humane, efficient and economical.

Twelve states now have adopted this law, but New York is not among them. That is why State Senator Conklin has introduced such a bill in the Legislature.

It is high time that New York State halted the cruelties that commercial slaughtering permits. The bill should be passed at this session of the Legislature.

FITNESS IN MUSKOGEE

The children of Muckogee, Okla., are lucky. Because their town was chosen as one of the pilot communities for the national Youth Fitness Council's tests, they have been involved in a systematic program to develop fitness. There is reason to believe that both muscles and morale have already been improved.

There is no implication, here, that Muskogee has introduced something entirely new to the public school system. Virtually all schools have some sort of physical education program, and in some the training is excellent. Some communities also lag in this respect, however, and it is they that could learn a valuable lesson from the experience in Muskogee.

All but a few of that town's 10,000 school children are involved in daily physical exercise; they run, jump, bend, stretch and tug under the supervision of their teachers. After a few months of this, they showed striking improvement in a variety of tests worked out by the Fitness Council. Moreover, the push to be fit has caught on among the town's adults. There is a new appreciation of the ancient Greek dictum, "A sane mind in a sound body."

Certainly the Muskogee experience is not the whole answer to the problem of building strength and agility among young people living in a softer environment than their grandparents dreamed of. It does appear to be a worthwhile move in the right direction, a move many another community might emulate.

ENEMY OF HUMANITY

If the socialists and other left-wing groups had their way, private enterprise would virtually vanish. Total government would own and operate and boss everything of any size and significance.

In that event—as history so abundantly proves—the people would be tools of the state, to be used as the masters dictated. Liberty and freedom, as we understand the words, would be gone. For when government controls the economic life of a nation, it controls all the other elements as well.

On purely practical grounds, representative government is supported by the voluntary activities of private enterprise and individuals—and taxes on their earnings and property. Take, for instance, the financial experience of one American oil company which operates on an international scale. Last year it paid governments, here and abroad, the almost incredible sum of $2,838,000,000 in income and operating taxes, together with import duties, consumer taxes and other such levies.

Total government by whatever name we call it, which depends on forced labor instead of taxes on the earnings of free enterprise, is the enemy of human well-being—both material and spiritual. It drains life dry from the cradle to the grave.

THE SUPREME COURT

I have a rather remarkable letter from a reader in Phoenix, Arizona, which explains to me why the teaching of civics should be restored to the public schools. The writer says:

"It is my belief that the duty of the Supreme Court, when a case comes before it, to decide it on the basis of law or whether the constitution has been violated. That they should be able lawyers, know the law or where to find it, and be thoroughly familiar with the constitution. They should not be politicians.

"Frequently cases are decided on a five to four basis. One side will claim some law or the constitution has been violated. How can that be possible? If they all know what the constitution says how can a decision be other than unanimous, one way or the other."

The questions raised here are only difficult to answer because the writer apparently cannot envisage the Supreme Court, which consists of nine men appointed for life, all of whom are lawyers and know the Constitution. But the Constitution, like the Ten Commandments, is a tightly drawn document which from time to time requires interpretation.

For instance, we have moved into a wholly new relationship between government and production arising out of the fact that many industries are forced to unite to produce the kind of goods that the government buys such as missiles, rockets, satellites, etc. These cannot be made by small enterprises or by a single company. Some 2000 American industries played a role in the Manhattan Project which produced the atom bomb. The application of the anti-trust laws to production will have to be re-interpreted to meet these conditions. In fact, both large and small industries are now essential — but the big ones are generally enormous.

Or to give another example: villages and even small towns are being deserted and more and more people are moving into large cities. The urbanization of our population has raised many questions of inter-racial relations in a country where there are about 19,000,000 Negroes, many of whom have in recent years left farms and plantations and moved to large cities; some of whom have fought in two wars abroad; others of whom have been to college. They have raised questions as to their rights under the Constitution which the Supreme Court had to hear.

A five to four decision is in no manner a violation of propriety; it simply means that nine trained lawyers of distinction have reached different conclusions in their interpretation of the identical clause in the Constitution as applied to a current situation brought before them. The Supreme Court initiates nothing. It does not act on a case unless it comes up to it from a lower court. The Supreme Court reviews decisions; it does not try cases. Naturally, each justice applies his own judgement to a problem; otherwise he would not perform any useful service.

This kind of correspondence is not unusual these days. I receive quite a few letters which attack the Supreme Court, the way the Communists used to. The attack is generally on Chief Justice Earl Warren who is being held responsible for the integration decision, although nine justices were responsible for it. Again, it needs to be pointed out that the Supreme Court did not initiate this case; that it comes from the lower courts, as all cases must, on appeal.

The attack on political judges is usually an attack on Chief Justice Warren, although Chief Justice Taft and Chief Justice Hughes were politicians of enormous dimensions before they found their places on the bench. Taft had been President; Hughes had been Governor of New York State and a candidate for President. Justice Hugo Black was a Senator and had, in his younger years, been a member of the Ku Klux Klan; yet today he is regarded as the most liberal judge on the bench. Justice Felix Frankfurter was a professor and was regarded as a radical; today he is probably the most correctly oriented and conservative member of the Court.

In a word, my correspondent ought to take a trip to Washington to see the Supreme Court at work and then he would understand what a magnificent institution it has been throughout our history. And he ought to read a good biography of Chief Justice John Marshall to learn how the Court came to be what it is.

Cold Does Not Spawn Colds, New Tests Show

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Despite conclusive proof that the common cold and related upper respiratory infections are caused by viruses, the belief continues to prevail that the cause is exposure to low temperatures or to drafts or both.

It is often the custom to overdress and overbundle children so that, on going outdoors, they are scarcely able to waddle, much less exercise. What little sunshine there is exerts its beneficial effects on no more than a few square inches of face.

All this does not protect against respiratory infection and, by weakening their defense mechanisms, it may even increase their liability to virus invasion.

Recent studies made on our troops stationed in Alaska and Greenland are of interest. Although I'll confess I'm delighted I was not one one of those tested, measurements of shivering, oxygen consumption and skin and rectal temperatures were made after exposure of nude subjects to a predetermined degree of cold. After 52 days of winter maneuvers in Alaska and 43 days in Greenland, the tests were repeated to determine how the men fared under these trying climatic conditions.

Except for the shivering response, none of the other factors tested showed any significant effect, but shivering was reduced 50 per cent in the Alaskan subjects and 80 per cent in the Greenlanders.

No one, so far as reported, developed a cold or any other respiratory infection as a result of testing. Even the most ardent supporter of the cold theory for colds must admit that standing nude in an Arctic winter ought to bring on a cold if cold alone can do it. As to the reduction in the shivering response, I can only regard that as a positive accomplishment, indicative of an improved reaction to climatic conditions of such severity that I shiver just thinking about them.

None of this, I'm sure, will prevent mothers from swathing their youngsters in layers and layers of woolens covered over with sweaters and coats, and topped off by mufflers and caps with earlaps and brims that extend over the eyebrows.

"... Add Nitroglycerin and Stand Back"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Congressional approval of a compromise $435 million, three-year program to retrain workers displaced by machines is the first step in the attack on unemployment.

BEST ESTIMATES ARE that this will provide retraining for 680,000 workers: 180,000 the first year, 250,000 in each of the two succeeding years. Costs may average $30 to $50 a week for from 20 to 52 weeks per worker, depending on skill required.

This program will supplement that of another 6,000 workers already being retrained in 52 area redevelopment projects authorized by Congress last year. More of these projects will be started at an accelerated rate before and after the new program gets under way.

But the two programs combined won't begin to solve the whole unemployment problem as its dimensions are now known.

Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg estimates that at the average 3 per cent annual growth rate, about 1.8 million workers are now displaced by automation every year.

If this is so, it means that 35,000 workers are losing their jobs to machines every month. This is the size of the problem. It is obvious that the technologically unemployed are not being retrained this fast. But it is also apparent that not all of the displaced workers stay unemployed. If they did, total unemployment would be increasing instead of declining.

SOME WORKERS AUTOMATED OUT OF JOBS are retrained by private industry for new skills. Others have the wit and resources to retrain themselves or go find other jobs.

Removing the cause for technological unemployment by curbing automation for increased productivity is not the solution, though it is one answer offered by some labor union leaders.

Others: maintenance of featherbedding or make-work rules, reduction of the work week, payment of longer term unemployment insurance or larger severance pay on dismissal, earlier retirement and guaranteed pensions. These are some of the demands in current labor contract negotiations, and they are being fought.

THE PRESIDENT'S LABOR-MANAGEMENT advisory subcommittee on automation disagreed on most of these issues. But they did agree unanimously on three central principles:

1. Automation is essential for increased productivity and the general welfare.

2. This progress must be achieved without sacrifice of human values.

3. Technological development with adequate safeguards against economic injury to individuals is the joint responsibility of private industry and government.

The pig picture includes, in addition to the 1.8 million technically unemployed each year: the 1.2 million new workers entering the labor force each year, the 4.5 million now unemployed and the 2.0 million working only part time.

For the solution or reduction of this whole unemployment problem, admittedly the biggest and most important internal issue today, the Kennedy administration offers a comprehensive package. It is admittedly far more controversial than the retaining program just approved. It includes:

- A grant of authority to the President for temporary reduction of low-bracket income taxes in time of recession.
- Authority to launch public works programs prepared in advance and kept on the shelf till needed to make jobs.
- Adult education for seven million illiterates and some solution for craft union discrimination. (These are major handicaps to increased employment opportunities.)
- Trade, tax and other economic incentives to increase the 3.5 per cent average annual growth rate and create more jobs.

This is the program now before Congress. If it isn't the best solution for the unemployment problem, the challenge to the Republicans, in their desire to create a more positive image in this election year, is to come up with a better one.

Protecting the Consumer: What Message Left Out

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It is reported that somebody among the White House aids thought up a good title for a special message to Congress — "protecting the consumer interest" — and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put into it.

The net result was a hodge podge of recommendations, but the message was really signficant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening pragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of single-spaced typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency.

What Was Let Out

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the Administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer. He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices." But why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field? Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the pure food and drug act has been on the statute books for decades and that the Federal Trade Commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

How much of the taxpayers' money has already gone into the regulatory agencies of the government, and is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

Highway Safety

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to drivers and conduct periodic inspections of cars? Yet the President seems to think that "changes in automobile design and equipment" can reduce the casualties — as if the auto manufacturers themselves haven't been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs "in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs he actually needs at the lowest competitive price."

But "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up. If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine, or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it. Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. But hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the Food and Drug Administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the Postoffice Department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special-delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the postoffices are closed over the weekends and hence no special-delivery service is provided. The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself.

Airmail Delivery

As to lack of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

And what about the misleading statements of politicians? Wouldn't it be "protecting the consumer interest" — or at least the "voter interest" —if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subject every day to the same strict standards of scrutiny and common honesty that Mr. Kennedy now recommends for salesmanship in business?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As a further commentary on the National Catholic Welfare Conference's warning to Catholics to shun "extremists of the right," I submit extracts from a recent leading editorial in the Brooklyn Tablet, the best lay diocesan paper in the country. The editor of the Tablet is Pat Scanlan, who is learned in his religion but wears no political badge. The NCWC is an organization of bishops that employs some laymen, apparently Democrats, and a staff of priests below the rank of bishop.

"For several months," The Tablet said editorially, "the public has been submerged with attacks on the 'Right,' the 'Extreme Right,' the 'Radical Right.' A situation has developed of a country about to be taken over by the John Birch Society or some extremists who seek to 'repudiate the 20th Century' and even to destroy the Ten Commandments."

As to whether repudiation of the 20th Century to date would be good or bad for mankind, I submit that the most notable contributions of the Century thus far have been:

1.—Semi-perpetual war since 1900.

2.—The rise of the Soviet Empire amid the worst massacres in history.

3.—Epidemics of 'flu and polio which previously were unknown.

6.—Lenin, Salin, Khrushchev, and Hitler.

To resume quotation from The Tablet: "At first the uproar came from some Democratic politicians but now it has spread to the Republicans. Thus, Senator Javits of New York finds his party in great danger of being absorbed by the 'ultra-conservatives.' He adds that to veer to the 'far out Right for ideas would be catastrophic to our social order.'"

Although Javits is legally a member of the Republican party he is no more devoted to Republican principles than Earl Warren was when he was governor of California. A catastrophe to his undefined social order might be a boon to the United States.

"These hysterical cries are not only spread in the daily press but have extended to the religious field," the Tablet continued. "We have read a dozen articles, nearly all of them serious, warning about the John Birch Society not only as a threat to the nation's security but to the welfare of the Catholic Church. Robert Welch seems to be replacing Khrushchev as a menace. To one who will take an objective look at the world around him, this is a riddle.

Our country is threatened by many things but that the John Birch Society is sweeping public opinion or is in any manner about to take over Washington is childish and ridiculous. It is shocking to observe the hate, the name-calling and the negative approach of these zealots," who now include the National Catholic Welfare Conference, which recently said, "Those who would have Americans concentrate on a minor threat of domestic subversion . . . are effectively aiding the Communist cause."

The Tablet says the "liberals" from the time of Roosevelt have used more frequently than any other element the strategy of using "more noise than sense" and have preferred "shouts and shrieks to reasonable expression, always creating the illusion that 'the reactionaries and the Copperheads' were their critics, just as now it is 'thunder of the right' which must be drowned out.

"We have more respect for our readers and more regard for ourselves than to join the coteries against unnamed extremists. This observation can be particularly made in Catholic Press Month."

Although the Tablet spoke thus before the issuance of the NCWC's attack on "unnamed extremists," this editorial anticipated and answered the NCWC's points with less restraint than probably would have been exercised if the NCWC had spoken first. In that case, the Tablet probably would not have described such outcries as "hysterical," "childish and ridiculous."

This kind of correspondence is not unusual these days. I receive quite a few letters which attack the Supreme Court, the way the Communists used to. The attack is generally on Chief Justice Earl Warren who is being held responsible for the integration decision, although nine justices were responsible for it. Again, it needs to be pointed out that the Supreme Court did not initiate this case; that it comes from the lower courts, as all cases must, on appeal.

The attack on political judges is usually an attack on Chief Justice Warren, although Chief Justice Taft and Chief Justice Hughes were politicians of enormous dimensions before they found their places on the bench. Taft had been President; Hughes had been Governor of New York State and a candidate for President. Justice Hugo Black was a Senator and had, in his younger years, been a member of the Ku Klux Klan; yet today he is regarded as the most liberal judge on the bench. Justice Felix Frankfurter was a professor and was regarded as a radical; today he is probably the most correctly oriented and conservative member of the Court.

In a word, my correspondent ought to take a trip to Washington to see the Supreme Court at work and then he would understand what a magnificent institution it has been throughout our history. And he ought to read a good biography of Chief Justice John Marshall to learn how the Court came to be what it is.

Cold Does Not Spawn Colds, New Tests Show

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Despite conclusive proof that the common cold and related upper respiratory infections are caused by viruses, the belief continues to prevail that the cause is exposure to low temperatures or to drafts or both.

It is often the custom to overdress and overbundle children so that, on going outdoors, they are scarcely able to waddle, much less exercise. What little sunshine there is exerts its beneficial effects on no more than a few square inches of face.

All this does not protect against respiratory infection and, by weakening their defense mechanisms, it may even increase their liability to virus invasion.

Recent studies made on our troops stationed in Alaska and Greenland are of interest. Although I'll confess I'm delighted I was not one one of those tested, measurements of shivering, oxygen consumption and skin and rectal temperaturees were made after exposure of nude subjects to a predetermined degree of cold. After 52 days of winter maneuvers in Alaska and 43 days in Greenland, the tests were repeated to determine how the men fared under these trying climatic conditions.

Except for the shivering response, none of the other factors tested showed any significant effect, but shivering was reduced 50 per cent in the Alaskan subjects and 80 per cent in the Greenlanders.

No one, so far as reported, developed a cold or any other respiratory infection as a result of testing. Even the most ardent supporter of the cold theory for colds must admit that standing nude in an Arctic winter ought to bring on a cold if cold alone can do it. As to the reduction in the shivering response, I can only regard that as a positive accomplishment, indicative of an improved reaction to climatic conditions of such severity that I shiver just thinking about them.

None of this, I'm sure, will prevent mothers from swathing their youngsters in layers and layers of woolens, covered over with sweaters and coats, and topped off by mufflers and caps with earlaps and brims that extend over the eyebrows.

"... Add Nitroglycerin and Stand Back"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Congressional approval of a compromise $435 million, three-year program to retrain workers displaced by machines is the first step in the attack on unemployment.

BEST ESTIMATES ARE that this will provide retraining for 680,000 workers: 180,000 the first year, 250,000 in each of the two succeeding years. Costs may average $30 to $50 a week for from 20 to 52 weeks per worker, depending on skill required.

This program will supplement that of another 6,000 workers already being retrained in 52 area redevelopment projects authorized by Congress last year. More of these projects will be started at an accelerated rate before and after the new program gets under way.

But the two programs combined won't begin to solve the whole unemployment problem as its dimensions are now known.

Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg estimates that at the average 3 per cent annual growth rate, about 1.8 million workers are now displaced by automation every year.

If this is so, it means that 35,000 workers are losing their jobs to machines every month. This is the size of the problem. It is obvious that the technologically unemployed are not being retrained this fast. But it is also apparent that not all of the displaced workers stay unemployed. If they did, total unemployment would be increasing instead of declining.

SOME WORKERS AUTOMATED OUT OF JOBS are retrained by private industry for new skills. Others have the wit and resources to retrain themselves or go find other jobs.

Removing the cause for technological unemployment by curbing automation for increased productivity is not the solution, though it is one answer offered by some labor union leaders.

Others: maintenance of featherbedding or make-work rules, reduction of the work week, payment of longer term unemployment insurance or larger severance pay on dismissal, earlier retirement and guaranteed pensions. These are some of the demands in current labor contract negotiations, and they are being fought.

THE PRESIDENT'S LABOR-MANAGEMENT advisory subcommittee on automation disagreed on most of these issues. But they did agree unanimously on three central principles:

1. Automation is essential for increased productivity and the general welfare.

2. This progress must be achieved without sacrifice of human values.

3. Technological development with adequate safeguards against economic injury to individuals is the joint responsibility of private industry and government.

The pig picture includes, in addition to the 1.8 million technically unemployed each year: the 1.2 million new workers entering the labor force each year, the 4.5 million now unemployed and the 2.0 million working only part time.

For the solution or reduction of this whole unemployment problem, admittedly the biggest and most important internal issue today, the Kennedy administration offers a comprehensive package. It is admittedly far more controversial than the retaining program just approved. It includes:

- A grant of authority to the President for temporary reduction of low-bracket income taxes in time of recession.
- Authority to launch public works programs prepared in advance and kept on the shelf till needed to make jobs.
- Adult education for seven million illiterates and some solution for craft union discrimination. (These are major handicaps to increased employment opportunities.)
- Trade, tax and other economic incentives to increase the 3.5 per cent average annual growth rate and create more jobs.

This is the program now before Congress. If it isn't the best solution for the unemployment problem, the challenge to the Republicans, in their desire to create a more positive image in this election year, is to come up with a better one.

Protecting the Consumer: What Message Left Out

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — It is reported that somebody among the White House aids thought up a good title for a special message to Congress — "protecting the consumer interest" — and then they all sat around trying to decide what to put into it.

The net result was a hodge podge of recommendations, but the message was really signficant, not for what it contained, but for what it omitted. The President said in one of the opening pragraphs:

"Fortunate as we are, we nevertheless cannot afford waste in consumption any more than we can afford inefficiency in business or government."

But nowhere in the essay was there anything said in explanation of the "inefficiency in government." The message used up nine long pages of single-spaced typewriting and dealt with everything from alleged misrepresentations in advertising of foods and drugs to the kind of lipstick or hair dye that women are misled into buying.

It would seem that somehow consideration now should be given to "a message from the victims of government inefficiency.

What Was Let Out

For in the many thousands of words in the President's latest message about protecting the consumer, there wasn't a single sentence telling of the damage being done to the consumer by the government itself. There was no reference to the constant diminution of the wages of the citizens through taxes and the attrition of the purchasing power of the dollar as a result of unsound fiscal policies pursued by the Administration in Washington, especially as they relate to wasteful expenditures here and abroad.

The President complains that "highly developed arts of persuasion" are being used in America to sell goods to the consumer. He rightly argues that the consumer should be protected against "fraudulent, deceitful or grossly misleading information, advertising, labeling or other practices." But why hasn't the government itself been efficient in this field? Mr. Kennedy gives the impression that all these abuses have just begun to happen and that nothing has been done about them heretofore. He doesn't mention that the pure food and drug act has been on the statute books for decades and that the Federal Trade Commission over the past half-century has been charged by Congress with specific responsibility for taking action on these misrepresentations.

How much of the taxpayers' money has already gone into the regulatory agencies of the government, and is the President blaming everything now on the absence of laws to deal with these abuses?

Highway Safety

As for accidents on the highways, has nothing ever been done by auto manufacturers to try to assure safety for auto drivers, or by those states and cities that issue licenses to drivers and conduct periodic inspections of cars? Yet the President seems to think that "changes in automobile design and equipment" can reduce the casualties — as if the auto manufacturers themselves haven't been spending millions of dollars each year in research on this very subject.

The President wants "simple common names" for drugs "in order to avoid confusion and to enable the purchaser to buy the quality drugs he actually needs at the lowest competitive price."

But "common names" are all too few and are quickly used up. If something is labeled "a cure for a cold," it may be even more confusing if the label doesn't tell what is distinctive about the medicine, or if some name is used that is so vague that the individual can't remember how to describe it when he tells his fellow sufferers about it. Mr. Kennedy admits that 80 per cent of the drugs do what they claim to do, which means that 20 per cent are subject to criticism. But hasn't this been the case for years, and hasn't the Food and Drug Administration been improving that situation constantly by hard work and efficient investigation?

As for "misleading" salesmanship, is the government itself without fault? Why doesn't the President busy himself with the Postoffice Department's collection of money under what might be called "misleading" circumstances? It charges 30 cents for a special-delivery stamp, but there are hundreds of towns in the United States where the postoffices are closed over the weekends and hence no special-delivery service is provided. The public doesn't know which towns these happen to be, so a great deal of money is paid out under an illusion. This is a form of waste imposed on the consumer by the government itself.

Airmail Delivery

As to lack of efficiency in an important operation in one of the government's biggest business enterprises, airmail delivery is a case in point. Many an airmail letter posted during the week—even when there is no adverse weather—takes 24 hours or more for delivery, although the plane carrying it makes the trip in a few hours. Some of the trains between the same points actually arrive hours before the airmail letter does.

Also, there are literally hundreds of cases in which other government departments and agencies cause considerable expense to the citizens and to various businesses and for which today there is no redress or compensation.

And what about the misleading statements of politicians? Wouldn't it be "protecting the consumer interest" — or at least the "voter interest" —if all political salesmanship, including messages by the President to Congress and speeches in both houses, were subject every day to the same strict standards of scrutiny and common honesty that Mr. Kennedy now recommends for salesmanship in business?

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As a further commentary on the National Catholic Welfare Conference's warning to Catholics to shun "extremists of the right," I submit extracts from a recent leading editorial in the Brooklyn Tablet, the best lay diocesan paper in the country. The editor of the Tablet is Pat Scanlan, who is learned in his religion but wears no political badge. The NCWC is an organization of bishops that employs some laymen, apparently Democrats, and a staff of priests below the rank of bishop.

"For several months," The Tablet said editorially, "the public has been submerged with attacks on the 'Right,' the 'Extreme Right,' the 'Radical Right.' A situation has developed of a country about to be taken over by the John Birch Society or some extremists who seek to 'repudiate the 20th Century' and even to destroy the Ten Commandments."

As to whether repudiation of the 20th Century to date would be good or bad for mankind, I submit that the most notable contributions of the Century thus far have been:

1.—Semi-perpetual war since 1900.

2.—The rise of the Soviet Empire amid the worst massacres in history.

3.—Epidemics of 'flu and polio which previously were unknown.

6.—Lenin, Salin, Khrushchev, and Hitler.

To resume quotation from The Tablet: "At first the uproar came from some Democratic politicians but now it has spread to the Republicans. Thus, Senator Javits of New York finds his party in great danger of being absorbed by the 'ultra-conservatives.' He adds that to veer to the 'far out Right for ideas would be catastrophic to our social order.'"

Although Javits is legally a member of the Republican party he is no more devoted to Republican principles than Earl Warren was when he was governor of California. A catastrophe to his undefined social order might be a boon to the United States.

"These hysterical cries are not only spread in the daily press but have extended to the religious field," the Tablet continued. "We have read a dozen articles, nearly all of them serious, warning about the John Birch Society not only as a threat to the nation's security but to the welfare of the Catholic Church. Robert Welch seems to be replacing Khrushchev as a menace. To one who will take an objective look at the world around him, this is a riddle.

Our country is threatened by many things but that the John Birch Society is sweeping public opinion or is in any manner about to take over Washington is childish and ridiculous. It is shocking to observe the hate, the name-calling and the negative approach of these zealots," who now include the National Catholic Welfare Conference, which recently said, "Those who would have Americans concentrate on a minor threat of demestic subversion . . . are effectively aiding the Communist cause."

The Tablet says the "liberals" from the time of Roosevelt have used more frequently than any other element the strategy of using "more noise than sense" and have preferred "shouts and shrieks to reasonable expression, always creating the illusion that 'the reactionaries and the Copperheads' were their critics, just as now it is 'thunder of the right' which must be drowned out.

"We have more respect for our readers and more regard for ourselves than to join the coteries against unnamed extremists. This observation can be particularly made in Catholic Press Month."

Although the Tablet spoke thus before the issuance of the NCWC's attack on "unnamed extremists," this editorial anticipated and answered the NCWC's points with less restraint than probably would have been exercised if the NCWC had spoken first. In that case, the Tablet probably would not have described such outcries as "hysterical," "childish and ridiculous."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Attorney Henry Klein sent me a copy of the Catskill Mt. Star, of March 8, which I enjoyed. One item has the same title as the above, in which Spencer D. Davis of Geneva, formerly of Saugerties, tells about walking down to the Long Dock, putting on skates, and then getting on the ice, using overcoats to hold the wind and be blown all the way down to Poughkeepsie on the ice, and returning home by train. Perhaps readers remember such ways of transportation on our Hudson River or Rondout Creek.

There is a column by Pauline Hommell called Mr. Lincoln's War, our Area's Part. I take the author to be the writer of Tea Cup Tales, folklore about Saugerties and nearby places, a book I enjoyed very much. This column is about David W. Hommell, who took part in 27 battles and skirmishes, never being wounded, although once his cap was shot off, and once his knapsack had a bullet imbedded in it. He was also captured by the enemy and held prisoner for three days in the Libby Prison, Richmond. They did not have any food for the three days. Miss Pauline Hommell, is his daughter, and is also village historian of Saugerties. From time to time she used to drop me a note. I always enjoy hearing from her, and as I remembered she was working on a second book on our local history. I do hope every schoolhouse around here has her Tea Cup Tales in their library. Anyone looking for a gift book, for those who like short, concise, stories with a good plot and plenty of suspense, will enjoy her book.

Snow with mud and soot all over the streets, and muddy water bubbling in the gutters makes even a nice Dutch city and buildings like ours look sad. Soon the kind spring sunshine will come out good and strong and dry and clean everything up and the green grass will appear on the City Hall and High School lawns. I feel, brick buildings look so much better in all kinds of weather. Our Rondout, lower Broadway has many brick buildings of the three story variety, and though some may need repairs inside, still their brick and iron structure, keeps them looking proud and sturdy. When I compared them with the County Clerk's Office Building, uptown, Main and Fair Streets. I would say, it needs more prettying up than most of our Rondout Broadway brick buildings. Perhaps it is a sort of stucco finish in some sort of grey-black that gives it that strange look.

I found a photo of it in Picturesque Ulster of 1896 when it was some seven years old. I do not know if the building was built first and then the vault. According to the plaque on the building, the building committee consisted of John H. Davis, Theodore Spore, and William T. Van Tassell. Andrew F. Mason was the architect. The most prominent builders, Darling Bros. and Burger built it. Charles Freer, the many times millionaire, had them build his Detroit mansion out of local bluestone. Jacob D. Wurts was the County Clerk at the time, and date on building is 1889.

In lower Rondout, around the Strand and Ferry Street we have older buildings and may I say, as a downtown resident, well-built buildings, which seems to have stood up much better than the uptown Ulster County clerk's office building. It is a very important building for it contains all our important records, and no doubt is visited by strangers constantly. Perhaps readers know something about its structure more than I have mentioned here.

Perhaps readers remember such ways of transportation on our Hudson River or Rondout Creek.

There is a column by Pauline Hommell called Mr. Lincoln's War, our Area's Part. I take the author to be the writer of Tea Cup Tales, folklore about Saugerties and nearby places, a book I enjoyed very much. This column is about David W. Hommell, who took part in 27 battles and skirmishes, never being wounded, although once his cap was shot off, and once his knapsack had a bullet imbedded in it. He was also captured by the enemy and held prisoner for three days in the Libby Prison, Richmond. They did not have any food for the three days. Miss Pauline Hommell, is his daughter, and is also village historian of Saugerties. From time to time she used to drop me a note. I always enjoy hearing from her, and as I remembered she was working on a second book on our local history. I do hope every schoolhouse around here has her Tea Cup Tales in their library. Anyone looking for a gift book, for those who like short, concise, stories with a good plot and plenty of suspense, will enjoy her book.

Snow with mud and soot all over the streets, and muddy water bubbling in the gutters makes even a nice Dutch city and buildings like ours look sad. Soon the kind spring sunshine will come out good and strong and dry and clean everything up and the green grass will appear on the City Hall and High School lawns. I feel, brick buildings look so much better in all kinds of weather. Our Rondout, lower Broadway has many brick buildings of the three story variety, and though some may need repairs inside, still their brick and iron structure, keeps them looking proud and sturdy. When I compared them with the County Clerk's Office Building, uptown, Main and Fair Streets. I would say, it needs more prettying up than most of our Rondout Broadway brick buildings. Perhaps it is a sort of stucco finish in some sort of grey-black that gives it that strange look.

I found a photo of it in Picturesque Ulster of 1896 when it was some seven years old. I do not know if the building was built first and then the vault. According to the plaque on the building, the building committee consisted of John H. Davis, Theodore Spore, and William T. Van Tassell. Andrew F. Mason was the architect. The most prominent builders, Darling Bros. and Burger built it. Charles Freer, the many times millionaire, had them build his Detroit mansion out of local bluestone. Jacob D. Wurts was the County Clerk at the time, and date on building is 1889.

In lower Rondout, around the Strand and Ferry Street we have older buildings and may I say, as a downtown resident, well-built buildings, which seems to have stood up much better than the uptown Ulster County clerk's office building. It is a very important building for it contains all our important records, and no doubt is visited by strangers constantly. Perhaps readers know something about its structure more than I have mentioned here.

ARE GOLD SHARES A BUY?

There is a growing belief that eventually the price of gold will be increased. I do not share this view. But frequent letters about gold shares from readers of this column prompt the writing of this article.

America's gold supplies have been dwindling in recent years. The United States has spent billions of dollars in military and economic aid to our foreign friends whose political and social welfare is inseparably connected with our own. In addition, it costs our government many billions to maintain military bases abroad and to support the American troops stationed at them.

A deficit results when these total costs exceed the revenues we derive from our exports and the money we receive from foreign investments and foreign visitors; and when we send gold to meet this deficit, our supplies of this precious metal decline. In little more than a decade, from 1949 to 1961, the monetary gold stock in the United States fell nearly seven billions of dollars. And this loss continues.

Speculation in the gold shares involves less risk, in my opinion, than in many of the "romance" electronic stocks that are selling at fantastic prices, considering their earnings and dividend payments.

Gold speculators who have asked for the names of leading American and Canadian companies may have their risk-taking desires and abilities satisfied by buying some of the following equities:

Homestake Mining is America's largest gold producer. Its ore reserves in South Dakota are large and high grade. For several years the annual dividend has been $2 a share. As this is written, the stock is $48 a share, affording a return of more than 4 per cent. The company owns timber and coal lands in Wyoming and uranium properties in Utah and New Mexico. Gross revenues are about $25,000,000 a year, and the $2 dividend on its 2,011,910 common shares is being earned.

The largest gold producer in Canada is the Kerr-Addison Gold Mines. Its gold reserves are running out but there is always a possibility that new reserves will be found. The stock has paid 80 cents a share for many years and the dividend has been covered by earnings. The stock is listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange and is presently selling for about $9.50 a share.

A third company is Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines—a leading Canadian producer. It also controls vast iron-ore deposits in the Quebec-Labrador area. Its speculative future is so promising that the stock, paying 60 cents a share a year and selling at $22 a share, has already discounted improvement in earnings and dividends. Nevertheless, its gold and iron ore potential is large.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines of Canada is a fourth speculative equity. Its holdings include a large investment portfolio whose worth is around $30 a share. The stock is paying $1.00 a share a year and at a going price of about $47, the yield is a little more than 2 per cent.

If the price of gold in the future were increased, the demand for these shares would be instant and strong.

Any stock speculator who believes that gold will be marked up from its present $35-an-ounce price might well take on some of these shares.

NEW YORK (AP)—Your boss can lose his job, too. In the big rush of mergers this year and last, a lot of them have and more probably will.

Still others in management ranks have been let go in a spate of executive turnovers resulting from an increasing search for prime talent by companies hard pressed by stiffening competition.

Works Both Ways

It works both ways to keep the top-job market humming—more people scurrying around for jobs, more companies turning to placement agencies for top men, often now employed by an unsuspecting competitor.

And in either case the biggest problem is placing the man in the upper age groups.

This is true, too, of the labor force generally. But in the case of executives, the steps up the ladder usually have taken so long that a large proportion of those who are surprised to find their jobs have disappeared are in their 50s and 60s.

They learn, suddenly and personally, that the rule they themselves had been enforcing—the rule against hiring anyone past 45 or 50—now applies to them.

Age Big Problem

Executive recruiting agencies have grown both in number and in operation in recent years and the age question is one of their big problems.

Corporations hesitate to take on older executives—because of company rules, because of pension or insurance involvment, because of fear the older man will be slower and more prone to illness.

The problem of the individual who has been let out of a supervisory post because of a merger, say, often is psychological. He feels he's licked before he even starts to look for another job anything like the old one.

But placement agencies say that this year, while management-level unemployment is higher, demand for experienced executives is also rising.

Some Pool Efforts

In several cities, groups of older unemployed executives have joined in nonprofit, cooperative associations to pool efforts to find openings. Forty Plus organizations are found in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Norfolk, Ft. Lauderdale, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The Forty Plus Club of New York reports applications for membership have doubled since the first of February. About one applicant in five is accepted. He must have had earnings of $8,000 a year or more, and a good record in a position of responsibility. There is a $50 membership fee and dues of $1 a week, plus two days a week of unpaid work in the association's office.

The club spends around $14,000 a year for advertising to interest employers, and several thousand a year more for an executive manpower directory sent each month to some 6,000 firms. The club also collects $15 a year from some 750 associate members, formerly on the active roll, who now have new positions. They are a prime source of tips on jobs opening up.

It places about 200 men a year. The oldest was 71 years old and today, five years later, he's in Ghana setting up an operation for his firm. The club says the median age of members is 52.

As for older men being illness prone, the club says absenteeism is likely to be less among older executives. It notes that the young executives are subject to family distractions. Also the older man can be moved about the ..ation with less friction—for example, no inflexible devotion to one particular school district.

And the younger wniz hasn't yet had the chance to make the mistakes from which his elder has benefitted.

State to Review Bids for Project

Bid proposals on a project of improvement at Cell Building 4, Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch, will be opened Wednesday, March 21 at 2 p. m. at the State Office Building, Albany by the State Department of Public Works.

Separate proposals covering construction and sanitary work for completion of modernization of sanitary facilities have been submitted.

Managed Milking To Be Topic for Dairymen, 23rd

Another "Project M" meeting for Orange-Ulster dairymen will be held at the Middletown Farm & Home Center, Wisner Avenue Extension, Middletown, Friday, March 23, at 8 p. m.

Prof. Alexander Meeks of Cornell University will discuss the important topic, Managed Milking on Your Farm. Managed milking is one of the most important jobs on the dairy farm today.

The last time this meeting was scheduled it had to be called off due to a heavy snowstorm. Robert D. Guzewick, Ulster County Associate Agricultural Agent, suggests that as many Ulster dairymen as possible attend this session.

Police said a car driven by Anthony Canino, of 14 Chapel Hill Road, Highland, was in collision with a car owned by James W. Cummings, 38, of 335 Church Street, Poughkeepsie, who had parked the vehicle in front of his home.

Canino will be represented by his brother, Louis Canino, Highland attorney, when he appears in Poughkeepsie City court on Wednesday.

Mrs. Kennedy Has First Ride on Elephant Today

By ALAN KENNEDY

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy, who loves to ride horses, had her first elephant ride today on an animal equipped with fake tusks.

Mrs. Kennedy rode about 50 yards in the courtyard of the old fortress of Amber atop a 500-foot rocky hill just outside this Rajasthan desert city. She passed up the usual tourist ride up the hairpin road from the bottom of the hill to the fort.

Sharing the ornately decorated howdah with her were her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, an Indian official and the Indian mahout.

The elephant was a 35-year-old female named Bibia. It had been fitted with tusks, an old tourist custom at the Amber fort, where visitors are always told the elephants are bulls.

Bells on the elephant jingled as the animal took the smiling First Lady twice around the courtyard. It was a colorful sight. Mrs. Kennedy wore a yellow silk dress. The howdah was elaborately decorated with gold and silver filigree and it rested on a red cloth over the elephant.

Mrs. Kennedy flew to Jaipur Sunday from Udaipur, where she had been the guest of the Maharana of Udaipur. She told him at her departure her two-day stay in his northwest Indian capital had been "heavenly — like a dream."

After spending the night as the guest of the governor of Rajasthan, Gurmukh Nihal Singh, Mrs. Kennedy was the guest today of the polo-playing Maharaja of Jaipur and his beautiful wife, who has just been elected to the Indian Parliament.

Mrs. Kennedy's two-day stay in Jaipur was largely planned as a rest for the First Lady. She returns to New Delhi Tuesday afternoon and leaves the next day for a visit to Pakistan.

Fire Levels Barn At Lake Katrine

A small barn on the Paul Mula premises on Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine, was destroyed by fire early Saturday night but firemen from Ulster Hose 5, saved an adjoining structure and the residence which stood 40 to 50 feet away. The heat was so intense that aluminum siding on the house buckled and the glass in an electric meter broke.

Firemen were summoned at 9:35 p. m. and responded with trucks 1 and 2 and T-6 auxiliary unit with 25 men under command of Chief Joseph Senor.

The fire of undetermined origin started in the 20 by 30 foot barn which was used to store garden equipment. At the rear was a smaller structure which at times caught fire but was wet down and saved. Water from a nearby hydrant was available. The recall was at 10:40 p. m.

At the time the fire was discovered the Mula family was not at home.

Stratton Says JFK Medicare Has Broad Favor

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D - N.Y., says President Kennedy's medical care for the aged bill "has very broad support which stretches beyond party lines." He predicts Congress will pass the measure.

Stratton, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said "Republicans will only oppose it at their peril."

He said voter sentiment in his own congressional district at Schenectady, which he said is strongly Republican, ran "three to one in favor of the plan."

Stratton's district—the 32nd—is being eliminated through legislative redistricting.

He spoke Sunday to 300 optometrists from 12 states at a symposium at City College.

Large Turnout Expected for Village Vote

An exceptionally large turnout of voters is expected at the polls Tuesday to cast ballots for the three trustees on the Saugerties Village Board and for police justice.

The Independent Party which has been in power for the past five years has expressed confidence in three of their members, George Terpening and Jesse Van Gaasbeek who are running for reelection for trustees for two years and in G. Thomas Rea, Jr., incumbent, for police justice for a four year term.

The new village party, which was formed Feb. 27, is backing incumbent Cornelius Cox, presently serving as building commissioner on the board, Robert Moser and Howard Lezette for trustees and Francis Hughes for police justice.

Both parties have been carrying on strenuous campaigns to inform the residents of their platforms, with door-to-door flyers being distributed and the offer of assistance to the polls during election hours if needed.

Polls will be open in the village clerk's office in the Municipal Building from 12 noon to 9 p. m. Election inspectors will be Catherine Van Gaasbeek, Edwin Schoonmaker and John Hennegan.

Women's Guild Marks 1st Year

The Women's Guild for Christian Service of Saugerties Reformed Church celebrated its first anniversary Wednesday evening in the parish room of the church.

Before the business meeting dessert was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Carnright, Miss Elinor Lente and Mrs. Michael Piastro. The tables were decorated with green candles and shamrock, the center of attraction being a large green paper hat in observance of St. Patrick's Day.

Following refreshments, a sale was held with Mrs. Coy Willis Henderson chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charles Lecher.

A lending library, to serve all the church people, has been started. Fiction and non-fiction of a religious or historical nature suitable for young people as well as adults will be very much appreciated as a direct contribution or as a loan to the library. The Guild has purchased the Abington Bible Commentary and from time to time will add to the book shelf. Mrs. Marion Heermance is in charge of the project.

Mrs. Ralph Hayes reports that seats are still available on the bus trip scheduled for New York City April 14.

The next meeting will be held April 4 and will be a dessert meeting beginning promptly at 8 p. m. Mrs. Roy Snyder will have a program on education. Hostesses will be Mrs. Harold Van Voorhis, Mrs. James Abbott and Mrs. John Decker.

Glasco Hearing

All residents in the Glasco Fire District are asked to attend a public hearing Wednesday night at the firehouse to discuss the need for a new firehouse at a new site that would allow for expanded space for an additional truck and added equipment. The present building can only accommodate the pumper truck and the site is not adequate for enlarging the building. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Events Scheduled

The Saugerties Village Board meets tonight 8 o'clock in the village clerk's room.

The Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday 8:30 p. m. at Schoentag's Colonial Tavern, Route 32.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Malden-West Camp Fire Company will meet at the Malden Station Tuesday night for its regular monthly meeting. A card party is being planned for Saturday, April 28 at the West Camp station.

Village Trustee, Wife Are Parents of Twins

Saugerties Village Trustee Cornelius Cox and Mrs. Cox of The Knolls became the parents of identical twin girls, one, seven pounds, seven ounces and the other, seven pounds, two ounces, Sunday morning at Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Cox is the former Elizabeth O'Brein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien of Miami, Fla.

Reds Agree

States has not laid down a complete treaty proposal.

2. Rejected the proposal advanced by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk last week that Russia and the United States each transfer 50,000 kilogras of nuclear explosive material to a stockpile for peaceful uses. Zorin said that should be done only at a time when nuclear weapons came under a total ban.

3. Declined to say whether Russia would walk out of the disarmament talks if and when Kennedy starts nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, assuming there is no test ban treaty meanwhile.

4. Declared that national inspection systems for detecting nuclear explosions are sufficient to police a test ban treaty. This is the heart of the treaty dispute. The United States insists international inspectors must be admitted to the Soviet Union.

Canada Makes Appeal

In the 17-nation conference itself, Canada made a new appeal for agreement on a pact to end nuclear weapons testing.

Foreign Secretary Howard C. Green of Canada called for an attempt to break the East-West deadlock over inspection, saying "such an effort must be made for otherwise the prospects of this conference itself could be gravely threatened."

The United States obviously is coming under heavy pressure to avoid another nuclear test series at almost any cost. That is true not only inside the conference as shown by such statements as Green's but also far beyond Geneva.

Nehru's View

Today Prime Minister Nehru of India appealed to the United States not to hold nuclear tests during the conference. If the United States goes ahead, Russia will start again and the negotiations in Geneva will lose all significance, Nehru said in New Delhi.

Rusk and his aides were reported to have told neutrals in weekend conferences the United States is bent on resuming the atmosphere tests in April unless the Soviet Union changes its policy toward a test ban. They urged the neutralists to persuade the Russians to accept a treaty with controls to prevent cheating.

VOTE INDEPENDENT!

The Independent Party has administered Saugerties Village Affairs with efficiency economy and progress. The same tax rate has been kept for the past five years, yet the Independent administration has rebuilt streets, installed new water lines and sewer lines, improved and expanded Library facilities, purchased additional real estate, increased salaries of village empoyees, and expanded recreational facilities.

The opposition offers NOTHING constructive to the people. Being unable to find fault with the magnificent record of Mayor Holmes administration, they are content to argue about petty matters.

NEW YORK (AP)—Utilities and rubbers were firm in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 261.90 with industrials unchanged, rails off .20 and utilities up .30.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional.

Steels were mixed. A decline in durable goods demand had little effect on electrical equipment makers.

Rubbers still appeared encouraged by the recent boost in tire prices. Rails, airlines and tobaccos showed a slight downside tendency. Most groups were mixed.

Consolidated laundries dropped around 3 points.

Montgomery Ward and Armour were up more than a point.

A drop of about a point for Du Pont and more than a point by Union Carbide dampened the chemical section.

of meetings throughout this week to discuss the remaining issues.

They are expected to submit to the Legislature a school-aid plan calling for an increase of nearly $120 million a year in state aid to education, which now totals $800 million.

The increase this year will involve a major revision in the formulas under which the aid is apportioned.

The leaders are basing their program on recommendations of the Diefendorf Committee on public school financing, which has suggested the revised formulas.

No decision has been reached on whether legislative seats will be reapportioned this year to reflect population changes shown by the 1960 federal census.

The new Democratic state chairman, William H. McKeon, said in a statement Saturday that present methods of allocating seats in the Legislature discriminated against cities and aided rural areas. Democratic lawmakers long have contended this but have had no success in efforts to bring about change.

Believe Wreckage Of U.S. Plane Missing 17 Years

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—The wreckage of what is thought to be an American Dakota transport plane which vanished 17 years ago has been found 14,000 feet up in the central New Guinea mountains.

Robert Philip Temple, 22, of New Zealand, a member of a climbing expedition led by Heinrich Harrer of Austria, found the wreck on the north slope of Nga Pulu last Feb. 13. But the news reached here only today.

Temple could reach only part of the wreckage, in which were the bodies of two men. He retrieved some items to assist in identification.

Papers he found indicated the crash occurred in 1945.

Teaching Couple Urged Reduce Cyclical Holding

Q) "My wife and I are both school teachers. We own our home, have $10,000 in savings and a reasonable amount of paid-up life insurance. Our portfolio consists of Anaconda, American Standard, Blaw-Knox, Sears Roebuck, United Airlines, and Northwest Natural Gas. Six years from now we'll be faced with compulsory retirement. Do you think we should make any changes in our list?" J. M.

A) Yes, I do. Your list is a representative one, but in my opinion it should be revised so as to reduce the emphasis on cyclical issues.

Of your holdings, Anaconda, American Standard, Blaw-Knox, and United Airlines can be considered cyclical — that is, their earnings and share price movements tend to follow a generally sideways, roller coaster pattern. Because of this feature, I regard these four stocks as having little in the way of sustained growth ahead of them.

I recommend that you take advantage of any temporary strength in order to switch into situations where the outlook for future gains is better. Considering your circumstances, I believe Baltimore Gas & Electric, Continental Insurance, CIT Financial, and Universal Leaf tobacco would be fine replacements. These issues have steadily increased earnings and dividends for a number of years, and I expect the trend to continue.

These four, plus Sears Roebuck and Northwest Natural Gas will create a strong income-producing list with which to look forward to retirement.

Q) "If you owned a large block of Beneficial Corp., would you hold or switch to other securities?" A. F.

A) The predominant asset of Beneficial Corp. is shares of Beneficial Finance. As a result, Beneficial Corp. moves more or less in line with the market action of this investment. If my only personal holding was Beneficial Corp., I'd gradually switch into other good stocks in order to achieve some diversification. However, if this issue made up only part of my portfolio, I'd hold it because I think Beneficial Finance has good prospects and Beneficial Corp. will fully participate in any gains made.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

finding of accidental drowning pending a formal inquest.

Logan's car was found overturned not far from his home on Dec. 14. Authorities searched the area on land and by plane but found no trace of Logan, whose relatives said at that time that Logan might have gone to Texas where he was stationed in the Air Force.

Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan said Logan's body was found about 200 feet from New Hackensack Road, a mile west of where the convertible was found in December. Children discovered the body and notified their mother, who called authorities.

Logan's father, Richard A. Logan, said Saturday night he believed his son might have been shaken in the automobile mishap and tried to make his way home. He said maybe his son was trying to wash when he blacked out and toppled into the pond. Logan's father said he understood his son had paper towels clutched in his hands when his body was found.

Large Turnout Expected for Village Vote

An exceptionally large turnout of voters is expected at the polls Tuesday to cast ballots for the three trustees on the Saugerties Village Board and for police justice.

The Independent Party which has been in power for the past five years has expressed confidence in three of their members, George Terpening and Jesse Van Gaasbeek who are running for reelection for trustees for two years and in G. Thomas Rea. Jr., incumbent, for police justice for a four year term.

The new village party, which was formed Feb. 27, is backing incumbent Cornelius Cox, presently serving as building commissioner on the board, Robert Moser and Howard Lezette for trustees and Francis Hughes for police justice.

Both parties have been carrying on strenuous campaigns to inform the residents of their platforms, with door-to-door flyers being distributed and the offer of assistance to the polls during election hours if needed.

Polls will be open in the village clerk's office in the Municipal Building from 12 noon to 9 p. m. Election inspectors will be Catherine Van Gaasbeek, Edwin Schoonmaker and John Hennegan.

Women's Guild Marks 1st Year

The Women's Guild for Christian Service of Saugerties Reformed Church celebrated its first anniversary Wednesday evening in the parish room of the church.

Before the business meeting dessert was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Robert Carnright, Miss Elinor Lente and Mrs. Michael Piastro. The tables were decorated with green candles and shamrock, the center of attraction being a large green paper hat in observance of St. Patrick's Day.

Following refreshments, a sale was held with Mrs. Coy Willis Henderson chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charles Lecher.

A lending library, to serve all the church people, has been started. Fiction and non-fiction of a religious or historical nature suitable for young people as well as adults will be very much appreciated as a direct contribution or as a loan to the library. The Guild has purchased the Abington Bible Commentary and from time to time will add to the book shelf. Mrs. Marion Heermance is in charge of the project.

Mrs. Ralph Hayes reports that seats are still available on the bus trip scheduled for New York City April 14.

The next meeting will be held April 4 and will be a dessert meeting beginning promptly at 8 p. m. Mrs. Roy Snyder will have a program on education. Hostesses will be Mrs. Harold Van Voorhis, Mrs. James Abbott and Mrs. John Decker.

Glasco Hearing

All residents in the Glasco Fire District are asked to attend a public hearing Wednesday night at the firehouse to discuss the need for a new firehouse at a new site that would allow for expanded space for an additional truck and added equipment. The present building can only accommodate the pumper truck and the site is not adequate for enlarging the building. The meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Events Scheduled

The Saugerties Village Board meets tonight 8 o'clock in the village clerk's room.

The Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday 8:30 p. m. at Schoentag's Colonial Tavern, Route 32.

Reds Agree

States has not laid down a complete treaty proposal.

2. Rejected the proposal advanced by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk last week that Russia and the United States each transfer 50,000 kilogras of nuclear explosive material to a stockpile for peaceful uses. Zorin said that should be done only at a time when nuclear weapons came under a total ban.

3. Declined to say whether Russia would walk out of the disarmament talks if and when Kennedy starts nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, assuming there is no test ban treaty meanwhile.

4. Declared that national inspection systems for detecting nuclear explosions are sufficient to police a test ban treaty. This is the heart of the treaty dispute. The United States insists international inspectors must be admitted to the Soviet Union.

Canada Makes Appeal

In the 17-nation conference itself, Canada made a new appeal for agreement on a pact to end nuclear weapons testing.

Foreign Secretary Howard C. Green of Canada called for an attempt to break the East-West deadlock over inspection, saying "such an effort must be made for otherwise the prospects of this conference itself could be gravely threatened."

The United States obviously is coming under heavy pressure to avoid another nuclear test series at almost any cost. That is true not only inside the conference as shown by such statements as Green's but also far beyond Geneva.

Nehru's View

Today Prime Minister Nehru of India appealed to the United States not to hold nuclear tests during the conference. If the United States goes ahead, Russia will start again and the negotiations in Geneva will lose all significance, Nehru said in New Delhi.

Rusk and his aides were reported to have told neutrals in weekend conferences the United States is bent on resuming the atmosphere tests in April unless the Soviet Union changes its policy toward a test ban. They urged the neutralists to persuade the Russians to accept a treaty with controls to prevent cheating.

NEW YORK (AP)—Utilities and rubbers were firm in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .10 at 261.90 with industrials unchanged, rails off .20 and utilities up .30.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional.

Steels were mixed. A decline in durable goods demand had little effect on electrical equipment makers.

Rubbers still appeared encouraged by the recent boost in tire prices. Rails, airlines and tobaccos showed a slight downside tendency. Most groups were mixed.

Consolidated laundries dropped around 3 points.

Montgomery Ward and Armour were up more than a point.

A drop of about a point for Du Pont and more than a point by Union Carbide dampened the chemical section.

HOLLANDIA, West New Guinea (AP)—The wreckage of what is thought to be an American Dakota transport plane which vanished 17 years ago has been found 14,000 feet up in the central New Guinea mountains.

Robert Philip Temple, 22, of New Zealand, a member of a climbing expedition led by Heinrich Harrer of Austria, found the wreck on the north slope of Nga Pulu last Feb. 13. But the news reached here only today.

Temple could reach only part of the wreckage, in which were the bodies of two men. He retrieved some items to assist in identification.

Papers he found indicated the crash occurred in 1945.

Teaching Couple Urged Reduce Cyclical Holding

Q) "My wife and I are both school teachers. We own our home, have $10,000 in savings and a reasonable amount of paid-up life insurance. Our portfolio consists of Anaconda, American Standard, Blaw-Knox, Sears Roebuck, United Airlines, and Northwest Natural Gas. Six years from now we'll be faced with compulsory retirement. Do you think we should make any changes in our list?" J. M.

A) Yes, I do. Your list is a representative one, but in my opinion it should be revised so as to reduce the emphasis on cyclical issues.

Of your holdings, Anaconda, American Standard, Blaw-Knox, and United Airlines can be considered cyclical — that is, their earnings and share price movements tend to follow a generally sideways, roller coaster pattern. Because of this feature, I regard these four stocks as having little in the way of sustained growth ahead of them.

I recommend that you take advantage of any temporary strength in order to switch into situations where the outlook for future gains is better. Considering your circumstances, I believe Baltimore Gas & Electric, Continental Insurance, CIT Financial, and Universal Leaf tobacco would be fine replacements. These issues have steadily increased earnings and dividends for a number of years, and I expect the trend to continue.

These four, plus Sears Roebuck and Northwest Natural Gas will create a strong income-producing list with which to look forward to retirement.

Q) "If you owned a large block of Beneficial Corp., would you hold or switch to other securities?" A. F.

A) The predominant asset of Beneficial Corp. is shares of Beneficial Finance. As a result, Beneficial Corp. moves more or less in line with the market action of this investment. If my only personal holding was Beneficial Corp., I'd gradually switch into other good stocks in order to achieve some diversification. However, if this issue made up only part of my portfolio, I'd hold it because I think Beneficial Finance has good prospects and Beneficial Corp. will fully participate in any gains made.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

finding of accidental drowning pending a formal inquest.

Logan's car was found overturned not far from his home on Dec. 14. Authorities searched the area on land and by plane but found no trace of Logan, whose relatives said at that time that Logan might have gone to Texas where he was stationed in the Air Force.

Sheriff Lawrence Quinlan said Logan's body was found about 200 feet from New Hackensack Road, a mile west of where the convertible was found in December. Children discovered the body and notified their mother, who called authorities.

Logan's father, Richard A. Logan, said Saturday night he believed his son might have been shaken in the automobile mishap and tried to make his way home. He said maybe his son was trying to wash when he blacked out and toppled into the pond. Logan's father said he understood his son had paper towels clutched in his hands when his body was found.

MUSKOGEE MIRACLE

It happened in the schools of Muskogee, Oklahoma, when 6,557 youngsters took simple tests to measure their physical fitness. Result: 3,043 failed.

But after only six weeks of supervised vigorous physical activity, 78.9 percent passed—and learned how much fun it is to exercise and keep fit.

Does your child's school have a supervised physical education program that gets the kids—boys and girls—to exercise vigorously at least 15 minutes every day?

If not, it's up to you to see that such a program is started. The sooner, the better. Act at your next PTA meeting!

Peace Advocate Says Reds Want Arms Agreement

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state senator and the president of the State University were at odds today over whether Linus Pauling should have spoken at the university's Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse.

Sen. John H. Hughes of Syracuse, chairman of the Onondaga County Republican Committee, objected to allowing Pauling to use the university center as a forum.

Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton, university president, said he did not plan to interfere in the matter but added that freedom of thought was an essential element of any university.

The State University, he said, must cling to that principle" whether one agrees with the views or not."

Pauling, Nobel Prize - winning physicist and peace advocate, told an audience of 900 Friday that generations of the future would be affected by fallout from nuclear bombs. The physicist, now associated with the California Institute of Technology, also said that he believed Russia was striving hard for a disarmament agreement but that the United States was blocking the effort.

Hughes said he would demand that university officials tell him who invited Pauling to speak and why. He said he considered the invitation a "bad exercise of judgment."

Sturgeon Letter Gives Views on OCS Controversy

The letter below has been submitted by Theodore Sturgeon, well known Woodstock author and playwright, in connection with the current controversy raging in the Onteora Central Schools District.

The controversy is the outgrowth of a "beat type" poem dealing with the Crucifixion that was distributed and discussed in a 10th grade English class at Onteora last fall by Fernando Valdivia, a teacher in the secondary department.

At the Feb. 27 meeting of the Onteora Board of Education, Valdivia's resignation was accepted affective at the end of the current school year. There was no reference to the poem incident in the letter of resignation.

In a public statement last week, Valdivia acknowledged that he had been asked to explain the circumstances of the poem in the District Principal's Office, after a parent of one of the 10 grade students had filed a complaint.

The conference with District Principal Sullivan and other OCS administrators lasted 'over three hours, after which I realized I had made an error in judgment and in overestimating the maturity and critical background of the student; but it was felt that one mistake—particularly a first mistake—need not be sufficient cause for immediate dismissal. I was permitted to resume my duties a chastened but wiser man," said Valdivia.

Olive Legion Objects

However, the Olive Post 1627 of the American Legion took a dimmer view of the situation and on March 7 passed a resolution in which it described the poem as "blasphemous, sacrilegious and offensive to people of the Christian faith . . . of a type utterly repugnant to the American Public School education and is a reproach to any school system permitting such teaching."

The Olive resolution also charged that an investigation and admonishment of the teacher was the only action taken by the Onteora School authorities. It also accused Board president, Philip Gordon of Phoenicia, of refusing to call a meeting of the Board or a committee appointed by the Legion to discuss this matter.

Sturgeon's letter follows:

"In the tempest of controversy which has blown up over the use of a certain piece of modern poetry by an Onteora teacher, there's a great of dust and debris in the air which might obscure two very basic points. I present them for examination in the (comparatively) calm air of your column.

"1. The objections to the poem in question seem to be substantially ,if not entirely, theological. The protesting resolution uses such words as 'blasphemous' and 'anti-Christian'."

"Now, either the author of the resolution is a theologian or he is not. If he is not, his opinion is not an authoritative one. It is a personal opinion, to be heard and respected as such, but unless and until it is endorsed by a representative board of clerics (for surely no minister would attempt to speak for all the Christian churches) his opinion carries no more weight than that of any other substantial and respected citizen.

"If, on the other hand, he is a theologian, then he has brought the weight of Church opinion to bear upon a public school, an act repeatedly, through every level of the courts, declared contrary to the law of the land. It would be surprising indeed if anyone would become capable of leading so patriotic a group as the American Legion into an act so patently unconstitutional, illegal and un-American.

"If, as has been reported, the chief fault of the poem in question is that it describes the Crucifixion in contemporary or colloquial, or even 'beat' language, it pays to stop for a moment to think devoutly and with all our minds and hearts to the events of that dread Friday.

"The Crucifixion did not occur upon some painted hillside, peopled by folk in starched white or comberly draped garments, artistically placed in balanced groups hither and yon, and speaking to one another in the language of the English King James Version.

"To anyone who truly believes that the crime of Golgotha actually occurred, a moment's reflection will surely show that it happened in the presence of real people—sick, drunk, wild, uncaring, ignorant, cynical, devoted, puzzled, adoring, anguished. And surely too, they spoke to one another then and afterwards—how? Why, in the grunts and squeals, the catch-phrases and cliches and slang and curses and rough jokes of people anywhere, each contemporary to his time.

"And it would seem that any literary work which serves to bring immediacy to that awful day, to bring to it reality and presence, does Christianity no small service.

"St. Jerome's Latin Bible, in 405 A.D., was an attempt to make the Word of God a contemporary one. So was Pope Clemente VIII's Vulgate Bible. So was the King James Version. So is the Revised Standard. Are these too to be called blasphemous?'"

Overhaulics Anonymous Has Plans for P-TA

A group designed to administer shock treatment to current public apathy toward the P-TA in Woodstock was organized recently, it has been learned.

Known as Overhaulics Anonymous, it is an organization designed for the bashful, the busy and the shirker. And that's about everybody, says the organization's first press release.

It was invented the other day by the Woodstock Elementary School P-TA, "a cheerful fun-loving group which at the moment is contemplating ritual suicide."

It all began, says the statement, at an Executive Council meeting gloomily considering such horrors as these:

(1) A Father's Night attended by two fathers.

(2) A talk by one of the most entertaining men in the Hudson "or any other valley," which, in addition to P-TA officials and teachers, drew an audience of nine.

(3) Shockingly, the question to which no one will give an open answer: Does the school want a P-TA? Do the teachers want a P-TA? Do the parents want a P-TA?

The Council has tried to find out what has happened to a pretty fair P-TA and why. A plea was sent out a year ago, a meeting was held on this subject, reasons guessed at, and suggestions made. Then the best suggestions were followed and it just didn't work.

"Maybe the people who knew why parents stay away in droves were: (a) staying away in droves and/or (b) too bashful to speak the awful truth out there in front of everybody," says the statement. "The obvious solution is to find a way to get opinions without requiring persons to be present or show their face."

A number of suggestions were made on means to bring this about. One was that the next full meeting of the P-TA be held in total darkness, but this was vetoed on the grounds that the P-TA would never know whether it had drawn 200 quiet people or three noisy ones. Several other gimmicks were evaluated and discarded for various reasons.

So, Overhaulics Anonymous, like many other modern devices, designed itself by the need for it to get the answers to two basic questions: (1) Should we have a P-TA at all? (2) If so, exactly what sort of a P-TA do you want?

A questionnaire will soon be dispatched to all parents and teachers in the Woodstock P-TA area. The answers to the questions can be made in complete anonymity, with no holds barred. The reaction to the questionnaire will determine the future of the P-TA.

A general meeting will be held on Thursday, April 5, to evaluate the responses. The current officers of the P-TA are: Edgar Leaycraft, president; Richard Langham, first vice president; Frank Hancock, second vice president; Walter S. Van Wagenen, honorary vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth DeWitt, secretary; Robert Chatto, treasurer.

Phys Ed Display Set at Onteora

The physical education department of the Onteora Central School will present a variety of physical education activities Friday, March 23, at 7:30 p. m.

The purpose of the program is to demonstrate those activities that are carried on throughout the year in the regular classroom pogram. It is expected that more than 200 youngsters representing grades 2 through 12 will take part in the demonstration.

The program will include elementary tumbling, square dancing, games and basketball drills. The high school portion of the program will include stunts, tumbling, apparatus work, modern dance, wand exercises and a demonstration of wrestling fundamentals.

As a finale, all of the high school boys and girls in the program will take part in a mass demonstration of free exercises.

The general public is invited to attend. There will be no admission charge for this performance.

Ethel Magafan Wins Prize in Indiana

MUNCIE, Ind. — Woodstock artist Ethel Magafan won a cash award in the 8th annual Drawing and Small Sculpture show in the Ball State Teachers College gallery.

Also a winner in 1958, Magafan won this year's award with an ink drawing called "Thicket." She is also exhibiting a drawing entitled "Blizzard."

Fishing Clinic Slated March 24 At Estates Club

A fresh water fishing clinic designed to alert area fishermen for the upcoming trout season will be held on the grounds of the Woodstock Estates Swim Club on Saturday, March 24. The program will start at noon. In the event of bad weather it will be held the next day at the same time.

The fishing clinic is sponsored jointly by the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, the Woodstock Estates Swim Club and the Federated Sportsmen of Ulster County.

Fred Markle, president of the Wittenberg Sportsmens Club, said: "We all want to help teach good sportsmanship and fishing skills and we hope this fishing clinic will help."

Edward Berberich, president of the Swim Club, announced that admission was free and urged all interested fishermen to attend and bring their fishing tackle and their sons.

Ray Ovington, outdoor editor of the New York World Telegram and Sun, will conduct the clinic. He will give personal instruction and advice to all who bring their tackle with them.

(1) A Father's Night attended by two fathers.

(2) A talk by one of the most entertaining men in the Hudson "or any other valley," which, in addition to P-TA officials and teachers, drew an audience of nine.

(3) Shockingly, the question to which no one will give an open answer: Does the school want a P-TA? Do the teachers want a P-TA? Do the parents want a P-TA?

The Council has tried to find out what has happened to a pretty fair P-TA and why. A plea was sent out a year ago, a meeting was held on this subject, reasons guessed at, and suggestions made. Then the best suggestions were followed and it just didn't work.

"Maybe the people who knew why parents stay away in droves were: (a) staying away in droves and/or (b) too bashful to speak the awful truth out there in front of everybody," says the statement. "The obvious solution is to find a way to get opinions without requiring persons to be present or show their face."

A number of suggestions were made on means to bring this about. One was that the next full meeting of the P-TA be held in total darkness, but this was vetoed on the grounds that the P-TA would never know whether it had drawn 200 quiet people or three noisy ones. Several other gimmicks were evaluated and discarded for various reasons.

So, Overhaulics Anonymous, like many other modern devices, designed itself by the need for it to get the answers to two basic questions: (1) Should we have a P-TA at all? (2) If so, exactly what sort of a P-TA do you want?

A questionnaire will soon be dispatched to all parents and teachers in the Woodstock P-TA area. The answers to the questions can be made in complete anonymity, with no holds barred. The reaction to the questionnaire will determine the future of the P-TA.

A general meeting will be held on Thursday, April 5, to evaluate the responses. The current officers of the P-TA are: Edgar Leaycraft, president; Richard Langham, first vice president; Frank Hancock, second vice president; Walter S. Van Wagenen, honorary vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth DeWitt, secretary; Robert Chatto, treasurer.

Ethel Magafan Wins Prize in Indiana

MUNCIE, Ind. — Woodstock artist Ethel Magafan won a cash award in the 8th annual Drawing and Small Sculpture show in the Ball State Teachers College gallery.

Coming to Muncie from all over the United States, the entries totalled over 500 drawings and 150 sculptured pieces. Out of this record number, Sweet chose 204 drawings and 60 sculptures.

Also a winner in 1958, Magafan won this year's award with an ink drawing called "Thicket." She is also exhibiting a drawing entitled "Blizzard."

Fishing Clinic Slated March 24 At Estates Club

A fresh water fishing clinic designed to alert area fishermen for the upcoming trout season will be held on the grounds of the Woodstock Estates Swim Club on Saturday, March 24. The program will start at noon. In the event of bad weather it will be held the next day at the same time.

The fishing clinic is sponsored jointly by the Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club, the Woodstock Estates Swim Club and the Federated Sportsmen of Ulster County.

Fred Markle, president of the Wittenberg Sportsmens Club, said: "We all want to help teach good sportsmanship and fishing skills and we hope this fishing clinic will help."

Edward Berberich, president of the Swim Club, announced that admission was free and urged all interested fishermen to attend and bring their fishing tackle and their sons.

Ray Ovington, outdoor editor of the New York World Telegram and Sun, will conduct the clinic. He will give personal instruction and advice to all who bring their tackle with them.

The program will include demonstrations of fly casting, bait casting and casting with spinning gear. Subjects covered will be: "The Advantage of a Balanced Tackle" and "The Art of Casting." Jack Whelan of the Wittenberg club will demonstrate modern techniques of fly tying.

Well Known Author

Ovington, whose widely read column Hooks and Bullets appears daily in the World Telegram, is the author of many books on fresh and salt water fishing, including: How to Take Trout, Spinning in America, and The Young Sportsman's Guides to Fresh and Salt Water Fishing."

For many years, Ovington has demonstrated and instructed fly tying, fly casting, bait casting and spinning before rod and gun clubs and young peoples' organizations, as well as at the New York Sportsman's shows and outdoor exposition. He has currently completed a book in the young sportmen's series on fly tying. He is a contributor to Field and Stream, Outdoor Life, etc., as well as supervising editor of Guns and Game.

'Guns of Navarone' Called Best Picture

NEW YORK (AP) — Film Daily's poll of critics and writers has named "The Guns of Navarone" as the best motion picture of the year.

Following in order behind the adventure film to complete the "ten best" category were: "The Hustler," "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "Fanny," "West Side Story," "Judgment at Nuremburg," "The Parent Trap," "Exodus," "Splendor in the Grass," and "The Mark."

The trade publication said 321 movie commentators across the country submitted ballots, the largest number since the annual selection was started in 1922.

Something for Everybody

Says JFK's Proposals Are Too Broad to Be Achieved

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's been something for everybody in President Kennedy's flood of proposals to Congress this year and the year is young.

He will probably feel lucky, even surprised, if Congress approves half of what he has asked. But he has asked so much, for so many different kinds of people, it can't fail to do him political good.

Measures for All

There's something for old people, city people, farm people, young people (children and students), Negroes, migrant workers, federal workers, untrained workers, the unemployed, doctors, dentists, communities, cities, states, business, industry, colleges and, under one big tent, the whole works: consumers.

In his State of the Union message on Jan. 11, he outlined at least 41 proposals. He has expanded on them, and then some, in 15 follow-up messages to Congress so far.

Good Talking Points

They are too broad and too many to be totally achieved this year but they will make a wonderful talking point for the rest of his tenure.

Because they have such built-in appeal in all directions he can, win or lose on them, always point to what his administration got or tried to get.

They would be even more impressive if now, unlike last year, Kennedy fought for all of them instead of just some.

But he is dealing with a Congress which, run by Democrats far outnumbering Republicans, is dominated by enough conservatives of both parties to frustrate him.

Dems Unity Needed

There are enough Democrats in House and Senate to ram his programs through, if they stuck together. But they don't. Yet this is election year for a new Congress.

So, unless this Congress puts over a majority of his requests, it will be embarrassing and unconvincing at election time when Kennedy asks voters to send even more Democrats to Congress.

Some of Kennedy's programs, by accident or design, are politically shrewd since they throw bones of special interest to groups or individuals who otherwise would have no hesitancy in opposing him.

Critics of Welfare

Critics of the so-called welfare state and of centralized government may complain his programs would greatly widen the government's responsibility for the general welfare. Indeed, they would.

But acceptance of this role of government has been a consistent and developing part of American history for almost 30 years under three former presidents.

Kennedy can remind his critics that Congress itself, in the Employment Act of 1946, belatedly but flatly said the government has responsibility for the general welfare.

So this long ago ceased to be a problem of principle. All that's left is the problem of degree.

Kennedy can argue he has asked what he thinks necessary —socially, economically, and militarily—to keep the nation afloat in the rip-tide of the modern world.

NYU Admissions Director Says Crisis Is Myth

NEW YORK (AP)—To Dr. Fred E. Crossland, the so-called admission crisis in the nation's colleges and universities is a myth explainable through a simple equation: four college applicants equal one college freshman.

The typical college applicant, Crossland says, files three or four applications to different institutions. More than 50 per cent of all applicants send their applications to fewer than 10 per cent of the colleges and universities.

When the immense paper shuffling and grade weighing subsides, however, the four college applicants become only one college freshman.

"We might call it a statistical phenomenon," says Crossland, who is director of admissions at New York University—a private institution with 43,000 students in 15 various divisions.

Crossland said in an interview that only 25 to 50 of the nation's 2,000 institutions of higher learning have more qualified applicants than they can handle. High among these are the Ivy League schools and other prestige-type institutions of New England.

Crossland sees the high school guidance counselor as a key to the problem.

"It's getting so that the counselor is like a football coach," he said. "He's expected to produce, and that often means getting junior into a 'prestige' school that might not be right for junior."

While Crossland maintains there's no admissions crisis now, he said one may well develop within the next three or four years as a result of the high birth rate since World War II.

Progess Is Reported Against Hepatitis

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Progress has been reported in development of a vaccine against infectious hepatitis, a serious liver disease which afflicted 50,000 Americans last year.

A California Institute of Technology research scientist, Dr. Justine S. Garvey, has found a way to grow liver cells artificially, the school said Sunday.

Growing the cells on a large scale is necessary for preparation of a vaccine, Dr. Garvey said.

Upstate Nurses Must Taste All Baby Formulas

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Nurses at Binghamton General Hospital, where six infants died of salt poisoning, had orders today to taste formula before giving it to babies.

The rule was one of several instituted to prevent a recurrence of a mixup that led to the substitution of salt for sugar in formula fed to infants at the hospital.

In addition to the six who died, others were made critically ill.

A hospital spokesman announced the rules Saturday night.

Besides tasting the formula, nurses are required to taste the sugar before using it in formulas.

The sugar is to be delivered in sealed, two-pound containers, as needed, and milk is to be delivered in cans directly to the formula room.

The hospital has suspended, pending completion of an investigation, the practical nurse who filled the sugar can for the formula room.

The nurse, Lillie Mae Colvin, maintains she filled the sugar can from a larger container that was labeled sugar.

No charge has been placed against her.

Her attorney reports that she has received a large quantity of mail, most of it sympathetic, since the deaths were revealed.

The substitution of salt for sugar was discovered by another practical nurse, who broke a hospital rule and made a cup of instant coffee in the formula room.

The infant deaths occurred March 9, 10, and 12.

Agreement Ends Upstate Strike

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — Bennett-Ireland Corp. and the International Molders and Allied Workers Union have agreed to a new two-year contract, ending a 10-day strike.

Terms of the pact were not announced.

A total of 116 employes struck the company's plants March 8 here and at Sherburne for wage increases and other benefits. The old contract had expired Jan. 31.

The dispute was settled Saturday.

PSC Approves Plan For Rate Expansion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission has approved rate amendments filed by three telephone companies to expand the Syracuse toll-free Metroplan. The changes take effect Sunday.

The New York Telephone Company will expand the toll-free calling areas of 17 of its exchanges. The expansion will result in an estimated reduction of $51,400 in toll charges.

Midstate Telephone Company will add its Cazenovia exchange to the Metroplan and expand the toll-free areas of Manlius, Central Square and Brewterton. Midstate estimated its revenue drop at $1,-350.

The Finger Lakes Telephone Corp. will expand the toll-free areas of its Marcellus and Rose Hill exchanges. Revenues are expected to remain unchanged.

Paltz Man Faces Court in Shotgun Assault on Farm

A 24-year-old New Paltz farm worker was in the Ulster County jail today awaiting grand jury action in connection with a shooting incident on a New Paltz farm Saturday night, according to Highland State Police.

Troopers said Allen Harvey, New Paltz, was arrested by Troopers Harry Foster and James Kaljian on charges of assault first degree and illegal possession of a firearm.

Harvey is accused of shooting Jeffrey Williams, 27, an employe on the Moriello farm on Route 32, Town of New Paltz, during an argument. Troopers said a sawed-off shot gun was used by the defendant.

Williams was treated by Dr. Virgil Dewitt, New Paltz, and later taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie. Troopers said Williams was wounded on the left side and left arm.

Troopers said the shooting occurred after a Saturday night party.

ABC Law Cancels Tavern Program

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Pretty Ruth O'Bradley took her harp and headed back home to County Galway, Ireland, today—probably a little upset at all the fuss generated by her St. Patrick's Day visit to the United States.

Ruth was imported by plane Thursday by the brothers Edwin and William O'Brien, tavern owners, to give their St. Patrick's Day celebration a real Irish flavor. Ruth was to play her harp.

But Alcholic Beverage Control officials stepped in after learning Ruth was only 17. State law forbids anyone under 18 to entertain where alcohol is publicly served.

So Ruth couldn't play her harp. But she mingled with the guests. Many of the guests were quite put out.

"This whole thing is absurd," bellowed one.

"How is she going to explain it to her people in Ireland?" said another. "It's a shame to allow this to happen while Americans are trying to win friends abroad."

It was Ruth's first visit to the United States. She said she will be back next year, when she's 18.

Castro Weakness Mentioned, Fast Attack Proposed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A counter-revolutionary leader has called for funds and recruits for a quick attack through what he called Fidel Castro's one very weak point in his defense of Cuba.

Rafael Serralja, speaking at a Bayfront Park rally, did not elaborate on the alleged weak spot. But the leader of the Nacionalisimo Realista said the attack could be successful, "given three months and 1,000 men."

Serralja said 200 young anti-Castro guerrillas were training in a secret location in the Everglades with weapons furnished by Miami's Cuban colony.

Changes Are Urged To Improve Lot of Stable Workers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A special state inquiry commission urges the end of a seven-day work week for stablehands at thoroughbred race tracks and other improvements in the stable workers lot.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller as part of the settlement of a strike last summer at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga race tracks.

The strike, over union representation, did not interfere seriously with racing at the three tracks.

The stablehands, who work for individual owners and trainers, rather than the tracks, sought recognition of Teamsters Union local as their bargaining agent.

Report to Governor

The commission, in a 127-page report to the governor Sunday, said:

"No industry can long justify working conditions in any segment that are out of line with contemporary standards."

In addition to an end of the seven-day work week, the commission urged:

1. Payment of wages on a weekly basis and establishment of check-cashing facilities at each track.

2. Continued improvement of dormitories and recreational facilities by the New York Racing Association, which owns the tracks.

To Stop Overcrowding

3. Steps to eliminate overcrowding in dormitories.

4. Establishment at the tracks of employment offices for stable workers.

5. Extension of welfare insurance.

6. Visitation rights for union representatives, subject to reasonable security limitations worked out by the racing association, employers and union representatives.

7. A report to the governor July 1 by the racing association on compliance with the recommendations.

Costly in Memphis Not to Return Books

Western Union messengers are sent to pick up books more than six weeks overdue. They also collect the two cents a day fine and a 75 cent service charge.

No one can be forced to pay the fine or service charge but those who refuse lose library card privileges.

Named to Honor Guard

Army Specialist Four Lewis B. Ahlberg, 25, son of Harry Ahlberg, 61 South Chestnut Street, New Paltz, was recently selected as a member of the U. S. Army, Pacific, Honor Guard at Fort Shafter, Hawaii.

Specialist Ahlberg was selected for his soldierly appearance, personal conduct and ability in precision marching.

Says JFK's Proposals Are Too Broad to Be Achieved

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's been something for everybody in President Kennedy's flood of proposals to Congress this year and the year is young.

He will probably feel lucky, even surprised, if Congress approves half of what he has asked. But he has asked so much, for so many different kinds of people, it can't fail to do him political good.

Measures for All

There's something for old people, city people, farm people, young people (children and students), Negroes, migrant workers, federal workers, untrained workers, the unemployed, doctors, dentists, communities, cities, states, business, industry, colleges and, under one big tent, the whole works: consumers.

In his State of the Union message on Jan. 11, he outlined at least 41 proposals. He has expanded on them, and then some, in 15 follow-up messages to Congress so far.

Good Talking Points

They are too broad and too many to be totally achieved this year but they will make a wonderful talking point for the rest of his tenure.

Because they have such built-in appeal in all directions he can, win or lose on them, always point to what his administration got or tried to get.

They would be even more impressive if now, unlike last year, Kennedy fought for all of them instead of just some.

But he is dealing with a Congress which, run by Democrats far outnumbering Republicans, is dominated by enough conservatives of both parties to frustrate him.

Dems Unity Needed

There are enough Democrats in House and Senate to ram his programs through, if they stuck together. But they don't. Yet this is election year for a new Congress.

So, unless this Congress puts over a majority of his requests, it will be embarrassing and unconvincing at election time when Kennedy asks voters to send even more Democrats to Congress.

Some of Kennedy's programs, by accident or design, are politically shrewd since they throw bones of special interest to groups or individuals who otherwise would have no hesitancy in opposing him.

Critics of Welfare

Critics of the so-called welfare state and of centralized government may complain his programs would greatly widen the government's responsibility for the general welfare. Indeed, they would.

But acceptance of this role of government has been a consistent and developing part of American history for almost 30 years under three former presidents.

Kennedy can remind his critics that Congress itself, in the Employment Act of 1946, belatedly but flatly said the government has responsibility for the general welfare.

So this long ago ceased to be a problem of principle. All that's left is the problem of degree.

Kennedy can argue he has asked what he thinks necessary —socially, economically, and militarily—to keep the nation afloat in the rip-tide of the modern world.

NYU Admissions Director Says Crisis Is Myth

NEW YORK (AP)—To Dr. Fred E. Crossland, the so-called admission crisis in the nation's colleges and universities is a myth explainable through a simple equation: four college applicants equal one college freshman.

The typical college applicant, Crossland says, files three or four applications to different institutions. More than 50 per cent of all applicants send their applications to fewer than 10 per cent of the colleges and universities.

When the immense paper shuffling and grade weighing subsides, however, the four college applicants become only one college freshman.

"We might call it a statistical phenomenon," says Crossland, who is director of admissions at New York University—a private institution with 43,000 students in 15 various divisions.

Crossland said in an interview that only 25 to 50 of the nation's 2,000 institutions of higher learning have more qualified applicants than they can handle. High among these are the Ivy League schools and other prestige-type institutions of New England.

Crossland sees the high school guidance counselor as a key to the problem.

"It's getting so that the counselor is like a football coach," he said. "He's expected to produce, and that often means getting junior into a 'prestige' school that might not be right for junior."

While Crossland maintains there's no admissions crisis now, he said one may well develop within the next three or four years as a result of the high birth rate since World War II.

Upstate Nurses Must Taste All Baby Formulas

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Nurses at Binghamton General Hospital, where six infants died of salt poisoning, had orders today to taste formula before giving it to babies.

The rule was one of several instituted to prevent a recurrence of a mixup that led to the substitution of salt for sugar in formula fed to infants at the hospital.

In addition to the six who died, others were made critically ill.

A hospital spokesman announced the rules Saturday night.

Besides tasting the formula, nurses are required to taste the sugar before using it in formulas.

The sugar is to be delivered in sealed, two-pound containers, as needed, and milk is to be delivered in cans directly to the formula room.

The hospital has suspended, pending completion of an investigation, the practical nurse who filled the sugar can for the formula room.

The nurse, Lillie Mae Colvin, maintains she filled the sugar can from a larger container that was labeled sugar.

No charge has been placed against her.

Her attorney reports that she has received a large quantity of mail, most of it sympathetic, since the deaths were revealed.

The substitution of salt for sugar was discovered by another practical nurse, who broke a hospital rule and made a cup of instant coffee in the formula room.

The infant deaths occurred March 9, 10, and 12.

Agreement Ends Upstate Strike

NORWICH, N.Y. (AP) — Bennett-Ireland Corp. and the International Molders and Allied Workers Union have agreed to a new two-year contract, ending a 10-day strike.

Terms of the pact were not announced.

A total of 116 employes struck the company's plants March 8 here and at Sherburne for wage increases and other benefits. The old contract had expired Jan. 31.

The dispute was settled Saturday.

Progess Is Reported Against Hepatitis

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Progress has been reported in development of a vaccine against infectious hepatitis, a serious liver disease which afflicted 50,000 Americans last year.

A California Institute of Technology research scientist, Dr. Justine S. Garvey, has found a way to grow liver cells artificially, the school said Sunday.

Growing the cells on a large scale is necessary for preparation of a vaccine, Dr. Garvey said.

PSC Approves Plan For Rate Expansion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission has approved rate amendments filed by three telephone companies to expand the Syracuse toll-free Metroplan. The changes take effect Sunday.

The New York Telephone Company will expand the toll-free calling areas of 17 of its exchanges. The expansion will result in an estimated reduction of $51,400 in toll charges.

Midstate Telephone Company will add its Cazenovia exchange to the Metroplan and expand the toll-free areas of Manlius, Central Square and Brewterton. Midstate estimated its revenue drop at $1,350.

The Finger Lakes Telephone Corp. will expand the toll-free areas of its Marcellus and Rose Hill exchanges. Revenues are expected to remain unchanged.

Paltz Man Faces Court in Shotgun Assault on Farm

A 24-year-old New Paltz farm worker was in the Ulster County jail today awaiting grand jury action in connection with a shooting incident on a New Paltz farm Saturday night, according to Highland State Police.

Troopers said Allen Harvey, New Paltz, was arrested by Troopers Harry Foster and James Kaljian on charges of assault first degree and illegal possession of a firearm.

Harvey is accused of shooting Jeffrey Williams, 27, an employe on the Moriello farm on Route 32, Town of New Paltz, during an argument. Troopers said a sawed-off shot gun was used by the defendant.

Williams was treated by Dr. Virgil Dewitt, New Paltz, and later taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie. Troopers said Williams was wounded on the left side and left arm.

Troopers said the shooting occurred after a Saturday night party.

ABC Law Cancels Tavern Program

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Pretty Ruth O'Bradley took her harp and headed back home to County Galway, Ireland, today—probably a little upset at all the fuss generated by her St. Patrick's Day visit to the United States.

Ruth was imported by plane Thursday by the brothers Edwin and William O'Brien, tavern owners, to give their St. Patrick's Day celebration a real Irish flavor. Ruth was to play her harp.

But Alcholic Beverage Control officials stepped in after learning Ruth was only 17. State law forbids anyone under 18 to entertain where alcohol is publicly served.

So Ruth couldn't play her harp. But she mingled with the guests. Many of the guests were quite put out.

"This whole thing is absurd," bellowed one.

"How is she going to explain it to her people in Ireland?" said another. "It's a shame to allow this to happen while Americans are trying to win friends abroad."

It was Ruth's first visit to the United States. She said she will be back next year, when she's 18.

Castro Weakness Mentioned, Fast Attack Proposed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A counter-revolutionary leader has called for funds and recruits for a quick attack through what he called Fidel Castro's one very weak point in his defense of Cuba.

Rafael Serralja, speaking at a Bayfront Park rally, did not elaborate on the alleged weak spot. But the leader of the Nacionalisimo Realista said the attack could be successful, "given three months and 1,000 men."

Serralja said 200 young anti-Castro guerrillas were training in a secret location in the Everglades with weapons furnished by Miami's Cuban colony.

Changes Are Urged To Improve Lot of Stable Workers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A special state inquiry commission urges the end of a seven-day work week for stablehands at thoroughbred race tracks and other improvements in the stable workers lot.

The commission was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller as part of the settlement of a strike last summer at Aqueduct, Belmont and Saratoga race tracks.

The strike, over union representation, did not interfere seriously with racing at the three tracks.

The stablehands, who work for individual owners and trainers, rather than the tracks, sought recognition of Teamsters Union local as their bargaining agent.

Report to Governor

The commission, in a 127-page report to the governor Sunday, said:

"No industry can long justify working conditions in any segment that are out of line with contemporary standards."

In addition to an end of the seven-day work week, the commission urged:

1. Payment of wages on a weekly basis and establishment of check-cashing facilities at each track.

2. Continued improvement of dormitories and recreational facilities by the New York Racing Association, which owns the tracks.

To Stop Overcrowding

3. Steps to eliminate overcrowding in dormitories.

4. Establishment at the tracks of employment offices for stable workers.

5. Extension of welfare insurance.

6. Visitation rights for union representatives, subject to reasonable security limitations worked out by the racing association, employers and union representatives.

7. A report to the governor July 1 by the racing association on compliance with the recommendations.

Costly in Memphis Not to Return Books

Western Union messengers are sent to pick up books more than six weeks overdue. They also collect the two cents a day fine and a 75 cent service charge.

No one can be forced to pay the fine or service charge but those who refuse lose library card privileges.

High School Students Will Participate In Seminar on Free Speech, Censorship

Participating students of the Senior Seminar Program will deal with the topic "Freedom of Speech and Censorship," next Saturday, March 24, at 10 a. m., in the administration building at State University College at New Paltz.

Guest lecturer for this seminar will be Professor Charles Siepmann, former vice president of the British Broadcasting Corporation, and now chairman of the Department of Communications in Education for New York University.

Prof. Siepmann is a noted authority in the field of communication and its influence on individuals. He is also a respected author of books and many articles in the field of mass media effects of radio and television. Some of his previous accomplishments have been the authorship of books entitled, "TV and Our School Crisis," "Radio's Second Chance," Radio, TV and Society," and "Television and Education." He is also the recipient of the first Frank Stanton Award for his writings in the field of television.

During the seminar, the students will be exposed to a discussion of both the direct and indirect influences of censorship. The area of civil liberties will be explored as well as the effects of conformity and political views on freedom. Opinions from the students will be sought as to their own ideas of how censorship might be taking place within the framework of a democratic society.

This is Prof. Siepmann's second visit. Last year he conducted a most provocative seminar on the subject of public opinion and propaganda.

Students selected for the Seminar Program represent the central schools of Ellenville, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley and Wallkill. The program is sponsored by the State University College at New Paltz and the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. The secondary principals of the respective schools have been responsible for its major guidance and development.

Republican Women Planning Luncheon And Conferences

A special endeavor to recruit local leaders and volunteers educated in the ways of leadership and political responsibility was discussed by Mrs. Fred Stang, co-chairman of the project known as "MORE Program," at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club.

In explaining the purpose and objectives of the project, Mrs. Stang announced the program title means "Mobilization of Republican Enterprise." Organizational task force meetings will be held in Ulster County during May, she said. State and party officials, including Lt. Governor Malcolm Wilson, are expected to attend and assist in orientating volunteer workers on the merits of the program.

Mrs. Stang urged committee members, Republican office holders, prospective candidates and participating members of Republican auxiliary groups, to enroll and participate in the project.

The program is divided into two jobs: recruitment of local leaders to serve as "sales managers" in their respective voting districts; and an eight hour intensive course in leadership and political responsibility and modern campaign techniques.

The New York State Republican Committee has set a goal of 11,622 sales managers to serve in the election districts.

It was also announced that the club will send its president, Mrs. John Schomer, to the national conference to be held in Washington in April. Accompanying her will be Mrs. William Schiff.

Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer has been named chairman of the annual spring luncheon to be held on May 5 at Williams Lake. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Ruth Johnson, state membership chairman.

Officers reporting at the meeting were Mrs. Frank Campochairo, Mrs. Abel Ellsworth and Miss Cordelia Feltman.

A report on the Ulster County Council of Social Agencies was given by Mrs. William Krum.

Charles L. Arnold, Deputy Director of Civil Defense in Ulster County spoke on the world wide program of civil defense. He was introduced by Mrs. Ward Tongue, program chairman.

Hostesses were Mrs. Raymond LeFever and Mrs. Josef Knubbin.

Of Many Things

High Fashion for Children

The spring season's image in children's clothes depends largely on a new feeling that children are first-class fashion citizens, entitled to all the design innovations and elegance that their mamas merit. For instance, there is a new crop of wardrobe-oriented ensembles literally made for each other, yet each piece outstanding enough to travel on its own. Dressmakers are making like big-time couturiers by including go-with coats, jackets, sometimes even sportswear items.

This summary of spring fashion trends for little girls is based on reviews of manufacturers' collections by the fashion editors of Women's Wear Daily.

Jackets, any length, over no-sleeve dresses are newly popular. Princess flares, simple shapes, the less decoration the better, are major dress features. Capes are creeping up. Low waists are popular with the 7-14 crowd, while tots get the smock treatment.

High-fashion excitement has generated into the far reaches of the play wear field, where once the T-shirt and blue jeans reigned supreme. St. Tro-pants with bare midriffs tops are zingiest of the new children's sportswear species. More demure moppets can romp in bubble beach tops, slithery or stand-away sports dresses, or in sweatshirts, revitalized by braid trimming, bold colors, to-the-knee lengths.

Coat manufacturers have moved out to the new fashion frontier with seamed-to-shape coats that no longer square, but pare, a little girl to timely femininity. Spring coats have modified flares, be they from shoulder, ribcage or hip. Capes, cutaway jackets, demi-fit lines give the whole spring suit picture a shot in the arm.

Pastels Are Highlighted

Spring's basic red, white and blue have bypassed in favor of clear, hot citrus pastels. Peach, pink, lime are good, along with sunshine yellow, which looks brightest. Subtle, sophisticated neutrals are showing up frequently. The browns, from off-white all the way through dark tan look liveliest, and will probably hit the real big-time by fall.

Nubby wools and slubbed synthetics go for outerwear; dresses and sportswear and rugged denim, duck, hopsacking, and other novelty weaves.

The most definite factor in the whole children's wear picture is the utterly new shape of spring. Architectural A-lines, easy-fit princesses, elongated tops and all the other uncinched, untraditional designs give a new freedom and elegance to the whole little-girl fashion world. Yet the clothes are as innocent and unpretentious as the children who will wear them.

Spring Fashions for Men

"Don't mix business with pleasure"—this maxim is well borne out as far as colors are concerned in men's pure wool fashions for spring and summer, 1962, according to the Wool Bureau.

For office, dress-up social engagements, and travel, dark tones will prevail in tailored suits. Highlighted are midnight blue, black, dark olive and smoky gray.

Black is back—but big, particularly in pre wool worsteds with a shiny surface "bloom." More in the fashion vein is dark navy, both in solid versions and subtly shot through with green to create a subdued iridescent effect. Olives, now a staple color family for suits, look new for spring with yarns of many colors shot through the background.

Plaids and stripes, still in dark tones, are the important patterns for men's suits. In spring and summer, we'll be fooled by shadow plaids which give a solid-color appearance on not-too-close examination. We'll also see tone-on-tone glen plaids and glens which combine many dark and bright colors but continue to give an over-all dark effect.

Relaxation hours will produce an entirely different color scale for the fashion-oriented man. The sport jacket picture was never brighter. Brilliant flannel plaids, a brand new pure wool worsted seersucker, and snappy double-breasted blazers in bright, textured wool worsteds are tops on the fashion list.

Slimmed-down slacks often supply dark-toned relief to brilliant sport jackets. Highlighted are permanently creased pure wool charcoal flannels and black crisp wool worsteds. On the other hand, light gray slacks and white slacks are very much in the fashion picture. For active sports, color is important in slacks, for example, a bright iridescent green and tan combination is a frequent one for sporty golf slacks.

Whether the choice is dark or bright, the spring and summer seasons promise good-looking fashion in wool to men of all ages.

It's Pretty Special

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: I wonder how many girls feel as I do. People keep saying, "Act like a lady," until I feel like screaming. We seem to be left out of everything that's exciting while boys have all the fun. It's dull and I hate to think of spending the rest of my life, sitting around being "ladylike." Boys and girls are both people. Why can't they be treated alike?—Tomboy.

Dear Tomboy: If you are complaining because you have to watch your manners, that's silly. Boys should pay attention to manners, too. You may have to skip being a football hero, but it isn't necessary to be a wallflower to be a lady. The era of the clinging vine is gone and girls can do just about everything a boy can—except try to BE a boy.

It sounds as if you haven't acted like a girl for long enough to have enjoyed the privileges you rate as one who is feminine. When you act exactly like a boy, you lose the chance to experience the differences that make being a girl fun.

If you are a tomboy, you may have to give up slacks for dresses, keep your skirt below knee level when sitting, move a little more gracefully and permit the boys to take the lead in social relationships. None of these things will seem like sacrifices the first time a special boy's eyes light up because he discovers you're a girl.

When you buy your first formal gown and when your escort calls for your first date, you'll discover that it's pretty special and even exciting to be feminine.

Teen-agers: Please send your personal problems to Kathy Peterson in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

High School Students Will Participate In Seminar on Free Speech, Censorship

Participating students of the Senior Seminar Program will deal with the topic "Freedom of Speech and Censorship," next Saturday, March 24, at 10 a. m., in the administration building at State University College at New Paltz.

Guest lecturer for this seminar will be Professor Charles Siepmann, former vice president of the British Broadcasting Corporation, and now chairman of the Department of Communications in Education for New York University.

Prof. Siepmann is a noted authority in the field of communication and its influence on individuals. He is also a respected author of books and many articles in the field of mass media effects of radio and television. Some of his previous accomplishments have been the authorship of books entitled, "TV and Our School Crisis," "Radio's Second Chance," Radio, TV and Society," and "Television and Education." He is also the recipient of the first Frank Stanton Award for his writings in the field of television.

During the seminar, the students will be exposed to a discussion of both the direct and indirect influences of censorship. The area of civil liberties will be explored as well as the effects of conformity and political views on freedom. Opinions from the students will be sought as to their own ideas of how censorship might be taking place within the framework of a democratic society.

This is Prof. Siepmann's second visit. Last year he conducted a most provocative seminar on the subject of public opinion and propaganda.

Students selected for the Seminar Program represent the central schools of Ellenville, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley and Wallkill. The program is sponsored by the State University College at New Paltz and the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. The secondary principals of the respective schools have been responsible for its major guidance and development.

Republican Women Planning Luncheon And Conferences

A special endeavor to recruit local leaders and volunteers educated in the ways of leadership and political responsibility was discussed by Mrs. Fred Stang, co-chairman of the project known as "MORE Program," at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club.

In explaining the purpose and objectives of the project, Mrs. Stang announced the program title means "Mobilization of Republican Enterprise." Organizational task force meetings will be held in Ulster County during May, she said. State and party officials, including Lt. Governor Malcolm Wilson, are expected to attend and assist in orientating volunteer workers on the merits of the program.

Mrs. Stang urged committee members, Republican office holders, prospective candidates and participating members of Republican auxiliary groups, to enroll and participate in the project.

The program is divided into two jobs: recruitment of local leaders to serve as "sales managers" in their respective voting districts; and an eight hour intensive course in leadership and political responsibility and modern campaign techniques.

The New York State Republican Committee has set a goal of 11,622 sales managers to serve in the election districts.

It was also announced that the club will send its president, Mrs. John Schomer, to the national conference to be held in Washington in April. Accompanying her will be Mrs. William Schiff.

Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer has been named chairman of the annual spring luncheon to be held on May 5 at Williams Lake. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Ruth Johnson, state membership chairman.

Officers reporting at the meeting were Mrs. Frank Campochairo, Mrs. Abel Ellsworth and Miss Cordelia Feltman.

A report on the Ulster County Council of Social Agencies was given by Mrs. William Krum.

Charles L. Arnold, Deputy Director of Civil Defense in Ulster County spoke on the world wide program of civil defense. He was introduced by Mrs. Ward Tongue, program chairman.

Hostesses were Mrs. Raymond LeFever and Mrs. Josef Knubbin.

High Fashion for Children

The spring season's image in children's clothes depends largely on a new feeling that children are first-class fashion citizens, entitled to all the design innovations and elegance that their mamas merit. For instance, there is a new crop of wardrobe-oriented ensembles literally made for each other, yet each piece outstanding enough to travel on its own. Dressmakers are making like big-time couturiers by including go-with coats, jackets, sometimes even sportswear items.

This summary of spring fashion trends for little girls is based on reviews of manufacturers' collections by the fashion editors of Women's Wear Daily.

Jackets, any length, over no-sleeve dresses are newly popular. Princess flares, simple shapes, the less decoration the better, are major dress features. Capes are creeping up. Low waists are popular with the 7-14 crowd, while tots get the smock treatment.

High-fashion excitement has generated into the far reaches of the play wear field, where once the T-shirt and blue jeans reigned supreme. St. Tro-pants with bare midriffs tops are zingiest of the new children's sportswear species. More demure moppets can romp in bubble beach tops, slithery or stand-away sports dresses, or in sweatshirts, revitalized by braid trimming, bold colors, to-the-knee lengths.

Coat manufacturers have moved out to the new fashion frontier with seamed-to-shape coats that no longer square, but pare, a little girl to timely femininity. Spring coats have modified flares, be they from shoulder, ribcage or hip. Capes, cutaway jackets, demi-fit lines give the whole spring suit picture a shot in the arm.

Pastels Are Highlighted

Spring's basic red, white and blue have bypassed in favor of clear, hot citrus pastels. Peach, pink, lime are good, along with sunshine yellow, which looks brightest. Subtle, sophisticated neutrals are showing up frequently. The browns, from off-white all the way through dark tan look liveliest, and will probably hit the real bigtime by fall.

Nubby wools and slubbed synthetics go for outerwear; dresses and sportswear and rugged denim, duck, hopsacking, and other novelty weaves.

The most definite factor in the whole children's wear picture is the utterly new shape of spring. Architectural A-lines, easy-fit princesses, elongated tops and all the other uncinched, untraditional designs give a new freedom and elegance to the whole little-girl fashion world. Yet the clothes are as innocent and unpretentious as the children who will wear them.

Spring Fashions for Men

"Don't mix business with pleasure"—this maxim is well borne out as far as colors are concerned in men's pure wool fashions for spring and summer, 1962, according to the Wool Bureau.

For office, dress-up social engagements, and travel, dark tones will prevail in tailored suits. Highlighted are midnight blue, black, dark olive and smoky gray.

Black is back—but big, particularly in pre wool worsteds with a shiny surface "bloom." More in the fashion vein is dark navy, both in solid versions and subtly shot through with green to create a subdued iridescent effect. Olives, now a staple color family for suits, look new for spring with yarns of many colors shot through the background.

Plaids and stripes, still in dark tones, are the important patterns for men's suits. In spring and summer, we'll be fooled by shadow plaids which give a solid-color appearance on not-too-close examination. We'll also see tone-on-tone glen plaids and glens which combine many dark and bright colors but continue to give an over-all dark effect.

Relaxation hours will produce an entirely different color scale for the fashion-oriented man. The sport jacket picture was never brighter. Brilliant flannel plaids, a brand new pure wool worsted seersucker, and snappy double-breasted blazers in bright, textured wool worsteds are tops on the fashion list.

Slimmed-down slacks often supply dark-toned relief to brilliant sport jackets. Highlighted are permanently creased pure wool charcoal flannels and black crisp wool worsteds. On the other hand, light gray slacks and white slacks are very much in the fashion picture. For active sports, color is important in slacks, for example, a bright iridescent green and tan combination is a frequent one for sporty golf slacks.

Whether the choice is dark or bright, the spring and summer seasons promise good-looking fashion in wool to men of all ages.

Ellenville Parish Plans Retreat for Seniors, Juniors

The seniors and juniors of St. Mary's-St. Andrew's School of Religion in Ellenville and of Our Lady of Lourdes Mission School in Kyserike, entered upon the Lenten Season with a religious retreat. The two days of silence were spent in prayerful study of their state of life.

The Rev. John L. Cunningham, pastor of the parish, provided the retreat for the teenagers and was host to the Retreat Master, the Rev. Anthony V. Keane, a Jesuit Missionary from the Philippines.

Father Keane has many years of experience in guiding teenage youth. He directed the young retreatants to the conclusions which would improve the direction of their lives.

The Lenten teenage retreat will be given annually.

It's Pretty Special

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: I wonder how many girls feel as I do. People keep saying, "Act like a lady," until I feel like screaming. We seem to be left out of everything that's exciting while boys have all the fun. It's dull and I hate to think of spending the rest of my life, sitting around being "ladylike." Boys and girls are both people. Why can't they be treated alike?—Tomboy.

Dear Tomboy: If you are complaining because you have to watch your manners, that's silly. Boys should pay attention to manners, too. You may have to skip being a football hero, but it isn't necessary to be a wallflower to be a lady. The era of the clinging vine is gone and girls can do just about everything a boy can—except try to BE a boy.

It sounds as if you haven't acted like a girl for long enough to have enjoyed the privileges you rate as one who is feminine. When you act exactly like a boy, you lose the chance to experience the differences that make being a girl fun.

If you are a tomboy, you may have to give up slacks for dresses, keep your skirt below knee level when sitting, move a little more gracefully and permit the boys to take the lead in social relationships. None of these things will seem like sacrifices the first time a special boy's eyes light up because he discovers you're a girl.

When you buy your first formal gown and when your escort calls for your first date, you'll discover that it's pretty special and even exciting to be feminine.

Teen-agers: Please send your personal problems to Kathy Peterson in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Good Taste Today

Author of "Children Are People" and Etiquette," etc.

Q: My future bride was married before and divorced and has a three-year-old daughter. We are planning a private ceremony to be followed by a wedding reception for family and friends. Would it be proper for her daughter to be present at the reception?

A: If the child can be brought to the reception by a relative she loves and will obey, it will be proper to let her come to the reception long enough to eat a piece of cake, and then be taken home again before she can become bored and restless.

Q: I received some lovely colored stationery for my birthday and would like to know when it is proper to use it. Should it be restricted to personal friends or may it be used in writing more formal letters?

A: If it is blue, grey or mauve you may use it for all your letters, but if it pink, green or any bizarre color, use it only when writing to personal friends.

Bright Idea: Have Elopers Take Their Parents Along

"I think this is some kind of first," said Mary Martin, summing up the elopement of her daughter, Heller Halliday and a young advertising man, Anthony Weir.

What made this elopement different from others was not only that the couple had planned a big wedding and eloped to escape it—but also that both sets of parents "eloped" with the young couple.

This may be the first elopement complete with parents of both bride and groom—but it sounds like such a smart move it likely won't be the last.

Fathers of the bride have so come to dread all the rush and confusion and expense of big weddings that many a father today tells his daughter only half-jokingly, "If you'll elope I'll give you kids the cost of the wedding for a nest egg."

The only real drawback is that mothers and fathers want to be at their children's weddings, and an elopement has, in the past, cut the parents right out of the wedding picture.

But if elopement plans include both sets of parents—then an elopement ought to please everybody—but most especially the father of the bride.

He could see his daughter married without all the months of confusion and chaos that women seem to create when they get going on wedding plans.

His wife wouldn't wear herself to a nervous frazzle; his daughter wouldn't be a wreck from parties, and fittings and showers and stage-managing her big moment. His home would remain a peaceful place instead of turning into a madhouse.

And the cost of the wedding would be cut so considerably that father, himself, wouldn't be grumpy for months afterward as the bills continue to come in.

"The young couple eloped with their parents..." may yet find its way onto the society pages of our newspapers.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article:

Homemakers are concerned when they hear of fallout and strontium-90. How might fallout affect the food supply? Is it true that milk will be contaminated?

Addressing Extension Agents in February, Professor Cyril Comar, director of the Laboratory of Radiation Biology at Cornell University, gave reasons why fear of contaminated milk is unnecessary at this time.

The cow, he states, has "biological discrimination" by which she eliminates strontium-90 to a degree, if found on the plants she eats. The animal's metabolism selects calcium in preference to strontium, and in fact screens out as much as seven-eighths of of the strontium-90 from her diet of plant crops.

The greatest danger is through fear of contamination, and lack of understanding of the fact, people will leave milk out of the diet, or reduce it so that good nutrition is jeopardized.

The public should remember that three governmental agencies join forces in research of fall-out effects on the food supply: They are Atomic Energy Commission, the Public Health Services and the Department of Agriculture. Research is continuous and exhaustive to ensure a safe supply of food to the American public. Isn't it a comfort to know that a responsible government is making every effort to safeguard its citizens? So drink milk in good health, and keep yours!

Breakfast vs. Coffee Break

Is the coffee break an efficient substitute for an adequate breakfast?

In a recent study with office and factory workers ranging in age from 18 to 36, it was found that all of the people in the experiment did significantly more work when they ate an adequate breakfast than when they skipped eating.

The addition of a mid-morning snack—when an adequate breakfast had been eaten previously—offered no advantage in output of work. But when the coffee break and snack period replaced breakfast, then it proved a big advantage for half of the subjects in the amount of work they turned out.

The study also showed that when people eat an adequate breakfast they are more productive during the late morning hours, are quicker in their reactions, and do not tire as easily.

However, better nutrition is only one factor in human performance of any kind. Work efficiency is determined by other factors as well—the amount of rest the worker has had, his coordination under the best of circumstances, and his motivations to work.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article:

Homemakers are concerned when they hear of fallout and strontium-90. How might fallout affect the food supply? Is it true that milk will be contaminated?

Addressing Extension Agents in February, Professor Cyril Comar, director of the Laboratory of Radiation Biology at Cornell University, gave reasons why fear of contaminated milk is unnecessary at this time.

The cow, he states, has "biological discrimination" by which she eliminates strontium-90 to a degree, if found on the plants she eats. The animal's metabolism selects calcium in preference to strontium, and in fact screens out as much as seven-eighths of of the strontium-90 from her diet of plant crops.

The greatest danger is through fear of contamination, and lack of understanding of the fact, people will leave milk out of the diet, or reduce it so that good nutrition is jeopardized.

The public should remember that three governmental agencies join forces in research of fall-out effects on the food supply: They are Atomic Energy Commission, the Public Health Services and the Department of Agriculture. Research is continuous and exhaustive to ensure a safe supply of food to the American public. Isn't it a comfort to know that a responsible government is making every effort to safeguard its citizens? So drink milk in good health, and keep yours!

Breakfast vs. Coffee Break

Is the coffee break an efficient substitute for an adequate breakfast?

In a recent study with office and factory workers ranging in age from 18 to 36, it was found that all of the people in the experiment did significantly more work when they ate an adequate breakfast than when they skipped eating.

The addition of a mid-morning snack—when an adequate breakfast had been eaten previously—offered no advantage in output of work. But when the coffee break and snack period replaced breakfast, then it proved a big advantage for half of the subjects in the amount of work they turned out.

The study also showed that when people eat an adequate breakfast they are more productive during the late morning hours, are quicker in their reactions, and do not tire as easily.

However, better nutrition is only one factor in human performance of any kind. Work efficiency is determined by other factors as well—the amount of rest the worker has had, his coordination under the best of circumstances, and his motivations to work.

Q: My future bride was married before and divorced and has a three year-old daughter. We are planning a private ceremony to be followed by a wedding reception for family and friends. Would it be proper for her daughter to be present at the reception?

A: If the child can be brought to the reception by a relative she loves and will obey, it will be proper to let her come to the reception long enough to eat a piece of cake, and then be taken home again before she can become bored and restless.

Q: I received some lovely colored stationery for my birthday and would like to know when it is proper to use it. Should it be restricted to personal friends or may it be used in writing more formal letters?

A: If it is blue, grey or mauve you may use it for all your letters, but if it pink, green or any bizarre color, use it only when writing to personal friends.

Bright Idea: Have Elopers Take Their Parents Along

"I think this is some kind of first," said Mary Martin, summing up the elopement of her daughter, Heller Halliday and a young advertising man, Anthony Weir.

What made this elopement different from others was not only that the couple had planned a big wedding and eloped to escape it—but also that both sets of parents "eloped" with the young couple.

This may be the first elopement complete with parents of both bride and groom—but it sounds like such a smart move it likely won't be the last.

Fathers of the bride have so come to dread all the rush and confusion and expense of big weddings that many a father today tells his daughter only half-jokingly, "If you'll elope I'll give you kids the cost of the wedding for a nest egg."

The only real drawback is that mothers and fathers want to be at their children's weddings, and an elopement has, in the past, cut the parents right out of the wedding picture.

But if elopement plans include both sets of parents—then an elopement ought to please everybody—but most especially the father of the bride.

He could see his daughter married without all the months of confusion and chaos that women seem to create when they get going on wedding plans.

His wife wouldn't wear herself to a nervous frazzle; his daughter wouldn't be a wreck from parties, and fittings and showers and stage-managing her big moment. His home would remain a peaceful place instead of turning into a madhouse.

And the cost of the wedding would be cut so considerably that father, himself, wouldn't be grumpy for months afterward as the bills continue to come in.

"The young couple eloped with their parents . . ." may yet find its way onto the society pages of our newspapers.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Cops and Robbers," Sunday night's Project 20 documentary on 300 years of crime in America, gave us a fast rundown on the more prominent domestic wrongdoers.

The NBC show started with a mutinous passenger on the Mayflower and wound up with a Senate committee hearing—"I respectively (sic) refuse to answer on the grounds that it may intend (sic) to incriminate me."

But the program was never very interesting, partly because it was trying to cover too much too fast. But mostly because we're pretty familiar with the activities of our most famous infamous.

The Project 20 technique, using old posters, pictures, newsreel clips and a narrator to fill in the chinks, is good for some subjects. But as far as crime is concerned, conventional movie or television treatment is infinitely more satisfying. In real life, the cameras get busy only after the action stops.

Still pictures of desperadoes—even of John Dillinger—don't suggest their heinous crimes. The prohibition bad men—Capone and Nitti—have been pretty well covered by the "The Untouchables." The modern type of businessmen criminals are being explored systematically by such shows as "Target: the Corrupters." Most of us are familiar with the crimes, if not the criminals and know them as well as the author of the script.

The lineup of "interim hosts" who will keep NBC's "Tonight" show running after Jack Paar leaves March 29 now includes Pat Boone, Mort Sahl, Steve Lawrence—and there's a rumor Zsa Zsa Gabor will get a whack at the job. Meanwhile one sponsor has promised the show an enormous hunk of business when Johnny Carson takes over in October.

Khaki uniforms were begun by British troops in India. They dipped their white uniforms in muddy water for slight camouflage.

Two No-Trump Forces Partner

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This week's articles will discuss the two no-trump response.

This response is a popular one. Everybody likes to bid no-trump. In standard American bidding it is a game force and shows a balanced hand, 13 to 15 high card points and preparation for the lead of any suit except that bid by partner.

It is also generally abused because somehow or other most bridge players like to bid no-trump at the first opportunity so that if the hand plays in no-trump they will be declarer.

South has a perfect book two no-trump response and North should take him right to game. Of course, North has a bare minimum bid, but the two no-trump response is a force and North must bid again.

Many players would rebid to three spades with the North hand, but there is no reason to make that bid. North has no-trump distribution and South has announced that he will be responsible for stopping any suit.

Health for All

Out of Breath?

Do you know someone who wheezes and puffs?

He may have a chest sickness that makes it hard for him to breathe out.

Normally, our lungs hold about two quarts of air. Each time we breathe, we let out a pint and take a new pint in. The air that remains is later exchanged for fresh air. But always—no matter how hard we blow—at least a quart remains.

If a person wheezes and puffs, it may be because too much air remains in his lungs and he can't get his breath out. This is a sickness called emphysema.

It is common among older people. Especially those who have had tuberculosis or chronic bronchitis. Glass blowers and trumpet players who have overworked their breathing muscles are also particularly susceptible.

Emphysema is serious and uncomfortable. But it can be arrested.

Doctors can help people live with it for a long time. They use different treatments, including some of the "wonder drugs." Trained physiotherapists can often teach elderly emphysema patients who have had trouble moving around to walk about—even down the street. The physiotherapist gives them breathing exercises.

Men who have emphysema in the early stages should stop smoking. They should also change jobs if they work in dusty or smoky places. Active workers who lift and strain will probably have to do something less taxing physically.

If you have a chronic cough or are short of breath, don't just blame it on cigarettes and forget about it. Your lungs may slowly be filling with too much air. See your doctor. Early attention can keep emphysema from becoming a crippler.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"Cops and Robbers," Sunday night's Project 20 documentary on 300 years of crime in America, gave us a fast rundown on the more prominent domestic wrongdoers.

The NBC show started with a mutinous passenger on the Mayflower and wound up with a Senate committee hearing—"I respectively (sic) refuse to answer on the grounds that it may intend (sic) to incriminate me."

But the program was never very interesting, partly because it was trying to cover too much too fast. But mostly because we're pretty familiar with the activities of our most famous infamous.

The Project 20 technique, using old posters, pictures, newsreel clips and a narrator to fill in the chinks, is good for some subjects. But as far as crime is concerned, conventional movie or television treatment is infinitely more satisfying. In real life, the cameras get busy only after the action stops.

Still pictures of desperadoes—even of John Dillinger—don't suggest their heinous crimes. The prohibition bad men—Capone and Nitti—have been pretty well covered by the "The Untouchables." The modern type of businessmen criminals are being explored systematically by such shows as "Target: the Corrupters." Most of us are familiar with the crimes, if not the criminals and know them as well as the author of the script.

The lineup of "interim hosts" who will keep NBC's "Tonight" show running after Jack Paar leaves March 29 now includes Pat Boone, Mort Sahl, Steve Lawrence —and there's a rumor Zsa Zsa Gabor will get a whack at the job. Meanwhile one sponsor has promised the show an enormous hunk of business when Johnny Carson takes over in October.

Two No-Trump Forces Partner

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This week's articles will discuss the two no-trump response.

This response is a popular one. Everybody likes to bid no-trump. In standard American bidding it is a game force and shows a balanced hand, 13 to 15 high card points and preparation for the lead of any suit except that bid by partner.

It is also generally abused because somehow or other most bridge players like to bid no-trump at the first opportunity so that if the hand plays in no-trump they will be declarer.

South has a perfect book two no-trump response and North should take him right to game. Of course, North has a bare minimum bid, but the two no-trump response is a force and North must bid again.

Many players would rebid to three spades with the North hand, but there is no reason to make that bid. North has no-trump distribution and South has announced that he will be responsible for stopping any suit.

Jones Sweeps Miron Lumber In Protested HVBL Match

Sides Disagree On What Alleys To Roll Games

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Larry Petersen showed the way with a 714 blast and Chris Gallo shot 687 as Jones Dairy keglers virtually clinched a Hudson Valley Bowling league record Saturday night at Sangi's Bowlero.

The local hotshots mauled the wood for games of 1029, 1137 and 1094 for a 3260 triple, as they swept Miron Lumber in three games.

However, despite the bombardment by the Dairymen, much of the action occurred before the first ball was thrown as both sides engaged in a "Cold War" that would have made world powers blush. For better than 40 minutes, it was a touch and go situation as to whether there would be a match at all.

Ferraro Objects

It all started last week when Jerry Kaplan of Miron Lumber sent a note to the league secretary, telling him that the Lumbermen would change their home alleys from 5 and 6 to 11 and 12. However, this didn't sit well with captain John Ferraro of Jones. He claimed that the change could occur only with two-thirds consent of the league captains and he further cited that Kaplan, since he was not captain of Miron, did not have the right to request the change.

Ferraro called secretary Ralph Smith on Friday and Kaplan did also. Smith told both keglers that if captains of the other teams objected to the change, it could not be made. However, Smith also advised Kaplan to call president Gordon Mead of Newburgh and check.

Kaplan said he called Mead and the league president gave Miron permission to roll on 11-12. So when the Jones boys walked into the Bowlero at 7:55 Saturday night, they found Miron warming up on 11-12 and 5-6 was being used for open bowling.

Ferraro refused to use 11-12 and he was backed by captains of Three Brothers Egg Farm and Ellenville Channel Masters, who were also rolling a match at the Bowlero. Since they were only a shade behind Miron in the fight for second place, they had a lot at stake also.

Ken Joseph, the captain of the Lumbermen, finally reached Mead. He was rolling at the Bowlerama against Charles Ramsey, another local team. Mead talked to Ferraro and then to Joseph and his decision was that the match had to be rolled on 5-6 because team captains did not favor the change to the other alleys.

Miron Protests

This prompted Miron to roll the match under protest, claiming that whenever lanes were changed other times during the year, there was never any permission granted by the team captains.

With all the preliminaries out of the way, the match finally started at 9 o'clock and Jones, who went into the night with an individual team mark of 1012.35, slightly ahead of the HVBL mark of 1012, set in 1954 by another Jones Dairy club, promptly picked up almost three pins on its record. The 3290 made the average read a shiny 1015.34 and only a home match against Miron (what again?) remains.

Jack and Buster Ferraro did most of the damage in the first game. Jack threw a 235 and Buster added 217. Gallo and Petersen were also above the 200 mark as the Dairymen shot a 1029.

It was Gallo and Petersen who excited the crowd, which was a large and enthusiastic one. They each made eight pins on the first ball of the second game and then went on strike orgies. Gallo threw nine in a row in the 1-3 pocket before tossing wide on the second ball in the 10th frame. He left the six pin standing and converted it, to close with 279.

Larry Is Hot

Petersen was even better. After his spare, Larry had 11 stright strikes for a 290 game. Ten of the hits were solidly in the 1-3 pocket and the other was right on the nose with a lot of action.

With a 569 series between two bowlers, it appeared possible for Jones to crack the single mark of 1234. However, the Ferraro trio didn't have a 200 between them and the score of 1137, though respectable, could have been higher.

All five keglers were above 200 in the final game with a 229 by Jack and John's 223 single being high. The 1094 was enough to win that game and sweep the match and knock Miron from second place in the league.

The Lumbermen had a good second effort, knocking 1024 and they hit 902 and 920 in the other games for a 2846 triple. However, they ran into the hottest shooting club in the valley.

With only three games left, and nobody has decided when they'll be rolled as yet, four of the Dairymen now have averages of 200 or better. Gallo is the exception and another big 600 would shove him over the mark. It would be an unprecedented feat, but then this team has been doing the near impossible since recovering from an early season slump.

Paret, Griffith In Title Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Welterweights dominate the boxing calendar this week, highlighted by the world title bout between champion Benny (Kid) Paret and Emile Griffith, who lost the crown six months ago.

And with little fanfare is Virgil Akins' 10-round bout in Houston Tuesday night against Rip Randall of Dallas. Akins, a former champion, lost the title in 1958 to Don Jordan. Jordan lost it to Paret in May, 1960.

Paret and Griffith are scheduled for 15 rounds Saturday night in New York's Madison Square Garden, with the fight getting national television (ABC). Griffith first took the title from Paret a year ago, then lost it in a disputed 15-round decision last Sept. 30.

Paret was knocked out by Gene Fullmer in December when attempted to take the middleweight title. Griffith has won three in a row since his title loss.

Griffith has vowed no letup in his plan to knock out the 25-year-old Cuban and avert any question of a disputed decision. Paret is equally adamant in his plans to dispose of Griffith.

Michigan State Skaters Lead All-Star Picks

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Most valuable player Louis Angotti and three other members of the champion Michigan Tech team dominate the NCAA Hockey Tournament all-star team.

Forward Gordon Berenson of Michigan, which won the consolation title with a 5-1 victory over St. Lawrence, and goalie Richie Broadbelt of St. Lawrence round out the first team.

Ivanitz scored three goals for Tech in the finale as Tech wound up the season with a 20-game winning streak, a 28-3 record and became the eighth western team in succession to take the national crown. Paul Lapointe scored the only Clarkson goal.

Nanuet Nips Wallkill 63-52, for 'C' Title

Nick Wittman rimmed 25 points to lead Nanuet of Rockland County to a 63-52 decision over Wallkill, the UCAL champion in the finals of the Class C, Section Nine cage tourney Saturday night at the Orange County Community College gym in Middletown.

The champions rushed to a 12-4 first period lead and never trailed the Blue X Devils, though Coach Jack Higgins' quintet made it close on several occasions.

Ed Mooney, Doug Edebohls and Dave Myers, the big front line of Wallkill, fouled out in the final period and it thwarted last minute hopes of pulling the game out of the fire.

Mooney finished with 19 points for Wallkill while Edebohls had 12 and Myers 10.

Nanuet is coached by Chuck Walsh, former head cage coach at Ellenville Central. It's the only C school in Rockland County and this marked the first championship in its history.

Campilli will lead the Marist crews against St. John's on April 8 at Travers Island in the first regatta of the season. The college crew is coached by Joe Catanzaro, former rowing coach at Poughkeepsie High School.

White Eagle, Elks To Duel Tuesday For Shuffle Title

White Eagle Society and the Elks Lodge are deadlocked at one match each in the post season playoff of the Inter-Fraternal Shuffleboard league. The deciding match is slated Tuesday, 8 p. m., at the Moose Club.

Last week, both sides won on their home boards by identical 4-2 scores. High scorer for the Elks was John Keizer with 16 points. Tony Turck had 14 points for White Eagles. A rarity in shuffleboard was accomplished by Val Skop and Bob Burns of the White Eagles when they combined for a 21-0 shutout.

In the return match at the Elks Club, Hank Horton of the Eagles led both teams with 16 points.

The ninth annual banquet of the league is slated for Saturday, 7 p. m., at the Moose Lodge. In addition to the program, there will be a playoff between three players who are tied for a special trophy award for having the highest single slide for the season.

They are Ed Caughey, Moose; Francis Duffy, White Eagles and Angelo Altamari, St. Mary's. This event will precede the banquet.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from any team captain or from chairman Don Koeppen.

Jones Sweeps Miron Lumber In Protested HVBL Match

Sides Disagree On What Alleys To Roll Games

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Larry Petersen showed the way with a 714 blast and Chris Gallo shot 687 as Jones Dairy keglers virtually clinched a Hudson Valley Bowling league record Saturday night at Sangi's Bowlero.

The local hotshots mauled the wood for games of 1029, 1137 and 1094 for a 3260 triple, as they swept Miron Lumber in three games.

However, despite the bombardment by the Dairymen, much of the action occurred before the first ball was thrown as both sides engaged in a "Cold War" that would have made world powers blush. For better than 40 minutes, it was a touch and go situation as to whether there would be a match at all.

Ferraro Objects

It all started last week when Jerry Kaplan of Miron Lumber sent a note to the league secretary, telling him that the Lumbermen would change their home alleys from 5 and 6 to 11 and 12. However, this didn't sit well with captain John Ferraro of Jones. He claimed that the change could occur only with two-thirds consent of the league captains and he further cited that Kaplan, since he was not captain of Miron, did not have the right to request the change.

Ferraro called secretary Ralph Smith on Friday and Kaplan did also. Smith told both keglers that if captains of the other teams objected to the change, it could not be made. However, Smith also advised Kaplan to call president Gordon Mead of Newburgh and check.

Kaplan said he called Mead and the league president gave Miron permission to roll on 11-12. So when the Jones boys walked into the Bowlero at 7:55 Saturday night, they found Miron warming up on 11-12 and 5-6 was being used for open bowling.

Ferraro refused to use 11-12 and he was backed by captains of Three Brothers Egg Farm and Ellenville Channel Masters, who were also rolling a match at the Bowlero. Since they were only a shade behind Miron in the fight for second place, they had a lot at stake also.

Ken Joseph, the captain of the Lumbermen, finally reached Mead. He was rolling at the Bowlerama against Charles Ramsey, another local team. Mead talked to Ferraro and then to Joseph and his decision was that the match had to be rolled on 5-6 because team captains did not favor the change to the other alleys.

Miron Protests

This prompted Miron to roll the match under protest, claiming that whenever lanes were changed other times during the year, there was never any permission granted by the team captains.

With all the preliminaries out of the way, the match finally started at 9 o'clock and Jones, who went into the night with an individual team mark of 1012.35, slightly ahead of the HVBL mark of 1012, set in 1954 by another Jones Dairy club, promptly picked up almost three pins on its record. The 3290 made the average read a shiny 1015.34 and only a home match against Miron (what again?) remains.

Jack and Buster Ferraro did most of the damage in the first game. Jack threw a 235 and Buster added 217. Gallo and Petersen were also above the 200 mark as the Dairymen shot a 1029.

It was Gallo and Petersen who excited the crowd, which was a large and enthusiastic one. They each made eight pins on the first ball of the second game and then went on strike orgies. Gallo threw nine in a row in the 1-3 pocket before tossing wide on the second ball in the 10th frame. He left the six pin standing and converted it, to close with 279.

Larry Is Hot

Petersen was even better. After his spare, Larry had 11 stright strikes for a 290 game. Ten of the hits were solidly in the 1-3 pocket and the other was right on the nose with a lot of action.

With a 569 series between two bowlers, it appeared possible for Jones to crack the single mark of 1234. However, the Ferraro trio didn't have a 200 between them and the score of 1137, though respectable, could have been higher.

All five keglers were above 200 in the final game with a 229 by Jack and John's 223 single being high. The 1094 was enough to win that game and sweep the match and knock Miron from second place in the league.

The Lumbermen had a good second effort, knocking 1024 and they hit 902 and 920 in the other games for a 2846 triple. However, they ran into the hottest shooting club in the valley.

With only three games left, and nobody has decided when they'll be rolled as yet, four of the Dairymen now have averages of 200 or better. Gallo is the exception and another big 600 would shove him over the mark. It would be an unprecedented feat, but then this team has been doing the near impossible since recovering from an early season slump.

Michigan State Skaters Lead All-Star Picks

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—Most valuable player Louis Angotti and three other members of the champion Michigan Tech team dominate the NCAA Hockey Tournament all-star team.

Forward Gordon Berenson of Michigan, which won the consolation title with a 5-1 victory over St. Lawrence, and goalie Richie Broadbelt of St. Lawrence round out the first team.

Ivanitz scored three goals for Tech in the finale as Tech wound up the season with a 20-game winning streak, a 28-3 record and became the eighth western team in succession to take the national crown. Paul Lapointe scored the only Clarkson goal.

Paret, Griffith In Title Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Welterweights dominate the boxing calendar this week, highlighted by the world title bout between champion Benny (Kid) Paret and Emile Griffith, who lost the crown six months ago.

And with little fanfare is Virgil Akins' 10-round bout in Houston Tuesday night against Rip Randall of Dallas. Akins, a former champion, lost the title in 1958 to Don Jordan. Jordan lost it to Paret in May, 1960.

Paret and Griffith are scheduled for 15 rounds Saturday night in New York's Madison Square Garden, with the fight getting national television (ABC). Griffith first took the title from Paret a year ago, then lost it in a disputed 15-round decision last Sept. 30.

Paret was knocked out by Gene Fullmer in December when attempted to take the middleweight title. Griffith has won three in a row since his title loss.

Griffith has vowed no letup in his plan to knock out the 25-year-old Cuban and avert any question of a disputed decision. Paret is equally adamant in his plans to dispose of Griffith.

Nanuet Nips Wallkill 63-52, for 'C' Title

Nick Wittman rimmed 25 points to lead Nanuet of Rockland County to a 63-52 decision over Wallkill, the UCAL champion in the finals of the Class C, Section Nine cage tourney Saturday night at the Orange County Community College gym in Middletown.

The champions rushed to a 12-4 first period lead and never trailed the Blue X Devils, though Coach Jack Higgins' quintet made it close on several occasions.

Ed Mooney, Doug Edebohls and Dave Myers, the big front line of Wallkill, fouled out in the final period and it thwarted last minute hopes of pulling the game out of the fire.

Mooney finished with 19 points for Wallkill while Edebohls had 12 and Myers 10.

Nanuet is coached by Chuck Walsh, former head cage coach at Ellenville Central. It's the only C school in Rockland County and this marked the first championship in its history.

White Eagle, Elks To Duel Tuesday For Shuffle Title

White Eagle Society and the Elks Lodge are deadlocked at one match each in the post season playoff of the Inter-Fraternal Shuffleboard league. The deciding match is slated Tuesday, 8 p. m., at the Moose Club.

Last week, both sides won on their home boards by identical 4-2 scores. High scorer for the Elks was John Keizer with 16 points. Tony Turck had 14 points for White Eagles. A rarity in shuffleboard was accomplished by Val Skop and Bob Burns of the White Eagles when they combined for a 21-0 shutout.

In the return match at the Elks Club, Hank Horton of the Eagles led both teams with 16 points.

The ninth annual banquet of the league is slated for Saturday, 7 p. m., at the Moose Lodge. In addition to the program, there will be a playoff between three players who are tied for a special trophy award for having the highest single slide for the season.

They are Ed Caughey, Moose; Francis Duffy, White Eagles and Angelo Altamari, St. Mary's. This event will precede the banquet.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from any team captain or from chairman Don Koeppen.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ... by MURRAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (NEA) — The trail southward, through the swamps of South Carolina, the Georgia turpentine tracts and finally the moss-draped oak of Florida, meant only baseball . . . but a guy had to wonder, considering all the football coaches on the move, too. . . .

First, there was Bear Bryant, whose recent wendings have taken him from Tuscaloosa, Ala., to Santa Monica, Calif., to Las Vegas, Nev., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington.

It had the Bear thinking, when we bumped into him in Pennsylvania, that it wasn't worth it any more being Coach-of-the-year . . . his travels are only beginning, because still ahead is a clinic in Europe . . . and his right leg was swollen and aching — not because he was walking the route, but there's a lot of standing to do if those dotted cubes captivate you in Vegas. . . .

It had Bryant reminiscing that the year which brought his greatest tribute in coaching, as he led Alabama to an undefeated season, was the one he had time-tabled for his farewell to football. . . .

The story is that when Bear was at Texas A. and M. and Alabama sent feelers four years ago, he turned down his alma mater . . . like he'd turned 'Bama down several seasons before . . . because his intention was to serve the three remaining years on his contract at A. and M. and then in 1961 go into the oil business with a job that would start at 50 G's a year. . . .

There was a strong pull to return to Tuscaloosa . . . Mary Harmon Bryant is from Troy, Ala. . . . and, like Bear says, "she's been in second heaven since we come back." . . .

That kind of talk comes natural for an Arkansas farm boy who can still discourse on the merits of Rooster vs. Garrett (that's snuff, man) . . . and was only 12 when Paul Bryant became Bear. . . . A carnival came to Fordyce, Ark., and offered a dollar a minute to anyone who'd wrestle with the bear. . . . "I was big for my age and that sounded like a lot more than the 50 cents a day I was getting for chopping cotton." . . .

He was doing fine until he felt something warm on his ear, reached up and touched blood . . . then looked down at the bear cradled in a half-nelson and noticed his muzzle was off. . . .

"I jumped off the stage (this was in the Paradise Theatre) and almost broke a half-dozen chairs coming down. . . . I guess I didn't jump as fast as the man who owned the bear." . . . Turned out the carny owner skipped town without paying Bryant, though he left him with a name that has endured. . . . "I've done my share of bleeding since," Bear grins grimly, "coaching."

His only regret is that "I didn't return to Alabama a few years earlier so I could have done some of that bleeding for the state university." . . . For him, the Crimson Tide is the end of the line—"I'll never coach any place else." . . .

Some miles down the road, in Annapolis, another coach, Navy's Wayne Hardin, took time out out from his spring football drills to conduct a quickie tour of the Academy grounds . . . and stopped by a water inlet with a promontory jutting out on the other end. . . . "That," he said, "is my dream—to see the coaches living out there some day."

The land is owned by the Navy Athletic Association. . . . Middie coaches, unlike Army's, provide their own housing now. . . . Looks like Wayne is planning to stick around a few years . . . until the situation changes. . . .

But if a guy doubts that baseball is around the corner, he just has to bump into Walter Alston upon arrival and hear him talk about the new Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles. . . . "At least," he grins, "we won't have that blankety-blank left field screen as an excuse." . . . Didn't sound like a football coach.

Buckeyes, Cincy May Meet Again

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Buckeyes, who lost a 70-65 overtime thriller to Cincy a year ago for the title, meet with the torrid Deacons in the first game of the semifinal match this Friday night in Louisville's Freedom Hall.

Cincinnati, just as eager to make it two in a row over its intrastate rival, meets surprising UCLA in the nightcap. The winners play Saturday night for the title and it will be surprising if the Bucks and Bears are out.

NIT Continues

While the week of waiting and wondering is going on, the fur will fly in New York National Invitation Tournament, picking up again Tuesday night with the last quarter-final pairing. Bradley, which came to the NIT after losing a playoff battle with Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley Conference's NCAA berth, takes on Duquesne and St. John's plays Holy Cross.

The winners will play each other in one semifinal game on Thursday night, while Loyola of Chicago and Dayton meet in the other game. Loyola smothered Temple 75-64 and Dayton's onrushing Flyers easily defeated Houston 94-77 in quarter-final games last Saturday night.

Both Bradley and St. John's drew byes. Duquesne, which beat the Braves only two weeks ago in a regular season game, defeated Navy 70-58 and Holy Cross edged Colorado State University 72-71 in first-round games.

No sooner had Ohio State and Cincinnati reached their respective dressing rooms after the 1961 title game, than talk of a rematch began, and it has persisted all year. Now comes the weekend of decision.

Lucas Stars

The Buckeyes, with a 21-1 season record, took the NCAA Mid-East regional title at Iowa City on Saturday night with a 74-64 victory over Kentucky's young Wildcats as All-America Jerry Lucas collected 33 points and played his usual flawless floor game.

The two supposed sacrificial lambs—Wake Forest and UCLA—were far from unimpressive. The Deacons, behind All-America Len Chappell, whipped Villanova 79-69 for the Eastern regional title, and UCLA's Bruins put the clamps on 7-foot Mel Counts and rolled over Oregon State 88-69 for the Far West title.

The smaller colleges' two main titles were wrapped up over the weekend, with Mount St. Mary's getting the NCAA college division crown by beating Sacramento State 58-57 in overtime and Prairie View knocking off favored Westminster (Pa.) 62-53 for NAIA

Ramsey Wins Three, 3 Brothers Take Two

Three Brothers Egg Farms won a pair from the Ellenville Channel Master team, dropping Ellenville from second to third and moving Three Brothers into a tie for fourth with Miron Lumber but still only one game out of second and a half game out of third.

Carpino Raps 664

Vince (Chick) Carpino anchored Charles Ramsey to the sweep with 207-256-201-664. Jim Berardi stroked 226-200-213-639 and Joe Ausanio had 179-204-237-620. Frank Olenick was the best for Rhoda Arms, hitting 242-203-192-637 and Ed Vradenburgh scored 177-210-235-622.

The local side hit consistent games of 974, 1081 and 1011 against 960, 949 and 1006. The last game was decided in the final frame when anchorman Wally Gerken of Newburgh missed a spare. A mark would have turned the tide.

Bob Shelightner and Tom Carlino led Three Brothers to the decision. Shelightner rapped 213-222-196 for 630 while Carlino added 165-223-217-605. Dick Exner made 233-197-173-605 and Frank Brink had 203-206-191-600 for the Channel Masters. Tim Bilyeu, who went in with a 200 average, slumped to 484.

The teams swap home alleys this week, the final one of the season and that battle for second is still a wide open affair.

Warriors Now Within Reach Of Celts Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors, hurrying toward a long-awaited crack at the champion Boston Celtics, can reach that point in the National Basketball Association playoffs tonight with a victory over Syracuse's worn-out Nats.

Upset by the Nats last season, the Warriors took a commanding 2-0 lead in the current best-of-5 series in the Eastern Division semifinals playoffs with an easy 97-82 victory at Syracuse Sunday.

At the same time, the Detroit Pistons, beaten 129-107 by Cincinnati Saturday, turned the tables on the Royals for a 118-107 victory Sunday. It gave them a 2-1 edge in the best-of-5 Western Division series that will decide the opponent for Los Angeles, the division champion.

Wilt Chamberlain's 50-points a game average suffered a jolt when he was held to 28 by the Nats, but it was enough to make him the game's top scorer. Syracuse held a 27-26 lead after the first period but Philadelphia had built a 54-43 lead by halftime.

It was a battle at Detroit until the first minutes of the third quarter when a jumper by Don Ohl put the Pistons ahead 43-53 and Ray Scott followed with two quick baskets. Four Pistons hit for 20 or more points with Bailey Howell getting 27, Gene Shue 25, Scott 22 and Ohl 21.

Swedes Capture Hockey Honors

COLORADO SPRINGS — (AP) —The Swedish team takes off today on the road back home with the World Amateur Ice Hockey Championship, a flock of other honors and every indication of being a selfish host in the title department of the 1963 tournament.

"We are going to be tough to beat," candidly said Swedish coach Arne Stromberg whose darkhorse squad whipped both Canada's defending titlists and the United States in a seven-game sweep of the 11-day meet.

"The Canadians, who finished second with a 6-1 record after trouncing the Americans 6-1 Sunday, and the Yanks, face a number of thorny problems in their quest to win the 1963 championship trophy.

The Canadians, still complaining over the officiating in their 5-3 key loss to Sweden, will see even more delicate calls made in Stockholm next March. Both the Canadians and the Americans prefer the rugged, slambang style of play normal in North America. The Europeans lean to precision passing and little if any body checking.

Pipers Leading In Eastern Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two victories over the weekend have enabled the Cleveland Pipers to take over first place in the tight Eastern Division race of the American Basketball League. The Pipers lead runnerup Pittsburgh by one-half game.

The Pittsburgh Rens whipped the New York Tapers 118-104 and the San Francisco Saints edged the Kansas City Steers 123-121 in overtime in Sunday's other action.

A last period splurge carried Cleveland to its triumph over Chicago in a game that was tied 24 times. Johnny Cox led Cleveland's scoring attack with 24 points. Tony Jackson of the Majors scored 31.

Ken Sears collected six straight points in the overtime to pace San Francisco to its success over Kansas City's Western Division leaders. Bill Bridges topped the Steers with 30 points and Sears led the Saints, who had seven players in double scoring figures, with 23.

Middlecoff Now Close to Leaders In Golf Tourney

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Cary Middlecoff, twice winner of the St. Petersburg open golf championship, is applying pressure to the leaders in a bid for his third round with a 71 for a total eight-under-par 208.

He was just one stroke behind the leaders, Don Fairfield of Champaign, Ill., and Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex.

The 41-year-old professional, who ranks second in over-all money winnings since 1947 with $283,182, drew the largest gallery on the course in the third round.

Boynton, leader during the first two rounds, blew his margin by carding a one-over-par 36-37—73. Fairfield collected six birdied over the 18 holes for a 66, low round of the day.

Lou Brock Starring For Cubs

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The assorted coaches making up the brain trust for the manageless Chicago Cubs pondered today the rising stock of Lou Brock, 22-year-old outfield hopeful battling for a berth in the majors after only one season of organized ball.

But that was quite a first year for the left-handed swinger from Monroe, La. He led the Class C Northern League with a .361 batting average and was No. 1 man in hits (181), doubles (33) and runs (117) while tying for the stolen base championship with 37.

Now he's playing the role of a phenom for the Cubs. He hit his second home run of the spring in a 5-1 exhibition triumph over Boston Saturday. Then he led the Chicagoans to a 6-5 victory over the Red Sox at Scottsdale Sunday with four singles and a triple in five trips.

It was the sixth decision in succession for the Cubs—who lost their first three by one run—and left them atop the National League standings by a slight margin over Los Angeles. The Dodgers brought their record to 6-4 by beating Baltimore 5-1 at Miami.

Yanks Win Again

The world champion New York Yankees remained in first place among American League clubs, extending their unbeaten streak to eight by shelling the Chicago White Sox 10-3 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The White Sox are second at 6-3.

In other games Sunday, San Francisco whipped Cleveland 4-1 at Tucson, Detroit walloped Cincinnati 12-6 at Tampa, Kansas City beat Pittsburgh 3-1 at Fort Myers, Minnesota defeated Washington 6-3 at Orlando, St. Louis edged Milwaukee 7-6 in 11 innings at Bradenton, Philadelphia nipped the New York Mets 3-2 at St. Petersburg and the Los Angeles Angeles blasted Houston 14-8 in 11 innings at Apache Junction.

The Dodgers, outhit by the Orioles 11-6, won it behind pitchers Johnny Podres, Larry Sherry and Ed Roebuck with Maury Wills driving in two runs and Wally Moon and Jim Gilliam one each. The Yankees kayoed White Sox rookie Joel Horlen with six runs in the fifth that put it out of reach. Roger Maris played eight innings for the Yanks and hit two singles.

Felipe Alou had three hits for the Giants, accounted for two RBIs and scored the tie-breaking run in the seventh when Jim Davenport squeezed him home from third. Jim Duffalo, Mike McCormick and Bob Bolin checked the Indians on four hits. Norm Cash clicked with five RBI for the Tigers, crashing a two-run homer as Reds' starter Joey Jay was shelled for nine runs in two innings.

Kansas City rookies John Wyatt, Dan Pfister and Diego Segui held the Pirates to three singles while Gino Cimoli lashed a two-run double in the fourth that proved to be the clincher. A two-run triple by Harmon Killebrew in the fifth powered the Twins over the Senators for their second straight win after losing seven in a row.

White Slams

Minnie Minoso's run-scoring single gave the Cards their victory after Bill White's grand slam homer in the top of the ninth handed them a four-run edge the Braves overcame in the bottom half of the inning. Roger Craig went eight innings for the Mets, giving up all the Phils' runs while Jack Baldschun cut off a New York rally in the ninth.

The Angels belted Colts hurler Ken Pate for eight runs—largest one inning total of the spring—in the 11th after a misjudged fly ball by Al Spangler went for a triple and opened the door.

Rangers, Leafs Play to 2-2 Tie, Detroit Gets Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It looks like it might be pretty close, eh?" Harvey asked after his Rangers blew a two-goal lead and tied Toronto 2-2.

He was referring to the Rangers' scramble with Detroit for fourth place in the National Hockey League and the last playoff spot. Detroit, which beat Chicago 4-1 Sunday night, now trails by one point, 59-60, and has a game in hand.

Boston surprised Montreal 6-2 in the other game.

Only fourth place still is in contention as the league goes into the last week of the regular season. Montreal clinched its fifth straight regular season title with a 2-0 triumph over New York Saturday night. Toronto is set in second place and Chicago in third.

New York now has only two games left to play, in Boston Thursday and at home against Chicago Sunday. Detroit visits Chicago Tuesday, goes to Toronto Saturday and closes at home Sunday.

In an individual race, New York's Andy Bathgate picked up one point in his fight for the league's scoring title. He assisted on New York's second goal and now has 82 points. Chicago's Bobby Hull was shut out in Detroit and has 80. Hull scored his 47th goal of the season in Toronto Saturday and tied a league record by scoring at least one goal in nine consecutive games.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ,... by MURRAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (NEA) — The trail southward, through the swamps of South Carolina, the Georgia turpentine tracts and finally the moss-draped oak of Florida, meant only baseball . . . but a guy had to wonder, considering all the football coaches on the move, too. . . .

First, there was Bear Bryant, whose recent wendings have taken him from Tuscaloosa, Ala., to Santa Monica, Calif., to Las Vegas, Nev., Harrisburg, Pa., and Washington.

It had the Bear thinking, when we bumped into him in Pennsylvania, that it wasn't worth it any more being Coach-of-the-year . . . his travels are only beginning, because still ahead is a clinic in Europe . . . and his right leg was swollen and aching — not because he was walking the route, but there's a lot of standing to do if those dotted cubes captivate you in Vegas. . . .

It had Bryant reminiscing that the year which brought his greatest tribute in coaching, as he led Alabama to an undefeated season, was the one he had time-tabled for his farewell to football. . . .

The story is that when Bear was at Texas A. and M. and Alabama sent feelers four years ago, he turned down his alma mater . . . like he'd turned 'Bama down several seasons before . . . because his intention was to serve the three remaining years on his contract at A. and M. and then in 1961 go into the oil business with a job that would start at 50 G's a year. . . .

There was a strong pull to return to Tuscaloosa . . . Mary Harmon Bryant is from Troy, Ala. . . . and, like Bear says, "she's been in second heaven since we come back." . . .

That kind of talk comes natural for an Arkansas farm boy who can still discourse on the merits of Rooster vs. Garrett (that's snuff, man) . . . and was only 12 when Paul Bryant became Bear. . . . A carnival came to Fordyce, Ark., and offered a dollar a minute to anyone who'd wrestle with the bear. . . . "I was big for my age and that sounded like a lot more than the 50 cents a day I was getting for chopping cotton." . . .

He was doing fine until he felt something warm on his ear, reached up and touched blood . . . then looked down at the bear cradled in a half-nelson and noticed his muzzle was off. . . .

"I jumped off the stage (this was in the Paradise Theatre) and almost broke a half-dozen chairs coming down. . . . I guess I didn't jump as fast as the man who owned the bear." . . . Turned out the carny owner skipped town without paying Bryant, though he left him with a name that has endured. . . . "I've done my share of bleeding since," Bear grins grimly, "coaching."

His only regret is that "I didn't return to Alabama a few years earlier so I could have done some of that bleeding for the state university." . . . For him, the Crimson Tide is the end of the line—"I'll never coach any place else." . . .

Some miles down the road, in Annapolis, another coach, Navy's Wayne Hardin, took time out out from his spring football drills to conduct a quickie tour of the Academy grounds . . . and stopped by a water inlet with a promontory jutting out on the other end. . . . "That," he said, "is my dream—to see the coaches living out there some day."

The land is owned by the Navy Athletic Association. . . . Middie coaches, unlike Army's, provide their own housing now. . . . Looks like Wayne is planning to stick around a few years . . . until the situation changes. . . .

But if a guy doubts that baseball is around the corner, he just has to bump into Walter Alston upon arrival and hear him talk about the new Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles. . . . "At least," he grins, "we won't have that blankety-blank left field screen as an excuse." . . . Didn't sound like a football coach.

Lou Brock Starring For Cubs

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The assorted coaches making up the brain trust for the manageress Chicago Cubs pondered today the rising stock of Lou Brock, 22-year-old outfield hopeful battling for a berth in the majors after only one season of organized ball.

But that was quite a first year for the left-handed swinger from Monroe, La. He led the Class C Northern League with a .361 batting average and was No. 1 man in hits (181), doubles (33) and runs (117) while tying for the stolen base championship with 37.

Now he's playing the role of a phenom for the Cubs. He hit his second home run of the spring in a 5-1 exhibition triumph over Boston Saturday. Then he led the Chicagoans to a 6-5 victory over the Red Sox at Scottsdale Sunday with four singles and a triple in five trips.

It was the sixth decision in succession for the Cubs—who lost their first three by one run—and left them atop the National League standings by a slight margin over Los Angeles. The Dodgers brought their record to 6-4 by beating Baltimore 5-1 at Miami.

Yanks Win Again

The world champion New York Yankees remained in first place among American League clubs, extending their unbeaten streak to eight by shelling the Chicago White Sox 10-3 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The White Sox are second at 6-3.

In other games Sunday, San Francisco whipped Cleveland 4-1 at Tucson, Detroit walloped Cincinnati 12-6 at Tampa, Kansas City beat Pittsburgh 3-1 at Fort Myers, Minnesota defeated Washington 6-3 at Orlando, St. Louis edged Milwaukee 7-6 in 11 innings at Bradenton, Philadelphia nipped the New York Mets 3-2 at St. Petersburg and the Los Angeles Angeles blasted Houston 14-8 in 11 innings at Apache Junction.

The Dodgers, outhit by the Orioles 11-6, won it behind pitchers Johnny Podres, Larry Sherry and Ed Roebuck with Maury Wills driving in two runs and Wally Moon and Jim Gilliam one each. The Yankees kayoed White Sox rookie Joel Horlen with six runs in the fifth that put it out of reach. Roger Maris played eight innings for the Yanks and hit two singles.

Felipe Alou had three hits for the Giants, accounted for two RBIs and scored the tie-breaking run in the seventh when Jim Davenport squeezed him home from third. Jim Duffalo, Mike McCormick and Bob Bolin checked the Indians on four hits. Norm Cash clicked with five RBI for the Tigers, crashing a two-run homer as Reds' starter Joey Jay was shelled for nine runs in two innings.

Kansas City rookies John Wyatt, Dan Pfister and Diego Segui held the Pirates to three singles while Gino Cimoli lashed a two-run double in the fourth that proved to be the clincher. A two-run triple by Harmon Killebrew in the fifth powered the Twins over the Senators for their second straight win after losing seven in a row.

White Slams

Minnie Minoso's run-scoring single gave the Cards their victory after Bill White's grand slam homer in the top of the ninth handed them a four-run edge the Braves overcame in the bottom half of the inning. Roger Craig went eight innings for the Mets, giving up all the Phils' runs while Jack Baldschun cut off a New York rally in the ninth.

The Angels belted Colts hurler Ken Pate for eight runs—largest one inning total of the spring—in the 11th after a misjudged fly ball by Al Spangler went for a triple and opened the door.

Buckeyes, Cincy May Meet Again

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State, just itching to get another crack at Cincinnati's basketball Bearcats for the national collegiate title, began taking aim on the rematch today by first zeroing in on Wake Forest.

The Buckeyes, who lost a 70-65 overtime thriller to Cincy a year ago for the title, meet with the torrid Deacons in the first game of the semifinal match this Friday night in Louisville's Freedom Hall.

Cincinnati, just as eager to make it two in a row over its intrastate rival, meets surprising UCLA in the nightcap. The winners play Saturday night for the title and it will be surprising if the Bucks and Bears are out.

NIT Continues

While the week of waiting and wondering is going on, the fur will fly in New York National Invitation Tournament, picking up again Tuesday night with the last quarter-final pairing. Bradley, which came to the NIT after losing a playoff battle with Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley Conference's NCAA berth, takes on Duquesne and St. John's plays Holy Cross.

The winners will play each other in one semifinal game on Thursday night, while Loyola of Chicago and Dayton meet in the other game. Loyola smothered Temple 75-64 and Dayton's onrushing Flyers easily defeated Houston 94-77 in quarter-final games last Saturday night.

Both Bradley and St. John's drew byes. Duquesne, which beat the Braves only two weeks ago in a regular season game, defeated Navy 70-58 and Holy Cross edged Colorado State University 72-71 in first-round games.

The semifinal winners meet for the title on Saturday afternoon, in a game that will be televised nationally — NBC.

No sooner had Ohio State and Cincinnati reached their respective dressing rooms after the 1961 title game, than talk of a rematch began, and it has persisted all year. Now comes the weekend of decision.

Lucas Stars

The Buckeyes, with a 21-1 season record, took the NCAA Mid-East regional title at Iowa City on Saturday night with a 74-64 victory over Kentucky's young Wildcats as All-America Jerry Lucas collected 33 points and played his usual flawless floor game.

The two supposed sacrificial lambs—Wake Forest and UCLA—were far from unimpressive. The Deacons, behind All-America Len Chappell, whipped Villanova 79-69 for the Eastern regional title, and UCLA's Bruins put the clamps on 7-foot Mel Counts and rolled over Oregon State 88-69 for the Far West title.

The smaller colleges' two main titles were wrapped up over the weekend, with Mount St. Mary's getting the NCAA college division crown by beating Sacramento State 58-57 in overtime and Prairie View knocking off favored Westminster (Pa.) 62-53 for NAIA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He was referring to the Rangers' scramble with Detroit for fourth place in the National Hockey League and the last playoff spot. Detroit, which beat Chicago 4-1 Sunday night, now trails by one point, 59-60, and has a game in hand.

Boston surprised Montreal 6-2 in the other game.

Only fourth place still is in contention as the league goes into the last week of the regular season. Montreal clinched its fifth straight regular season title with a 2-0 triumph over New York Saturday night. Toronto is set in second place and Chicago in third.

New York now has only two games left to play, in Boston Thursday and at home against Chicago Sunday. Detroit visits Chicago Tuesday, goes to Toronto Saturday and closes at home Sunday.

In an individual race, New York's Andy Bathgate picked up one point in his fight for the league's scoring title. He assisted on New York's second goal and now has 82 points. Chicago's Bobby Hull was shut out in Detroit and has 80. Hull scored his 47th goal of the season in Toronto Saturday and tied a league record by scoring at least one goal in nine consecutive games.

Ramsey Wins Three, 3 Brothers Take Two

Charles Ramsey Corp. keglers moved into second place in the Hudson Valley league race by sweeping their match from Rhoda Arms of Newburgh Saturday night at the Bowlerama.

Three Brothers Egg Farms won a pair from the Ellenville Channel Master team, dropping Ellenville from second to third and moving Three Brothers into a tie for fourth with Miron Lumber but still only one game out of second and a half game out of third.

Carpino Raps 664

Vince (Chick) Carpino anchored Charles Ramsey to the sweep with 207-256-201-664. Jim Berardi stroked 226-200-213-639 and Joe Ausanio had 179-204-237-620. Frank Olenick was the best for Rhoda Arms, hitting 242-203-192-637 and Ed Vradenburgh scored 177-210-235-622.

The local side hit consistent games of 974, 1081 and 1011 against 960, 949 and 1006. The last game was decided in the final frame when anchorman Wally Gerken of Newburgh missed a spare. A mark would have turned the tide.

Bob Shelightner and Tom Carlino led Three Brothers to the decision. Shelightner rapped 213-222-196 for 630 while Carlino added 165-223-217-605. Dick Exner made 233-197-173-605 and Frank Brink had 203-206-191-600 for the Channel Masters. Tim Bilyeu, who went in with a 200 average, slumped to 484.

The teams swap home alleys this week, the final one of the season and that battle for second is still a wide open affair.

Warriors Now Within Reach Of Celts Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors, hurrying toward a long-awaited crack at the champion Boston Celtics, can reach that point in the National Basketball Association playoffs tonight with a victory over Syracuse's worn-out Nats.

Upset by the Nats last season, the Warriors took a commanding 2-0 lead in the current best-of-5 series in the Eastern Division semifinals playoffs with an easy 97-82 victory at Syracuse Sunday.

At the same time, the Detroit Pistons, beaten 129-107 by Cincinnati Saturday, turned the tables on the Royals for a 118-107 victory Sunday. It gave them a 2-1 edge in the best-of-5 Western Division series that will decide the opponent for Los Angeles, the division champion.

Wilt Chamberlain's 50-points a game average suffered a jolt when he was held to 28 by the Nats, but it was enough to make him the game's top scorer. Syracuse held a 27-26 lead after the first period but Philadelphia had built a 54-43 lead by halftime.

It was a battle at Detroit until the first minutes of the third quarter when a jumper by Don Ohl put the Pistons ahead 43-53 and Ray Scott followed with two quick baskets. Four Pistons hit for 20 or more points with Bailey Howell getting 27, Gene Shue 25, Scott 22 and Ohl 21.

Swedes Capture Hockey Honors

COLORADO SPRINGS — (AP) —The Swedish team takes off today on the road back home with the World Amateur Ice Hockey Championship, a flock of other honors and every indication of being a selfish host in the title department of the 1963 tournament.

"We are going to be tough to beat," candidly said Swedish coach Arne Stromberg whose darkhorse squad whipped both Canada's defending titlists and the United States in a seven-game sweep of the 11-day meet.

"The Canadians, who finished second with a 6-1 record after trouncing the Americans 6-1 Sunday, and the Yanks, face a number of thorny problems in their quest to win the 1963 championship trophy.

The Canadians, still complaining over the officiating in their 5-3 key loss to Sweden, will see even more delicate calls made in Stockholm next March. Both the Canadians and the Americans prefer the rugged, slambang style of play normal in North America. The Europeans lean to precision passing and little if any body checking.

The Yanks finished third—an improvement over their sixth place finish in 1961—with a 5-2 record.

Secretary Agnes Gahagan, Goshen, and treasurer Oscar Wein, Port Jervis, will retain those posts for another year.

The next meeting of the chapter is slated for Thursday, May 31, at Monticello Raceway. It will coincide with the opening of the Sullivan County track on the same night.

Pipers Leading In Eastern Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two victories over the weekend have enabled the Cleveland Pipers to take over first place in the tight Eastern Division race of the American Basketball League. The Pipers lead runnerup Pittsburgh by one-half game.

The Pittsburgh Rens whipped the New York Tapers 118-104 and the San Francisco Saints edged the Kansas City Steers 123-121 in overtime in Sunday's other action.

A last period splurge carried Cleveland to its triumph over Chicago in a game that was tied 24 times. Johnny Cox led Cleveland's scoring attack with 24 points. Tony Jackson of the Majors scored 31.

Ken Sears collected six straight points in the overtime to pace San Francisco to its success over Kansas City's Western Division leaders. Bill Bridges topped the Steers with 30 points and Sears led the Saints, who had seven players in double scoring figures, with 23.

Middlecoff Now Close to Leaders In Golf Tourney

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Cary Middlecoff, twice winner of the St. Petersburg open golf championship, is applying pressure to the leaders in a bid for his third round with a 71 for a total eight-under-par 208.

He was just one stroke behind the leaders, Don Fairfield of Champaign, Ill., and Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex.

The 41-year-old professional, who ranks second in over-all money winnings since 1947 with $283,182, drew the largest gallery on the course in the third round.

Boynton, leader during the first two rounds, blew his margin by carding a one-over-par 36-37—73. Fairfield collected six birdied over the 18 holes for a 66, low round of the day.

Residents Asked To Spare Water For Inspection

Residents of the Town of Ulster Water district are reminded of a request by water officials that they use as little water as possible Tuesday during the time one of the waterworks pumps will be out of commission for inspection.

The engineers of the Town water district have arranged to pull the pump for a precautionary evamination. Vital spare parts are on hand in case they are needed.

This inspection is being made to determine whether there has been any appreciable wear which may necessitate repairs.

Residents are requested to use as little water as is required during the day, for even though there is sufficient storage supply to serve all necessary needs, care is requested so that an ample supply may be available in the event of a fire.

M-WC Vols Quell Cementon Fire, Save Post Office

Quick response by West Camp pumper truck of Malden-West Camp Fire Company and more than 20 volunteers extinguished a fire Sunday afternoon which threatened the Cementon Post Office on Route 9W in that Greene County community.

William R. Wrolsen, past M-WC chief and first driver of the tank truck said the volunteers responded at 1:35 p. m. when it was reported that Ceryanek's shed was on fire behind the post office. Volunteers under Assistant Chief Luther Emerick and Lieut. Harry L. Moose contained the blaze to the small shed. Fire officials believe the shed caught fire from a grass fire started nearby. The roof and side of the shed were burned but the contents were reported undamaged, fire officials said.

The fire was under control in short order and Catskill Fire Department, responsible for the Cementon area was not called.

Shop-Rite Chain Opens New Store Here Wednesday

Shop-Rite Super Markets will add another link to its rapidly growing chain with the opening of a new unit near Kingston in the Town of Ulster Wednesday 10 a. m.

The new market is in the Big V shopping mart on Route 9W and Boice's Lane at the former site of Airport Inn.

The new market's total area covers 33,000 square feet and the selling area, 24,000 square feet, will be equipped with the newest display fixtures available.

Emphasis will be placed on Shop-Rite brand and famous brand groceries, frozen foods, dairy, and service and self-esrvice meats. Among the unit's special features will be service delicatessen and fresh fish departments, discount soft goods, toiletries and hardware, and a prescription pharmacy attended by two registered pharmacists. For shopping convenience the unit will be fully air-conditioned, have numerous high-speed checkouts, and parking for hundreds of cars.

Customers may shop 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday and until 10 p. m. on Friday.

An announcement from chain headquarters, Elizabethport, N. J. said Shop-Rite has continued its policy of giving only the lowest possible prices by passing its savings on to the consumer and does not use stamps or giveaways.

Wakefern Food Corp., is the parent organization of Shop-Rite Super Markets, the warehousing and distribution center through which Shop-Rite members buy. Because Wakefern is a cooperative endeavor, its profits, accruing from volume purchases, are turned back to the retailer.

Today its headquarters alone account for over 6,000,000 cubic feet of space with six additional buildings planned and a service list of over 200 stores.

SEC Urges Stock Firms to Detail Public Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission is asking about 50 corporations to detail all recent public relations dealings with financial writers, securities analysts and brokers.

The aim is to find out more about the impact of promotional campaigns on stock prices. Also, the agency wants to know if false or misleading information has been circulated in an attempt to manipulate market prices.

Announcing its move today, the SEC said it is sending the corporations a special questionnaire "in order to ascertain the nature and extent of their financial public relations activities during the past few years."

Replies will be analyzed as part of the commission's broad study of the securities industry, ordered by Congress last year.

Corporations were told that their inclusion in the study "should not be regarded as any reflection upon your company or anyone connected with it, or upon any public relations firm or consultant which may have been retained by your company."

Officials said the corporations represent a broad cross-section. They range from very small to very large firms and the markets for their securities vary from the New York Stock Exchange to local over-the-counter markets. The SEC declined to identify the companies questioned.

Ellenville Police Probe Theft of Car

Theft Saturday night of the car of Ellenville attorney and Justice of the Peace Alex J. Nirenberg is under investigation by Ellenville village and State Police from the Ellenville sub-station.

The car was found "cracked-up" on Route 52 about three-quarters of a mile west of the village at about 3:30 a. m. Sunday. The car was apparently traveling east on a downgrade when the operator went off the highway on the right, over an embankment and the car overturned.

Blast Destroys Business Block

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—To a terrified waitress it was just a loud sucking noise. To a fire captain it was a ball of fire followed by a deafening boom.

Many thought it was an air attack; some thought it was a direct bomb hit.

These were among first impressions of the unexplained explosion that demolished a business block in North Spokane Saturday night with a loss that may run $1 million or more. The thunderous noise was heard for 20 miles.

Houses trembled all over the city. Windows were broken and plaster cracked for blocks around. Display windows miles away were shattered.

2 Hurt in City Traffic; 3 Young Children Injured

Two persons were injured in city traffic mishaps Sunday and three children struck while in the path of a car backing from a downtown driveway were treated for injuries Saturday.

Peter Colikos, 17, of 151 Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, reported a cut lip and loose teeth after a two-car mishap at 4:14 p. m. Sunday at Broadway and Dedrick Street.

Officers Otto Short and Anthony Turck reported that a car driven by James Peterson, 40, of Mill Road, Hyde Park, had stopped in a traffic line and the Coliukos car behind collided with it. The driver of the latter claimed his brakes failed.

Florence VanWagenen, 40, of 220 Washington Avenue, reported knee injuries after an accident near 315 Broadway Sunday morning.

Police said a car owned by Fatum Taxi, Inc., 52 O'Neil Street, and driven by Richard Howard Mertine, collided with the parked car of Raymond Palen, 315 Broadway. Officers Edward Edwards and Frank Kennelly investigated.

Reported injured in the Saturday mishap as the car backed from a driveway at 131 Hasbrouck Avenue were Darline Otis, 11, of 130 Hasbrouck Avenue; injured right hand; Brenda Otis, 6, right foot, and Marine Otis, 2, a head injury. They were treated at Kingston Hospital.

The car which backed from the driveway, police said, was owned by Matthew Bogovich, of Richmond Park, was driven by Arthur Roskoskie, 55, of Richmond Park. Officers Raymond Wells and Thomas Carpino investigated.

Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Frederick S. Dunn, 68, professor emeritus of international law and practice at Princeton University, died Saturday.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Frank Orth, 82, who left show business in 1959 because of throat cancer after more than 60 years as a performer, died Saturday. He was most recently known as Inspector Farraday in the Boston Blackie television series.

NEW YORK (AP) — Fletcher Godfrey, 45, president of Arrowhead Petroleum Corp., and director of several firms died Sunday after about three months' illness.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you want to build a better banquet, get the writers to do it.

Hollywood's annual awards dinner can be blooming bores, but the yearly blowout of the Writers Guild of America is always the exception. Reason: Awards are at a minimum, entertainment at a maximum.

Costs in Orbit

The cast is such that no television show could afford. Stars love to appear at this dinner; they know an actor's best friend is his writer.

Blackout: A beautiful girl waltzes over the dance floor with two men. Says one male: "Gosh, Liz—I had no idea Eddie was so jealous."

Bob Newhart did a monologue as a McCook, Neb., theater owner urging Walt Disney to put some sex in his movies. "Why not turn Tennessee Williams loose in the Crand Canyon?" he suggested. "After all, nobody's even touched smut in the great outdoors!"

Award for Shirley

Bob Hope came on with his usual aplomb to present awards—for the best nudies. Among them: To a technician "for his development of the rotating, three-wheel, electronic police alert for location shooting."

Shirley MacLaine accepted the award for best actress in a nudie, which she assured was not a runaway production—"it was shot entirely in American cellars, attics, backyards and condemned property."

Announcement on the loudspeaker: "A golden globe has been found in the men's room. Will Mr. George C. Scott please pick it up?"

Eddie Albert, Jackie Cooper, Jack Warden and writer Danny Arnold joined in a song called "Just an Honest Mistake." Playing film executives, they cited a few of their "honest mistakes": "The Lady L," "Snow White and the Three Stooges," 3D, Oreste Kirkop, Anna Sten, "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick" and selling old features to television.

Vincent Price narrated a sketch that purported to offer evidence that Shakespeare's plays were actually written in collaboration with Francis Bacon. Fred MacMurray played the hard-working, long-suffering Bacon while Carl Reiner's Shakespeare was a free-swinging rake who hogged the credit: "We'll make it 'written by William Shakespeare and friend.'"

Shirley Jones and Janis Paige closed the show with a rousing chorus number from "West Side Story" comparing Hollywood vs. foreign filming. A line: "Girls in Tahiti are darlin' but they're all talking like Marlon." Yes, it was quite a show.

An Albuquerque housewife was delighted when an attractive young girl answered her ad for a maid. Hired on the spot, the girl did the dishes and retired early. Next morning the lady found her packing. "I've a confession to make," the girl said, "You see, I'm going through to California, and I couldn't get a single overnight accommodation in Albuquerque. So I bought an afternoon paper and answered your ad."

Residents Asked To Spare Water For Inspection

Residents of the Town of Ulster Water district are reminded of a request by water officials that they use as little water as possible Tuesday during the time one of the waterworks pumps will be out of commission for inspection.

The engineers of the Town water district have arranged to pull the pump for a precautionary evamination. Vital spare parts are on hand in case they are needed.

This inspection is being made to determine whether there has been any appreciable wear which may necessitate repairs.

Residents are requested to use as little water as is required during the day, for even though there is sufficient storage supply to serve all necessary needs, care is requested so that an ample supply may be available in the event of a fire.

M-WC Vols Quell Cementon Fire, Save Post Office

Quick response by West Camp pumper truck of Malden-West Camp Fire Company and more than 20 volunteers extinguished a fire Sunday afternoon which threatened the Cementon Post Office on Route 9W in that Greene County community.

William R. Wrolsen, past M-WC chief and first driver of the tank truck said, the volunteers responded at 1:35 p. m. when it was reported that Ceryanek's shed was on fire behind the post office. Volunteers under Assistant Chief Luther Emerick and Lieut. Harry L. Moose contained the blaze to the small shed. Fire officials believe the shed caught fire from a grass fire started nearby. The roof and side of the shed were burned but the contents were reported undamaged, fire officials said.

The fire was under control in short order and Catskill Fire Department, responsible for the Cementon area was not called.

Shop-Rite Chain Opens New Store Here Wednesday

Shop-Rite Super Markets will add another link to its rapidly growing chain with the opening of a new unit near Kingston in the Town of Ulster Wednesday 10 a. m.

The new market is in the Big V shopping mart on Route 9W and Boice's Lane at the former site of Airport Inn.

The new market's total area covers 33,000 square feet and the selling area, 24,000 square feet, will be equipped with the newest display fixtures available.

Emphasis will be placed on Shop-Rite brand and famous brand groceries, frozen foods, dairy, and service and self-esrvice meats. Among the unit's special features will be service delicatessen and fresh fish departments, discount soft goods, toiletries and hardware, and a prescription pharmacy attended by two registered pharmacists. For shopping convenience the unit will be fully air-conditioned, have numerous high-speed checkouts, and parking for hundreds of cars.

Customers may shop 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday and until 10 p. m. on Friday.

An announcement from chain headquarters, Elizabethport, N. J. said Shop-Rite has continued its policy of giving only the lowest possible prices by passing its savings on to the consumer and does not use stamps or giveaways.

A chain-wide sale has been scheduled to celebrate the opening of Kingston Shop-Rite market.

Wakefern Food Corp., is the parent organization of Shop-Rite Super Markets, the warehousing and distribution center through which Shop-Rite members buy. Because Wakefern is a cooperative endeavor, its profits, accruing from volume purchases, are turned back to the retailer.

Today its headquarters alone account for over 6,000,000 cubic feet of space with six additional buildings planned and a service list of over 200 stores.

SEC Urges Stock Firms to Detail Public Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission is asking about 50 corporations to detail all recent public relations dealings with financial writers, securities analysts and brokers.

The aim is to find out more about the impact of promotional campaigns on stock prices. Also, the agency wants to know if false or misleading information has been circulated in an attempt to manipulate market prices.

Announcing its move today, the SEC said it is sending the corporations a special questionnaire "in order to ascertain the nature and extent of their financial public relations activities during the past few years."

Replies will be analyzed as part of the commission's broad study of the securities industry, ordered by Congress last year.

Corporations were told that their inclusion in the study "should not be regarded as any reflection upon your company or anyone connected with it, or upon any public relations firm or consultant which may have been retained by your company."

Officials said the corporations represent a broad cross-section. They range from very small to very large firms and the markets for their securities vary from the New York Stock Exchange to local over-the-counter markets. The SEC declined to identify the companies questioned.

Ellenville Police Probe Theft of Car

Theft Saturday night of the car of Ellenville attorney and Justice of the Peace Alex J. Nirenberg is under investigation by Ellenville village and State Police from the Ellenville sub-station.

The car was found "cracked-up" on Route 52 about three-quarters of a mile west of the village at about 3:30 a. m. Sunday. The car was apparently traveling east on a downgrade when the operator went off the highway on the right, over an embankment and the car overturned.

Blast Destroys Business Block

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—To a terrified waitress it was just a loud sucking noise. To a fire captain it was a ball of fire followed by a deafening boom.

Many thought it was an air attack; some thought it was a direct bomb hit.

These were among first impressions of the unexplained explosion that demolished a business block in North Spokane Saturday night with a loss that may run $1 million or more. The thunderous noise was heard for 20 miles.

Houses trembled all over the city. Windows were broken and plaster cracked for blocks around. Display windows miles away were shattered.

2 Hurt in City Traffic; 3 Young Children Injured

Two persons were injured in city traffic mishaps Sunday and three children struck while in the path of a car backing from a downtown driveway were treated for injuries Saturday.

Peter Colikos, 17, of 151 Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, reported a cut lip and loose teeth after a two-car mishap at 4:14 p. m. Sunday at Broadway and Dedrick Street.

Officers Otto Short and Anthony Turck reported that a car driven by James Peterson, 40, of Mill Road, Hyde Park, had stopped in a traffic line and the Coliukos car behind collided with it. The driver of the latter claimed his brakes failed.

Florence VanWagenen, 40, of 220 Washington Avenue, reported knee injuries after an accident near 315 Broadway Sunday morning.

Police said a car owned by Fatum Taxi, Inc., 52 O'Neil Street, and driven by Richard Howard Mertine, collided with the parked car of Raymond Palen, 315 Broadway. Officers Edward Edwards and Frank Kennelly investigated.

Reported injured in the Saturday mishap as the car backed from a driveway at 131 Hasbrouck Avenue were Darline Otis, 11, of 130 Hasbrouck Avenue; injured right hand; Brenda Otis, 6, right foot, and Marine Otis, 2, a head injury. They were treated at Kingston Hospital.

The car which backed from the driveway, police said, was owned by Matthew Bogovich, of Richmond Park, was driven by Arthur Roskoskie, 55, of Richmond Park. Officers Raymond Wells and Thomas Carpino investigated.

Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Frederick S. Dunn, 68, professor emeritus of international law and practice at Princeton University, died Saturday.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Frank Orth, 82, who left show business in 1959 because of throat cancer after more than 60 years as a performer, died Saturday. He was most recently known as Inspector Farraday in the Boston Blackie television series.

NEW YORK (AP) — Fletcher Godfrey, 45, president of Arrowhead Petroleum Corp., and director of several firms died Sunday after about three months' illness.

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you want to build a better banquet, get the writers to do it.

Hollywood's annual awards dinner can be blooming bores, but the yearly blowout of the Writers Guild of America is always the exception. Reason: Awards are at a minimum, entertainment at a maximum.

Costs in Orbit

The cast is such that no television show could afford. Stars love to appear at this dinner; they know an actor's best friend is his writer.

The 14th annual show stuck pins in everything from runaway production to nudie movies.

Blackout: A beautiful girl waltzes over the dance floor with two men. Says one male: "Gosh, Liz—I had no idea Eddie was so jealous."

Bob Newhart did a monologue as a McCook, Neb., theater owner urging Walt Disney to put some sex in his movies. "Why not turn Tennessee Williams loose in the Crand Canyon?" he suggested. "After all, nobody's even touched smut in the great outdoors!"

Award for Shirley

Bob Hope came on with his usual aplomb to present awards—for the best nudies. Among them: To a technician "for his development of the rotating, three-wheel, electronic police alert for location shooting."

Shirley MacLaine accepted the award for best actress in a nudie, which she assured was not a runaway production—"it was shot entirely in American cellars, attics, backyards and condemned property."

Announcement on the loudspeaker: "A golden globe has been found in the men's room. Will Mr. George C. Scott please pick it up?"

Eddie Albert, Jackie Cooper, Jack Warden and writer Danny Arnold joined in a song called "Just an Honest Mistake." Playing film executives, they cited a few of their "honest mistakes": "The Lady L," "Snow White and the Three Stooges," 3D, Oreste Kirkop, Anna Sten, "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick" and selling old features to television.

Vincent Price narrated a sketch that purported to offer evidence that Shakespeare's plays were actually written in collaboration with Francis Bacon. Fred MacMurray played the hard-working, long-suffering Bacon while Carl Reiner's Shakespeare was a free-swinging rake who hogged the credit: "We'll make it 'written by William Shakespeare and friend.'"

10 New Cardinals Created By Pope; Ceremonies Start

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII created 10 new cardinals today and at the same time spoke sorrowfully of the "new slavery" being established in vast regions of the world ruled by communism.

The Pope addressed a secret consistory of 30 members of the College of Cardinals who concurred in his new selections to their ranks. It was the first in a series of ceremonies that will culminate in a public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica Thursday at which the pontiff places the broad-brimmed galero—the hat symbolic of the cardinal's rank—on the head of each new prince of the church.

The appointments raised the sacred college to an all-time high of 87 members.

None of the 10 new cardinals is from the United States. Three are Italians, and two are South Americans. The others are Irish, Spanish, Portuguese, Belgian and Syrian.

In his address to the consistory, the 80-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church expressed profound sorrow for the condition of the church in countries where, he said, it suffered trouble and sacrifice and elementary human freedoms were lacking.

The pontiff pleaded also for greater social justice in general, mentioning especially the arduous road that confronts the new nations of the world.

The Pope expressed concern lest the condition of the church in Communist-dominated lands might impede bishops from those areas from attending the Ecumenical Council of the church. It opens here on Oct. 11, a great Christian gathering expected to give new impetus to the movement for world Christian unity.

Police Say Man Admits Fires to Keep Dept. Busy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a man admitted setting 15 garage fires and turning in 15 false alarms because he didn't like to see firemen "sitting around a firehouse doing nothing."

"They should be working," said Florian R. Wisniewski, 26, according to a police statement Saturday.

Wisniewski was charged with third-degree arson and with turning in false alarms. Police said he set most of the fires on weekends during the last three months.

Wisniewski was released last December from the State Agricultural and Industrial School at Industry, near Rochester. He had been sent there 11 years ago as a juvenile delinquent, police said.

Stratton Backer Blasts Buffalo Boost for Wagner

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City will be the Democratic candidate for governor in November, says Erie County Democratic Chairman Peter Crotty.

In a letter prepared Saturday for distribution among party workers in the county, Crotty said:

"With Mayor Wagner at the head of the ticket, and I feel certain he will be. . .,we will restore to our state government the dignity and sense of purpose which has been lacking for four years."

Wagner has said he is not a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

In Schenectady, the home town of Samuel S. Stratton, an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, Schenectady County Democratic chairman George Palmer today said:

"I think that Mayor Wagner is a man of his word and. . .is not a candidate for governor. . .Mr. Crotty wants to draft him so that he can get patronage to repair his own tottering political fortunes.

Matteawan Guard, Ulster Resident Dies of Injuries

A 29-year-old Kerhonkson man, a correction officer at Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, Beacon, died Saturday afternoon at Highland Hospital, Beacon, of injuries suffered in a traffic accident earlier in the day.

Fishkill state police identified the victim as Bartley Julius Brooks, Kerhonkson, who had resigned his position at the Southern Dutchess County institution and was due to leave on Wednesday. He formerly had been employed at the Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch.

Dutchess County Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. William Thompson, Rhinebeck, said Brooks died of a lacerated brain. A preliminary finding of accidental death was reported pending a formal inquest.

Troopers said Brooks' convertible swerved across a road on the state institution grounds early Saturday and hit a tree. Fire broke out in the damaged vehicle and flames were extinguished by Matteawan firemen.

Brooks' death was the 12th highway fatality in Dutchess County in 1962. The 12th traffic death in 1961 was recorded on July 7. The 12th road death the previous year occurred on Sept. 3, and that death toll was reached in 1959 on June 24. The 12th Dutchess highway death in 1958 occurred May 10.

Faulty Ring Ends Test of Balloon

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—The Stargazer balloon project batting average has dropped to .333 because of a faulty castiron ring.

The ring around the neck of balloon No. 3 snapped Sunday as the 400-foot, helium-inflated contraption rose 100 feet off the ground during an Air Force launch attempt. The balloon ripped open.

The balloon was supposed to carry an instrument package 80,000 feet high, photographing the heavens as it soared toward the Pacific.

Balloon No. 1 exploded prematurely over the High Sierra several weeks ago. No. 2, launched a week ago, worked successfully.

Lions Club Urges Support of Show

The Kingston Lions Club's contributions to civic, social and moral welfare of the city are made possible through public support of the forthcoming 15th annual Lions Industrial Exposition and Home show, April 10 through the 14th at the National Guard Armory on Manor Avenue, Stuart Munson, exposition chairman, said today.

Munson listed among the most important contributions the award of $250 to the Ulster County Community Chest.

The Lions have promoted for years a successful Christmas party for 150 to 200 children of the Kingston area, with each child receiving a valuable gift. The club has equipped a physiotherapy room at Kingston Hospital, and established a scholarship at the New Paltz State Teachers College for a Kingston resident.

Munson said the club last week turned over a $100 check to the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dairyman Denies Business Rumors

Pratt Boice, proprietor of Boice Brothers Dairy, Town of Ulster, today denied a rumor which has gained circulation to the effect that he was disposing of his dairy farm and going out of business.

Boice, who is president of the Ulster County Savings Institution, said the rumor was unfounded and said he had no intention of going out of the dairy business. A recent cutback in purchase of surplus milk from other dairymen, may have given rise to the unfounded rumor, Boice said.

"I am not going out of the dairy business, at least I don't know anything about it," Boice said.

10 New Cardinals Created By Pope; Ceremonies Start

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII created 10 new cardinals today and at the same time spoke sorrowfully of the "new slavery" being established in vast regions of the world ruled by communism.

The Pope addressed a secret consistory of 30 members of the College of Cardinals who concurred in his new selections to their ranks. It was the first in a series of ceremonies that will culminate in a public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica Thursday at which the pontiff places the broad-brimmed galero—the hat symbolic of the cardinal's rank—on the head of each new prince of the church.

The appointments raised the sacred college to an all-time high of 87 members.

None of the 10 new cardinals is from the United States. Three are Italians, and two are South Americans. The others are Irish, Spanish, Portuguese, Belgian and Syrian.

In his address to the consistory, the 80-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church expressed profound sorrow for the condition of the church in countries where, he said, it suffered trouble and sacrifice and elementary human freedoms were lacking.

The pontiff pleaded also for greater social justice in general, mentioning especially the arduous road that confronts the new nations of the world.

The Pope expressed concern lest the condition of the church in Communist-dominated lands might impede bishops from those areas from attending the Ecumenical Council of the church. It opens here on Oct. 11, a great Christian gathering expected to give new impetus to the movement for world Christian unity.

Police Say Man Admits Fires to Keep Dept. Busy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Police said a man admitted setting 15 garage fires and turning in 15 false alarms because he didn't like to see firemen "sitting around a firehouse doing nothing."

"They should be working," said Florian R. Wisniewski, 26, according to a police statement Saturday.

Wisniewski was charged with third-degree arson and with turning in false alarms. Police said he set most of the fires on weekends during the last three months.

Wisniewski was released last December from the State Agricultural and Industrial School at Industry, near Rochester. He had been sent there 11 years ago as a juvenile delinquent, police said.

In a letter prepared Saturday for distribution among party workers in the county, Crotty said:

"With Mayor Wagner at the head of the ticket, and I feel certain he will be. . .,we will restore to our state government the dignity and sense of purpose which has been lacking for four years."

Wagner has said he is not a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Matteawan Guard, Ulster Resident Dies of Injuries

A 29-year-old Kerhonkson man, a correction officer at Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, Beacon, died Saturday afternoon at Highland Hospital, Beacon, of injuries suffered in a traffic accident earlier in the day.

Fishkill state police identified the victim as Bartley Julius Brooks, Kerhonkson, who had resigned his position at the Southern Dutchess County institution and was due to leave on Wednesday. He formerly had been employed at the Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch.

Dutchess County Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. William Thompson, Rhinebeck, said Brooks died of a lacerated brain. A preliminary finding of accidental death was reported pending a formal inquest.

Troopers said Brooks' convertible swerved across a road on the state institution grounds early Saturday and hit a tree. Fire broke out in the damaged vehicle and flames were extinguished by Matteawan firemen.

Brooks' death was the 12th highway fatality in Dutchess County in 1962. The 12th traffic death in 1961 was recorded on July 7. The 12th road death the previous year occurred on Sept. 3, and that death toll was reached in 1959 on June 24. The 12th Dutchess highway death in 1958 occurred May 10.

Faulty Ring Ends Test of Balloon

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—The Stargazer balloon project batting average has dropped to .333 because of a faulty castiron ring.

The ring around the neck of balloon No. 3 snapped Sunday as the 400-foot, helium-inflated contraption rose 100 feet off the ground during an Air Force launch attempt. The balloon ripped open.

The balloon was supposed to carry an instrument package 80,000 feet high, photographing the heavens as it soared toward the Pacific.

Lions Club Urges Support of Show

The Kingston Lions Club's contributions to civic, social and moral welfare of the city are made possible through public support of the forthcoming 15th annual Lions Industrial Exposition and Home show, April 10 through the 14th at the National Guard Armory on Manor Avenue, Stuart Munson, exposition chairman, said today.

Munson listed among the most important contributions the award of $250 to the Ulster County Community Chest.

The Lions have promoted for years a successful Christmas party for 150 to 200 children of the Kingston area, with each child receiving a valuable gift. The club has equipped a physiotherapy room at Kingston Hospital, and established a scholarship at the New Paltz State Teachers College for a Kingston resident.

Munson said the club last week turned over a $100 check to the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dairyman Denies Business Rumors

Pratt Boice, proprietor of Boice Brothers Dairy, Town of Ulster, today denied a rumor which has gained circulation to the effect that he was disposing of his dairy farm and going out of business.

Boice, who is president of the Ulster County Savings Institution, said the rumor was unfounded and said he had no intention of going out of the dairy business. A recent cutback in purchase of surplus milk from other dairymen, may have given rise to the unfounded rumor, Boice said.

"I am not going out of the dairy business, at least I don't know anything about it," Boice said.
